

PERSONALS.

Bobby Henderson is the "midget" not "midnight" paper peddler.

Prof. Anderson, principal of the Silverton public schools, is in town.

S. P. Farrens is going east of the mountains to spy out the country.

Elder W. D. Humphrey, of Eugene, was on the train, bound for Portland to-day.

Mr. Steiner, about three miles east of the red barn, is building a fine house on his farm.

Bert Hatch and wife have been visiting the former's parents and went to-day to Corvallis.

Mrs. John Brooks is reported by her physicians as better than at any time during the past three weeks.

W. H. Byars and a corps of surveyors are on the new tract of the Oregon Land Company, subdividing it for the small fruit farms.

Dr. J. C. Byrd, having disposed of his dental business, and sold his house, is preparing to leave for Spokane about the middle of next month.

Misses Jennie and May Wood, daughters of T. A. Wood, go to Salem to attend the Conservatory of Music of the Willamette University Monday.—Portland News.

D. C. Sherman, County Clerk Babcock's deputy, is well qualified for the position, and as a G. A. R. man deserving of the place. He is on duty at the court house.

Rev. Fathers Barnabas and Leo, principal and teacher of the Mount Angel college, have been visiting Rev. J. S. White, rector of the Catholic church of this place.

Miss Ackerman, the noted W. C. T. U. speaker, who has just been lecturing through Alaska, will be in Salem, Sept. 11th. Perhaps her subject will be "San Francisco by Gaslight."

Miss Annie Wright is attending the Polk county teachers' examination at Dallas, as she expects to teach the Gibson school, on the west side of the river. Miss Wright is one of Salem's school girls that do well on educational interests credit.

Mrs. Sarah Pettijohn, at her residence on the river road to Hall's ferry is very sick. She has never fully recovered from the bruises and shock of being thrown from a vehicle some time ago and she is now threatened with paralysis.

Albert F. Gartner, special agent and adjuster of the Phoenix, Conn., and Home, N. Y., insurance companies, left for Eugene to-day after promptly and satisfactorily settling the losses occasioned by the late fires in the Moores' block.

Dr. G. L. Bateman, of Liano, Texas, himself a dentist, is visiting his old friend, Dr. Jennings. The doctor is a staunch democrat but he worked and voted for prohibitory amendment, when it was before the people of Texas. He may conclude to remain here.

Elder A. B. Wade, state evangelist of the Christian church, was in town to-day, via Silverton. He has word from the general agent of the Women's Missionary Board who will make a visit to various places in Oregon, beginning about Sept. 10th. It is Elder W. K. Azbill.

A big interest is manifested in the slightly lectures of Clark Braden, on the evidences of Christianity, in the grove at Silverton. The interest is intensified in view of the coming debates between him and B. F. Underwood. These will attract people for many miles around, for both are champions.

A. C. Chapman is back from Willowa county, having finished his job of building. He prefers the Willamette valley to the Willowa every time. He says that if people who write to him would address him by his best known name, "Bud," it would often avoid errors and delays in his mail delivery.

Pix Food.

Mrs. T. B. Ward yesterday found a small breast pin and leaves it at the JOURNAL office for anyone proving ownership and paying for this notice.

Where it Would do Good.

On nearly every through California train there are very observant tourists. Some of them can usually be seen on the platform taking a view of all that is to be seen of this city and surroundings. But as the depot is considerably at one side, they do not get the view that Salem people desire they should. An incident this morning gives emphasis to the suggestion made in these columns yesterday that a supply of descriptive leaflets or pamphlets should be at the depot for distribution. S. H. Coward, stepped off the train this morning and asked a JOURNAL representative what town they had reached.

"Salem, the capital of Oregon," was the response.

"I thought Portland was the capital."

"No, sir, that is the metropolis."

"I am one of a party of six tourists from Memphis, Tennessee. We have been all through California and are going to look at Oregon."

"What do you think of it so far as you have come?"

"Very well. It is more like home than the dry and parched looking California that has so many advantages. You have a great country here, with its farms and pasture, orchards, timber and water power."

He then asked what we produce in this valley and vicinity. What were our mean temperature, average and total rainfall in winter, depth and continuance of snow, and price of land. But before these and like questions could be answered, and our state house, court house, fruit evaporator, school houses, churches and other buildings pointed out, the conductor called "all aboard," and, with a hasty promise to mail his party some descriptive matter before they leave Portland, the train was rolling out. What an advantage if there had been some printed circulars or pamphlets at hand to have given him. We are not in the real estate business nor on the board of trade, but a word to the wise should be sufficient.

The Children Pleased.

A lover of children sends the following as worthy of publication, and the JOURNAL coincides and cheerfully publishes:

The children of the Orphans Home were brought in to town on Tuesday, to witness the parade of the big show, after which the heart of each was made glad by the possession of a balloon, calling for Harrison or Cleveland, according to their young ideas. They were then marched to Dr. J. C. Shelton's residence, where, through the kindness of Misses Bide Shelton and Dell Jackson, they were treated to luncheon. After an hour's rest, and a good brushing with the whisk broom, Maj. Williams, with his usual generosity, brought his commodious carriage, and made two trips, conveying them to the circus grounds. The worthy ladies of the Board had secured for them free admission to the afternoon performance. When the show was over, they were taken back to the Home with tired feet but light hearts, feeling well satisfied with the day. By way of showing their appreciation of Maj. Williams' kindness, they pricked their little fingers gathering for him a bucket of nice blackberries, wondering all the time which was the larger Maj. Williams' heart, or the big elephant.

WEST STATTON ITEMS.

Jack Crabtree is lying very low at his home.

