WHEN a butcher gives you overweight in a steak it is a rare gift in more than one sense of the term.

APPOINTMENT and disappointment make very different sort of men of the average office-seeker.

IN Cuba it costs $24 a year to take a newspaper. A Salem man says it is going to cost a neighbor of his more than that if the neighbor don't quit taking his JOURNAL before he gets to read it in the evening.

IN Michigan dogs are assessed $8 each for being dogs. In Tennessee they assess doctors 50 cents each for being doctors. So it costs half a dollar more to be a dog in Michigan than it does to be a doctor in Tennessee.

AN expert musician says that only one man in a thousand can whistle a tune. If this were more truthful than it is, it would be a matter for special remembrance on Thanksgiving day.

A GEORGIA man cut his throat while on the way to get his marriage license. He seems to have reversed Hamlet's idea and decided to fly to his he knew not of rather than take the chances of those he had been informed of.

A WALLA WALLA young man promised his wife that if he got too poor to have the family washing done at a laundry he would do it. He has reached the washing stage in his finances, but he kicks on fluted skirts and things, and wears a blue flannel shirt which he changes twice a year—whether it needs a change or not.

DOES IT PAY TO RAISE HOGS? Mr. David Early, who lives in the hills east of Salem, was in Salem Wednesday, selling his hogs just butchered. He says that he was so situated this year that he was able to weigh the pigs before beginning to feed and after they were dressed. He gives a valuable experience in the profits of this branch of farm product. Mr. Early "put up" sixteen head of hogs on October 1st, last, and on November 19th the same were duly butchered, and he says that he fed seventy bushels of ground wheat and thirty bushels of oat fed raw. The animals put 1675 pounds of flesh during the time intervening between October 1st and November 19th. The oats, thirty bushels, were worth 25 cents, or $7.50; and seventy bushels of wheat at 60 cents equaled $42, or a total of $49.50. The 1675 pounds of pork, which sold at 5 cents, made $83.75, leaving a balance of $34.25 as profits after paying a fair valuation for the grain used. Mr. Early sold his pork product this year for 5 cents per pound. We leave the reader to judge as to whether it pays to raise pork.

AN ECCENTRIC MILLIONAIRE. The most eccentric millionaire in New York is probably George Broadway Rous, says the New York Star. He served in the confederate army under Stonewall Jackson and is a Virginian by birth. Thirteen years ago he was ruined and $50,000 in debt. To-day he is building a massive structure 200 feet deep seventy-five feet front, and twelve stories high on Broadway. This building will cost $1,000,000 when finished, and is paid for step by step. His business methods are unique. He has 400 employees and pays seventy-five off every day. His annual income is estimated at $550,000. Mr. Rous' energy is wonderful, he works from six in the morning till ten at night. He does not spend more than $1000 a year outside of his household expenses. His principal source of amusement is to stand on the rear platform of a street car and throw dimes and nickels to boys. A short time ago an English syndicate offered him $2,000,000 for his business. Mr. Rous, who is fifty-two years old, is a great advocate of phonetic spelling and writes all his personal letters on that plan.

Hops are selling in Puyallup now a little more lively. The prevailing price is eight cents.

A CHANCE FOR AN EXPLORER.

A Section of Washington Which Has Never Been Visited by Man. Washington has her great unknown land like the interior of Africa. The country shut in by the Olympic mountains, which includes an area of about 2500 square miles, has never, to the positive knowledge of old residents of the territory, been trodden by the foot of man, white or Indian. These mountains rise from the level country, within 10 or 15 miles from the straits of San Juan de Fuca in the north, the Pacific ocean in the west, Hood's canal in the east and the basin of the Quinalt lake in the south, and, rising to a height of 6000 or 8000 feet, shut in a vast unexplored area.

The Indians have never penetrated it, for their traditions say that it is inhabited by a very fierce tribe, which none of the coast tribes dared molest. Though it is improbable that such a tribe would have existed in this mountain country without their presence becoming known to the white men, no man has ever ascertained that it did not exist. White men, too, have only vague accounts of any man having ever passed through this country, for investigation of all the claims of travelers has invariably proved that they have only traversed its outer edges.

The most generally accepted theory in regard to this country is that it consists of great valleys stretching from the inward slopes of the mountains to a great central basin. This theory is supported by the fact that, although the country around has abundant rain and clouds constantly hang over the mountain tops, all the streams flowing toward the four points of the compass are insignificant, and rise only on the outward slopes of the range, none appearing to drain the great area shut in by the mountains. The fact appears to support the theory that the streams flowing from the inner slopes of the mountains feed a great interior lake. But what drains this lake? It must have an outlet somewhere, and all the streams pouring from the mountains rise on their outward slopes, it must have a subterranean outlet into the ocean, the straits or the sound. There are great discoveries in store for some of Washington's explorers.

