TELEGRAPHIC SUMMARY. The Sittings Fellows Held. ALBANY, Or., Sept. 20.—H. P. McGuire and Chas. E. Potter of the "Oregon Sittings," were arraigned in Justice Humphrey's court, this afternoon, on the charge of criminal libel, preferred by Chas. Casey on account of abusive items published through the Albany correspondent of that paper. The former was held in $500 bonds and the latter in $250 to await the action of the grand jury. Republican Demonstration Postponed.—State League. PORTLAND, Or., Sept. 20.—The republican demonstration was postponed on account of the weather. The republican state league was called to order this afternoon, but on account of the inclemency of the weather and the postponement of the demonstration to-night, a large number of the representatives had gone home, hence the afternoon attendance was not very large. The name of M. G. Lane, of Salem, was entered upon the roll as a delegate for the Salem republican club. The name of Hon. John G. Wright was added to the executive committee to represent Marion county. M. G. Griffin moved that the executive committee be instructed to prepare an address to be issued to the people of Oregon concerning the workings and results of the convention. The motion was adopted by acclamation. Adjourned sine die. A "Department" in England. The British agricultural papers give considerable space to what they call "the long-talked of bill introduced by the government for establishing a board of agriculture in Great Britain." The plan is to unite in one body the functions now discharged by several—those of the Privy Council under the destructive insects act, and the contagious diseases (animals) acts; those of the land commissioners for England under the tithe-rent charge acts; the copyhold acts; the enclosure of commons and allotment acts; the drainage and improvement of land acts; and those vested in the commissioners of works and public buildings under the survey act, 1870. It is also proposed that the board of agriculture shall undertake the collection and preparation of statistics relating to agriculture; the inspection of and reporting on, any schools in which technical instruction is given in any matter connected with agriculture, and in aiding any school which admits such instruction, and in the judgment of the board is qualified to receive such aid. Further, it is proposed that the board may make or aid in making such inquiries and experiments, and collect or aid in collecting such information as they may think important for the purpose of promoting the advancement of agriculture. The Farming World remarks: "It is satisfactory to know that the collection of agricultural statistics is to form one of the duties of the board, and we hope then to see a great extension and improvement on our present agricultural returns, the question of agricultural schools, and of agricultural experiments, open up wide and useful fields of work." The Live Stock Journal says: "There is no doubt that the board may render valuable services to agriculture. We trust, however, that the strongest opposition will be given to an undue extension of its powers. It is undesirable that it should interfere with work which is far better carried out wholly by voluntary enterprise than it can ever be under government direction."—Country Gentleman.
