THE LUMBER TAX.

In preparing the senate bill as a substitute for the Mills bill, the duty on lumber is found to be a stumbling block. Senator Plumb and other senators from the prairie states, insist on the abolition or the reduction of this duty in obedience to the urgent call of the people they represent.

Whenever the Western frontiersman undertakes to make for himself a home, to till the soil, to carry on the business of life, he needs lumber for his cabin, he needs lumber for his fence, he needs lumber for his wagon or cart, he needs lumber for his plow, he needs lumber for almost every purpose in his daily life.

And this crude product, of which he has constant need, should come into his hands without paying tribute to the lumber barons. In preparing the senate bill it is found that the demand for revision and reduction is equally urgent and more widely spread than the high protection demand, and the senate is between two fires.

Whether this ovation is in recognition of his self-abnegation, or whether it is designed as a successful send off to the campaign in which the hero will be a leading actor, is of no great moment. It is certainly a gratifying testimonial of his enduring hold on the hearts of his countrymen; it must be a great pride to himself and the latter are proud to honor him.

THE BLAINE RECEPTION.

The good steamship, City of New York, steamed in New York harbor early on Friday morning, bearing the returning statesman, James G. Blaine and family. Immense preparations were made to give this distinguished American a "grand ovation."

All the details of the reception seem to have been successfully carried out. The hero of the celebration was found happy and in good health, the speeches were all appropriate and felicitous, and the popular enthusiasm seems to have been unbounded.

This renunciation in an ambitious statesman is certainly edifying. When Wolsey was cast down from his towering height by his monarch, he was so impressed with the vanity of human wishes, that in the bitterness of his humility he exclaimed, Vain pomp and glory of the world, I hate thee!

But Mr. Blaine has no such cause for misanthropy. He is admitted by political friend and foe to be the most popular American; he is ranked as our first statesman; but for his persistent refusal he would have been chosen for standard bearer by the republican convention; and this hearty acclaim when he reaches his native shore is an honor such as a private citizen but rarely receives.

And here he is contented to stop short. Twice he was defeated in national convention by schism in the Republican ranks; but his friends never failed in his support, and when his name was a third time presented it carried the convention by storm. He made a gallant fight for president and barely missed winning the transcendent prize.

Whether this ovation is in recognition of his self-abnegation, or whether it is designed as a successful send off to the campaign in which the hero will be a leading actor, is of no great moment. It is certainly a gratifying testimonial of his enduring hold on the hearts of his countrymen; it must be a great pride to himself and the latter are proud to honor him.

As Seen Outside of Salem.

The Albany Democrat says: The Statesman is engaged from day to day in making inexcusably dirty and brutal attacks upon Col. Lee, of the Indian school at Chemawa. The CAPITAL JOURNAL, which is a very decent republican paper, thus exposes the personal spite which actuates the Statesman: "But every intelligent person knows that this brutal and unprovoked assault on Supt. Lee is prompted by personal spite and partisan rancor. He is a democrat, appointed by a democratic administration; and this is his unpardonable sin. He has been advertising for bids lately and his patronage went to his own party organ. This seems to have filled the Statesman editor with frenzy, and his ravings the last week or two betray his uncontrollable mood. Mr. Lee is very handsomely endorsed by his fellow-countrymen in Indiana, and the merchants of this city, with whom he has dealing, speak highly of his personal qualities and business integrity."

It Reminds.

If between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. to-day any of the public discover the P. O. closed let them not condemn our local patriot P. M. but commend the Democratic Post Master General, Dan Dickerson, who made the order in appropriate recognition of the fact that the remains of our national hero, Gen. Phil Sheridan, were being carried to their earthly resting place.

FRUIT EVAPORATORS.

Salem Enterprise Adequate to Dispose of Our Increasing Crops.

The people of Oregon are beginning to wake up to a realization of the wealth there is in the fruit that grows so prolifically and with so little cultivation or care. California with all her fine climate, long, dry summers and glare of sunshine is not to be allowed to monopolize the great industry of fruit drying.

