The Asylum Findings. We publish in full in this issue the findings of the grand jury of Marion county in the matter of the charges against the management of the state asylum for the insane.

THE JOURNAL will not attempt to make public sentiment against Dr. Lane. It is not here to coerce public opinion against any citizen.

Dr. Lane deserves credit for any economical use he may have made of the means placed in his hands to run the asylum.

THE JOURNAL is not engaged in suppressing important matters of news in which the people of the whole state are interested.

Why Conceal the Truth? The following telegram was sent from Salem last night and appears in to-day's Oregonian:

The grand jury discharged to-day returned the most voluminous report ever made by a jury in this or neighboring counties.

The Cannery and a Bridge. There is a point of great importance in the relation of the big Salem Canning Works and rebuilding the bridge.

This fodder dried will go far toward solving the problem of successful dairy farming through the winter. Nothing will go farther to prepare the way for a big dairy interest in this rich valley than the distribution of seed corn for the canners.

A Creamery at Salem. That would pay well. With creamery butter selling at 40 cents a pound at retail, a good share of the year it would be a good thing for the consumer and a much better thing for the farmer.

THE CITY NOT LIABLE.—In the proceedings of the city council it will be noticed that the claim of Irvine Claggett for damages on account of injuries sustained by the falling awning last summer, was referred to the mayor for settlement.

The firemen are looking forward to Friday night with anxious anticipation. The sale of tickets has been quite large, and all arrangements completed for a pleasant time.

It is not to be inferred from the grand jury report that county superintendent Yoder is in any way delinquent, by not being in his office as much as he should.

NEW INCORPORATIONS.—Articles of incorporation have been filed in the secretary of state's office since the last issue of the JOURNAL as follows: The Home Building and Loan company, of Baker City.

Pronate Court.—In the matter of the estate of H. C. Wandt, deceased, Herle M. Wandt was appointed executor of the estate with will attached.

CIRCUIT COURT. State of Oregon vs. Young Fuk; on verdict of guilty of larceny from a shop; sentenced to one year in the state penitentiary.

THE EIGHT HOUR LAW. The Great English Statesman Non-Committal. LONDON, Eng., Feb. 19.—Gladstone to-day, replying to a deputation of miners with reference to the eight hour law, said he was unable to give the desired pledges.

Unreliable Predictions. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—Rain and snow are predicted for Oregon and Washington until to-morrow morning.

Mrs. Dr. J. C. Smith went to Portland this afternoon. Ed C. Judd, of Turner, was a Salem visitor to-day.

The Knights of Pythias celebrate their anniversary to-night. S. A. Clarke was a passenger for the metropolis this afternoon.

J. A. Van Eaton, of Squire Farrar & Co., went to Brooks to-day to purchase potatoes. R. H. Miller, of the Gold Mountain mining company, returned from Albany this morning.

OREGON CLIPS. The Linn county commissioners have decided to rebuild, at once all bridges destroyed by the flood.

Pendleton East Oregonian: Mr. C. Sargent has received discouraging news from his band of 400 cattle on Crab Creek, in the Big Bend section.

Ed. Smith, while carelessly handling a revolver at High valley, Union county, Dec. 31st, shot and killed Chas. Conrady. A Union jury last week convicted him of manslaughter, but recommended him to the mercy of the court.

A LONELY DEATH. Eloquent Tribute to Young Frazer Who was Lost in the Snow.

The remains of "Nick" Frazer were laid to rest at Pendleton Sunday a week. To a Tribune reporter his father said: "I think that when my son followed the deer he had no idea where he was going, and as night came upon him, he began to grow tired and started back for the camp, and as it was blowing a pretty stiff breeze he started for the canyon, but found the snow quite deep and soft."

On the occasion of the burial, Mr. J. P. Wager delivered a very eloquent address. The following are the closing passages: "Such was the character of our late young friend and neighbor. Quiet, unassuming, industrious, one of few words, but those words were always to be depended upon; honest with all men; faithful to all trusts reposed in him."

"Our duty as friends and neighbors and mourning relatives is done. The agonizing suspense is over. Nature is inexorable, unheeding pitiless. The treacherous mountain steep, the dark canyon, the moaning pines, the wailing mid-winter winds and the ice-cold drifted snow will neither pity nor confess.

"But after a little, the summer breezes will blow with mild and fragrant breath over the spot where, alone with nature and with God, he faltered, fainted, and fell. The mountain wild-flowers will breathe their fragrance around the place. The summer sun and the harvest moon will shed their glorious effulgence upon the hillside and into the grass-grown gorge where his last journey so cruelly ended.

"Yes, let it be a token and a promise; that out of the chill anguish and dark despondency and drifted thoughts of sorrow for our friend's sad and untimely death, he shall pass safely and speedily into the springtime and summer of an immortality, visions of which, behind veils of tears, Faith points for us in dreams.

LADIES ONLY.—Prof. Spear will lecture to ladies at Unitarian Hall Thursday at 2.30 p.m. He proposes much new and valuable information, which all ladies over fifteen years old are invited to hear.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings on the glands of the neck; causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; is the origin of other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors," and hastening upon the lungs, causes consumption, and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED?

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula or impure blood, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.