S. J. Condit, of Dayton, W. T., formerly of this place is quite sick.

Miss Skiff, of Salem, is employed to teach the fall term of school.

The many friends of Ernest Porter will be glad to know his health is improving. He will take charge of the warehouse next week.

C. Neal received a telegram calling him to the bedside of his dying daughter, Mrs. Darling, at Condon, Mrs. Delilah Darling was a resident of this vicinity a few years ago. She leaves many relatives beside a husband and four little girls. Her death occurred August 11th.

The death of little Nettie Porter has cast a sad gloom over the entire community. She will be missed by her schoolmates, she is missed in the Sabbath school, but in the family circle she is most sadly missed. Nettie was a bright, intelligent child and loved by all.

"Ere sin could harm, or sorrow fade, Death came with friendly care, The opening bud to heaven conveyed, And bade it blossom there."

BY THE SEA SHORE.

A Cool and Refreshing Retreat—How the Summer Loiterers Employ Themselves.

The summer crowd at this pleasant resort is thinning out. Forty persons left the Bay View house one day last week, and the Ocean House is not filled. Private boarding houses have been much sought for this season, as the hotels are often uncomfortably full. The cloth partitions and thin walls of some of the boarding houses, however, make the old gentleman who gets sick in the night from eating too much crab, and the baby who cries from hives, unpleasant neighbors to the delicate woman who comes here to benefit her health, and seeks in a private boarding house to escape the noisy hotel. The great need of this place, to make it a popular resort, is more good boarding places. Another hotel which would be a little out of the main street and nearer the north beach would, we are sure, if well conducted, pay well during three or four months of the year. We find it hard to realize that there is hot weather anywhere, we have it delightfully cool here. Fire is pleasant every night.

Bonfires on the beach, around which the young people gather and sing songs, and old people tell stories and talk politics and gossip, are among the pleasantest ways of passing the evenings for the campers. Sea bathing is, of course, the great entertainment for young and old. There is a new and recherche bathhouse on the Nye creek beach, with a stove and basins of running spring water, fitted up quite tastefully with rustic, wave-worn clothes-hooks and ornaments. It is quite retired and convenient for any who prefer a more private bathing place than the one west of town. President Ellis, of Pacific university, is camped at Big Tree creek, with some Forest Grove friends, and Professor Edwards, of the same school, took a cottage the 1st of June and has been here ever since. Miss Adams, dean of the P. U. ladies hall, is with them. Clyde Cooke is making studies of sand, waves and rocks, that may appear in larger work in the future. Miss Morgan, of Portland, has made some very pleasant studies in oil of scenes about the bay, and amateurs are sketching and painting among the sand hills and stunted pines and spruces. Five or six young ladies from Eugene occupy a cottage on the hill back of Newport, and are said to be a merry crew on land. Professor Condon, of Eugene, with his wife and three daughters, have spent about two months in his cottage on Nye creek. His twin daughters paint from nature, and one of them is engaged in reproducing one of those clear little pools framed with barnacles and sea-anemones, which every one who has seen has admired. Walking trips to the lighthouse are very fashionable here for those young people who are daring enough, and strong enough to undertake them. A company of six went over the hill and along the beach one day last week, over five miles, with one short stop at Big Tree creek, and made a day of it at the cape. They were shown up the black iron stairs of the lighthouse tower that is always so "spick and span" inside, and the funny young man of the company being impressed by the formality and silent solemnity, called back to the girls in a stage whisper, "as he followed the light-keeper—"Come on, and proceed to view the corpse." Several well known young men of Salem are here, mail carriers and clerks, etc., but not many Salem girls have we seen this summer.

Many new people are here from Albany, Eugene, Salem and Corvallis. Butter is scarce. Huckleberries are getting ripe and so are we, if plumpness and brownness are signs of ripeness. B. W. C. Newport, Aug. 27th.

At the Pen.

Louis Kuhn, manager of the iron foundry works, has now arranged for a full supply of iron so that the works will not need to be closed down again. Incidentally it may be mentioned that Mr. Kuhn finds that the discipline at the institution was never better, and that he never obtained more work from the men than now. The work on the iron fence by B. F. Drake & Co., of the Salem foundry, will soon begin. The health is not of the best, just now, owing to something like cholera morbus, probably on account of the warm weather. This keeps Dr. Byrd, the physician of the prison, busy.

A Quiet Wedding.

Yesterday afternoon at the residence of the officiating clergyman, 310 Cottage street, Rev. J. W. Webb united in the bonds of matrimony, Mr. O. S. Hibbard and Miss Launa Underwood, both of Silverton. The groom is the son of K. L. Hibbard, a well-to-do farmer in that part of the country, and the bride came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sparks, from Missouri, about a year ago and has justly won the esteem of the large circle of her acquaintance. To-day they left for Mr. Hibbard's parental home. From there they may go to reside in Portland where he has of late been working. Wherever they go, may happiness and usefulness mark their career.

A Thrifty Farmer.

Mr. George Allen, who came here from Michigan two years ago, is proving what persistent hard work will do. On his farm, a few miles east of Salem, he keeps steadily cutting timber for firewood; he follows up by clearing and slashing. Then he gets a good burn on it and sows wheat in the ashes, dragging it in with a good, heavy harrow. The result last year was an average of twenty-two bushels. This year his crops look well, and will yield a good quantity. The increase in value and the improvement in appearance in a few years, on a farm, taken in the rough, with such "elbow grease" and determined work, will be astonishing.

Nipping it in the Bud.

That was a wise procedure of Mrs. I. R. Moores to second the vigilance of our police and night-watchman in the matter of stopping the work of fire bugs, by promptly offering a reward of $250 for the discovery of those who made, or of any who may make attempts to burn down her building.