The JOURNAL has recently spoken in praise of the enterprise displayed by the big establishment in our city for drying fruit on a large scale. Now it is pleasing to note smaller but no less worthy efforts in the same line.

H. S. Jory & Son, of South Salem have patented a portable fruit dryer of their own invention that has gained high praises and first premiums at our own and neighboring state fairs. A cut of the machine can be seen in our advertising columns. The evaporated fruit also speaks for the machines. The increasing sale of the apparatus is another convincing testimonial of its efficiency. Mr. Jory is now at Molalla erecting a No. 3 drier with a capacity of twenty bushels per day for Mr. A. Gray. This is the tenth disposed of during the season by this firm. One has been put up for Mr. P. M. Rhinerson at the mouth of the Clackamas with a capacity of 100 bushels per day. Mr. Oliver Jory is putting up another one on the Columbia river, 30 miles above Vancouver, in Washington Territory. And enquiries are being constantly received that indicate an increased demand. Salem may indulge in a justifiable pride in this sending out so many valuable machines, invented and manufactured within her own borders.

Our Loss Seattle's Gain.

Salem and a large circle of friends lose a well known family by the removal of Mr. J. W. Spriggs and wife and children, who go to Seattle. Mr. Spriggs, has of late been practicing law in this city, and was at one time pastor of the Christian church. Subsequently he was ordained a Unitarian minister, but did not re-enter the pastorate. He has considerable ability as a speaker and a temperament and manner that win friends. He has secured a position in the county auditor's office at Seattle. Mrs. Spriggs and the young people also made many friends, who will unite in wishing all much happiness in their new home. Miss Flora is specially remembered by the JOURNAL, because she has held a case in the office.

The Delaware peach-growers are organizing a "peach trust." Something of the kind may be necessary, but we hope the movement will extend to the basket. We can even now trust a peach, with the good side up and the bad side down, with more confidence than we can the open faced basket with its broad, smiling top, a full face of honesty, and a lying bottom half way up the basket. The peach is all right; it's the pit that is too shallow.—Burdette.

"I left the business long ago," said the ex-umpire, "but it seems to follow me still, even to my own home." "How is that?" asked his auditor. "Well, my son works in the iron mill and my daughter is a fine young lady. I go home at night and find my boy on the strike and my girl gone on balls and parties. Even my wife gives me chicken wings—foul tips, you know. And the old umpire sighed.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Fashion.

and society, impose many privations upon the female sex, in the way of dress. First it is one freak, and then another, and from the fact, that many of them are unhealthy in the extreme, it is small wonder that "female weakness" is the too frequent result. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only positive cure for these complaints in existence, and thousands of women can bear witness to its efficacy. "Favorite Prescription" is the legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years. Dr. Pierce's Pills, or Anti-Bilious Granules, Laxative or Cathartic according to size of dose. The Great Land Enterprise.

Energetic measures are being adopted by the Mexican Land and Development Co., for the carrying out of the great enterprise to which we alluded in a recent issue in connection with the Grant of Land it has required in the state of Tamaulipas, Mexico. The hardest of the surveying is already done, and it is estimated that in a year, 4,800,000 acres can be surveyed, of which the Company will take 1,000,000 acres.

The land has navigable rivers, and harbors, and coal, and dense forests of fine timber, and petroleum, and precious metals, and other minerals; but suppose it had nothing at all except the bare land, and suppose that it does not bring more than the $1.25 per acre, you might figure what the profit will be on some million acres.

We know what land is. We can see it. It is always where we can examine it. The most successful companies for some years have been organized on land. The whole world knows what a boom there was in Southern California last year, and the many fortunes that were made. None of these begin to compare with this enterprise in magnitude, nor in its possibilities. It comprises not alone millions of acres of land but the opening for many industries. See the Company's advertisement elsewhere.