A gentleman named Drew, now residing at Olympia, states that he has climbed to the summit of the eastern range from Hood's canal, and looking down could see great valleys stretching toward the west. A party of railroad prospectors claim to have penetrated the interior, but could give no account of it, and appear only to have skirted the outer slopes 10 or 15 miles from Hood's canal. A party of United States soldiers is said to have traversed the country from Port Townsend, but no data are obtainable as to what they saw.

Numerous attempts have been made to organize exploring parties, but they have invariably failed through, the courage of the projectors oozing out at the last moment. There is a fine opportunity for some of the hardy citizens of the Sound to acquire fame by unveiling the mystery which wraps the land encircled by the snow-capped Olympic range.—Seattle Press.

A Novel Advertising Scheme. One of the latest and most successful advertising schemes is as follows: A lady receives a letter written on dainty paper, with an armorial crest or something of the sort stamped on it. The letter, which bears all the marks of having been written by a woman of exquisite refinement, begins "Ma Chere Marie." The chances are that the lady's name is not Marie, but of course that only makes her the more eager to read it. She soon discovers from a number of chance allusions in the missive that it was not intended for her, and she at once comes to the conclusion that an acquaintance who had been writing to her and to another lady at the same time had, by mistake, put the two letters in the wrong envelopes. This inference causes her to read the letter with still more eager interest, especially a passage in which "Chere Marie" is asked to be so good as to order for the writer one of those lovely sets of furniture from the celebrated firm of Cherry, Mahogany & Co., which they are really almost giving away. As the letter is only signed "Julie," with no address given, the request cannot, of course, be complied with; but if the lady who receives the letter doesn't at once visit the establishment of Cherry, Mahogany & Co., it is because she is too ill to do so.—New York Tribune.

Latest in New York Furniture. The latest odd thing in furniture is a set upholstered with palm-leaf fans. A single fan forms the seat and another fan the back of the chair. The framework is of golden bent wood. Two fans make a cute substitute for the cushioned bottom of a tete-a-tete, and even the table top is of fans. The set was put on exhibition in the window of a Twenty-third street store a few days ago, and it takes a fancy price to buy a duplicate of it.—New York Star.

TAKING THE WRONG MEDICINE.

Robert Stewart, of Petaluma, recently had a queer experience. He writes: "Carbuncles and boils afflicted my face and neck for weeks. Finally I procured a bottle of one of the leading Sarsaparillas. To my surprise it made matters worse. This made me lose faith in Sarsaparillas, but seeing a statement that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla dried up boils and face eruptions instead of forcing more out, as the potash Sarsaparillas do, I bought a bottle. The effect was astonishing. The carbuncles and boils began to dry up, and in two weeks my face was as dry and smooth as ever. My brother also took a bottle with the same benefit. ROBERT STEWART, Petaluma, Cal."

[Explanatory Note.—The mineral, Iodide of Potash, which is the basis of nearly all other Sarsaparillas, attacks the blood direct, hence forces impurities through the skin, creating more boils and pimples. Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla acts oppositely. Its vegetable alteratives stimulate the various secretory organs and thus eliminate all impurities through the natural channels, hence dry up pimples and skin eruptions at once. The above testimonial is a case in point.]

Attacked by a Pet Deer. Mrs. D. W. Gilmore and child were seriously injured by a pet deer, at the ranch, on Wednesday evening. With the child the lady was in a field near the house when the deer attacked and knocked her down and she commenced going mother and child. Screams for help brought Mr. Gilmore to the scene, and by the aid of a pocket knife the animal was quickly killed. The child escaped with slight injuries, but Mrs. Gilmore was covered with wounds and bruises. Both eyes were blackened. The shock was very great, but with careful attention the lady will recover. At the time of the attack Mr. Gilmore was some distance away in the hills, but at the first scream he flew through the brush at break-neck speed and fortunately arrived in time to prevent the attack from resulting fatally.—San Benito Advance.

Catarrh

is a constitutional and not a local disease, and therefore it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the disease, and affects a permanent cure. Thousands of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh when other preparations had failed. Hood's Sarsaparilla also builds up the whole system, and makes you feel renewed in health and strength.

Catarrh

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effect to clear my head in the morning by yawning and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." Mrs. G. B. GIBB, 108 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.
