Dident Work It.

Thursday night in coming from the fair, late, John Dinsmore was driving along the road with two gentlemen in his cab. It being late he did not think of anything happening until he reached the intersection of the fair ground road with that which leads by Parrish's. When he reached this spot a man jumped in front of his team and grabbed the off horse by the bits. Mr. Dinsmore hollered at the fellow to let go or he would shoot him and at the same time jumped to the ground and asked one of the men in the cab to hand him his revolver. At this instance one of the men in the cab jumped out on the opposite side, or, on the side the highway-man was and the bold-dare-devil took to his heels with Mr. Dinsmore and his passengers after him but as it was so dark, they were unable to keep trace of him and he was soon lost in the dark. As luck would have it not one of the crowd were armed with a revolver or the villain would not have escaped as easily as he did. Just one of the hack lights was burning at the time and the robber took advantage of the dark side of the cab.

The Work of Rescue.

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—Although rain fell incessantly last night, the work of digging out the victims of the landslide was carried on throughout the night. The workers concentrated on the spot where a man named Kemp is supposed to be, and at four o'clock this morning the work was so far advanced as to allow him to be seen about fifteen feet from the base of operations. Kemp would sing a couplet of a popular song and then shout: "Police! police!" The poor man is either insane or in a delirium. A man named Beaucamp, who, with two brothers, has worked at the wreck without sleep ever since the landslide occurred, crawled into a small opening to get at Kemp, who was lying under an immense pile of stones, but had gone only six feet under the pile when the whole pile came down on his back. Beaucamp, however, being a strong man, managed to crawl back a couple of feet, but could not move an inch further, his progress being blocked by the corpse of a woman. A priest, who has passed the night at the scene encouraging the workers, knelt down and began to recite a prayer. The men, although exhausted, seeing Beaucamp apparently doomed to certain death, rushed to his rescue, and after great efforts, their comrade was pulled out without serious injury.

Opening of Spokane's Cable Line.

SPOKANE FALLS, Sept. 21.—The Spokane cable railway was formally opened to the public to-day. Regular trips were made throughout the day, and no fare charged. A number of trial trips had been made during the week and everything was in perfect working order, and not the least difficulty was experienced. The line now in operation extends three miles northwest from the river, terminating at Twickenham park, on the bank of the river. The cars were crowded on every trip, and refreshments were served at Twickenham. Within ten days the Monroe street bridge will be completed, when the line will be in operation south of the river to the Northern Pacific depot.

A Curious Accident.

An accident occurred between Brooks and Gervais yesterday that for a time caused considerable excitement. Thomas Winning a young Englishman, twenty-one years old, who has been working on the farm of T. N. Mason, about one and a half miles east of Brooks, went out hunting yesterday morning and while returning home, claims he was shot by some unknown party or parties, who were hid in the brush, the charge taking effect in the right arm, making quite a serious wound. Winning says after being shot the first time, he cried for help and then the parties who he claims were in the brush fired again, this charge taking effect in his back. He was taken to Gervais and his wounds dressed. His story is not believed by many who think he shot himself accidentally. They give for the reason that from the spot where he was shot at to the place where he claims the assassins were in hiding, is too far distant for the shot to penetrate the body as they did. Winning is supposed to be one of the young Englishmen who were around Salem in the spring.

LATER.

[Special to the Capital Journal.]
GERVAIS, Sept. 23, 3:40 p. m.—Parties are not dangerously wounded. Will recover all right. No clue to the perpetrators. Some think it accidental, but he claims he was shot from the brush where he heard the voices of two parties. The wound in the back does not amount to much.

Please a Trip.

To-morrow John Dinsmore and Walter Lowe, depart for a month's pleasure and hunting trip in the surroundings of Cape Look Out, Sandy Lake and at the Big Nestucca. It is useless to wonder if the gentlemen will not have a real jolly good time before they return as they have visited these places before and know where to go for good hunting. Boys the JOURNAL speaks for a good fat bar before you go.

The accidents that have happened in the city this week have had no effect on the low prices at S. Farrar's for groceries. See their fine display of fruits. It's tempting.

The public school begun to-day, after a week's vacation, and they are now ready for earnest work. The University also gave a short vacation so the students could visit the fair.

There will be no more use for the street sprinklers soon, as the rain has had the desired effect.

For a good square meal you should go to the Bon Ton restaurant. The coffee made in their patent coffee urn is delicious and healthful. Try it.

The Salem Flouring Mill company is busy loading the ship "Lady Elizabeth" with flour, which will be sent to Liverpool. The mills are a credit to Oregon and especially to Salem. The company has received many 1st premiums on their fine grade of flour.

The street cars paid very well during fair week they were over-loaded every trip and the number of people were counted on the open car at one trip about eleven o'clock one evening and it was found that ninety-five persons were on board. The company could have used more cars if they could have been had.

Somebody tied tin cans to a Hillsboro cow's tail and she rushed out into the world at the rate of a mile a minute. In half an hour she encountered a hack and ran under it. After carrying the vehicle around on her back for ten minutes she laid down and begged to be killed. It was too much of a can can.
