Pointers For Live Advertisers.

By no means think seriously of it, as an ad. in a bill or poster knocks the spots off a newspaper sought for.—Welcome.

Free trade advertising is the popular idea irrespective of party. Always deal with the stranger who knows when the next train leaves.

Never under any circumstances question the veracity of a party who has just dropped in from the east or elsewhere. His word is as good as his bond.

A meritorious advertisement is double discounted by a fake. One can tell the truth while Annanias would take a back seat for the other—the fakir.

The best plan is to patronise the illiterate fakir, who is here to-day and gone the next, for cold coin, and then drop around to the newspaper for a free local.

Always patronise a stranger in preference to home talent. He is likely to leave his money with you and can do better for you than the man who resides with you.

A picture card on a wall is preferable to a local or display ad in a town paper. One is always in demand to hide the wall while the other struggles for existence in telling all the news of the day.

The fakir can give the best, has the largest circulation, and his unlimited facilities argue everything in his favor. The local man can wait as he has plenty of spare time and it will be no trouble to call again.

It is safer and cheaper plan to pay an eastern man for a snap ad on sight (as he is desirous of moving on) than to let the local publisher credit from thirty to ninety days for his pay. The latter loves to buy shoe leather.

A Boy's Essay on Julius Caesar. Nineteen hundred and eighty-eight years ago Julius Caesar, the greatest of all the Roman Emperors in point of achievements and real ability, was born. Besides furnishing material for Mr. Shakespeare to write a play about, Caesar went in the conquering business and got away with everything in sight from soup to nuts. It got so that all he had to do was to whistle and croak his finger and far off nations would come right in and lie right down. Caesar wrote a book of his travels and conquests. He was a little rocky on geography in those days, but there wasn't a critic on the whole Roman press that dared to say so. He was the author of the saying, "venue, vice, versa," which being translated means "I came, I saw, and I got there, Eh." Caesar came to an untimely end in the prime of his career, through the jealousy of P. J. Cassius, J. R. Brutus and other ward strikers. They seized him just as he was opening the senate with a crowbar one day and stabbed him full of holes.—Ex.

A WORTHY ENTERPRISE. On May 1st, last, about four months ago, Dr. Gilbert opened an office and sanitarium in the bank block, Salem, and advertised to treat chronic diseases on scientific principles. Since that time his practice has been steadily increasing—so much so that he was obliged to secure more room and increasing facilities, and now finding himself unable to attend to his numerous patients, he has entered into partnership with Dr. M. W. Wemp, of Detroit, Michigan, a physician and surgeon of large experience, thoroughly competent, and a specialist in disease of the eye, ear, throat and nasal cavities—who has come with his family to make his home in Salem. The new firm will be known as Drs. Gilbert & Wemp and will occupy the commodious rooms in the bank block, for office and sanitarium, and will conduct their business under the name and style of The Oregon Medical and Surgical Institute. It is their intention to spare neither pains nor expense in their efforts to make this the most complete institution for the treatment of all forms of diseases, especially chronic, in the northwest. Medicinal vapor baths, electro-magnetism, oxygen and massage, together with all modern and scientific appliances for the thorough cure of disease, will be used. Examinations will be free, and charges strictly moderate. Address Drs. Gilbert & Wemp, Bank block, or postoffice box 125, Salem, Oregon.

For Smuggling Opium. SEATTLE, Sept. 27.—This city has been in a state of suppressed excitement during the whole of this evening. A rumor came here that John C. Haines, a prominent attorney of this city, was to be arrested on a warrant from New York. Assistant U. S. Attorney Munday, Marshal Hamilton and U. S. Commissioner Emery held a secret session of court at midnight, and Emery issued a warrant for Haines' arrest on proof being presented of an indictment found by the court of the northern district of New York charging Haines and three citizens of Ogdensburg, N. The loss is estimated at $22,000; insurance about $10,000. The stairs leading to the upper story of Tucker's building were saturated with coal oil. These fires are understood to have been of incendiary origin. The people are greatly excited and there is talk of organizing a vigilance committee.

The Southern Situation.

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 27.—There has been no special change in the situation since last night. Fever has broken out in Sanderson, the next station west of McClenny, on the Florida Railway & Navigation road. Thirty-six new cases have been reported this morning, and three new deaths.

To-day there are comparatively few inhabited houses in which there were not sick or convalescent. There are 131 cases reported, 40 white and 91 colored people; deaths, 8. The general distress among the poor is daily increasing. Within another week probably 20,000 persons, nine-tenths colored, will have to be fed by the hand of charity. The hopes of getting shelter for any considerable number at the camps of the refugees is abandoned.

A special from Gainesville says: One new case of yellow fever here developed to-day.

A Campaign Slander Refuted. Following is a campaign editorial in an east Tennessee paper: The enemies of captain George Hicks, our most prominent candidate for county judge, maliciously assert that he is a prohibitionist. This is the blackest and most uncalled for slander of the campaign. We have known the captain for several years, and have proof that he is not a prohibitionist, and in proof of this assertion—which we do not make without mature deliberation—we submit the following facts: On the night of June 10th the captain got so drunk over at Frazer's point that he had to be taken home in a wagon.

The next day, in the presence of some prominent citizens, he was seen to drink a cocktail. Four days later he got drunk at Miller's landing and fell into the river. This can not be successfully disputed, for the feat was witnessed by the present county judge and a number of our most prominent citizens. Since then the captain has been a liberal drinker, and we dare any black-hearted scoundrel in this county to come forward and attempt a refutation of these facts. We do not object to open and manly opposition, but we despise the sneaking and underhanded way employed by certain disreputable politicians of this community.

Eat With Comfort and be Happy. It is by no means uncertain, but, on the contrary, a well ascertained fact, that upon the well being of a man's stomach depends that medium of happiness which is vouchsafed to him in this world. Dyspepsia, the foe of all other things, stomach tranquility, and most to be dreaded, is a complaint to the preliminary relief and eventual cure of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is especially adapted. It enables those who use it with a reasonable degree of persistence to eat with relish, because it imparts a healthful appetite; to digest with ease, because it strengthens the stomach; and to assimilate the food which is eaten and digested, thus benefitting health, promoting flesh and sustaining the exercise of the physical and mental faculties. It, moreover, facilitates the secretion of healthy bile, acts without discomfort the habit of body, and tends, when taken upon retiring, to produce healthy slumber. Malaria is conquered by it.

A Woman's Discovery. "Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night, and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Luiz." Thus write W. C. Hanrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at Dr. H. W. Cox's Drug Store.
