Oregon has it all

Oregon has the climate, the timber, the water, the mineral, the grazing lands, the fruit in endless variety, communication with every country, under heaven, and the most contented population in the civilized world; and what more do you want? Everything that is really desirable is to be found in this State, and the conditions upon which they may be possessed are within easy reach of the industrious and frugal. It will support a population five times as great as that which now finds a home upon its soil, with nothing like impoverishment of its resources. If only Eastern people could be convinced that the savage no longer roams the country in war paint and feathers, but that he is cooped up on his reservation and is engaged in rural occupations; that our educational facilities are in advance of the log cabin with its rough-hewn seats and Webster's speller as a text book; that we are in a measure civilized, perhaps more of them would venture on an exploring expedition to the Northwest coast. Friends, if you have this opinion of our country and Uncle Sam will not engage to escort you, take a Pullman car and ride through in comparative safety. If once you see our country you will be loth to leave it.—Lebanon Express.

OREGON CROPS AND WEATHER.

Bulletin of the Oregon Weather Bureau, for Week Ending August 30.—Local Notes. WEATHER. The temperature has been about the average for the week, no extreme being reported, it ranged from 44 to 90°.

There has been no rainfall.

The mornings have been partly cloudy and the afternoons and nights generally cloudless, with smoke in the atmosphere. In Jackson county the smoke is quite dense, in other sections less smoke now in the air than is usual at this season of the year.

CROPS.

Harvesting of spring grain is yet in progress etc.; yields are better than was anticipated. Threshing of fall wheat continues and from all sections of the state reports of bountiful crops, prosperous times and the like are received. The weather is favorable to the prune drying which is in full operation. The prune out-put will be larger than ever before.

The hops are nearly ripe and picking of them will begin next week.

The oats yield is not, in sections, as large as in former years, but the quantity is extra good. The onion crop will not be quite an average. Grapes continue in a promising condition. Corn will be about a fair crop. Potatoes will be an unusually large crop.

Hay crop is much larger than usual in Eastern Oregon and fully an average in Western Oregon.

Maple, ash, and elm trees are showing autumn colors. Oregon has indeed a bountiful harvest this year and the prices quoted for wheat, hops and dried fruit continues to have an upward tendency.

CROP NOTES.

Some of our Minnesota friends, who write to us that they expect to harvest 12 bushels of wheat to the acre this season, may feel like coming to Oregon when they hear that Enos Harpole has just threshed 3,725 bushels of wheat from a 120 acre field. Truly Oregon is a great state and for wheat has no equal in the Union.—Junction Pilot.

Powell & Co. have received an order for ten car loads of potatoes to be shipped to Kansas. That is a big order but it will be filled. Any one having potatoes will now know of a sure purchaser. This firm, by the way, is doing sort of a wholesale business generally, their trade is increasing at a rapid rate.—Albany Democrat.

The United States is threatened with a potato famine. "Ashland Peaches" seems to have a fine reputation in all the large markets.

Dyspepsia

Makes many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, burning, loss of appetite, a smart, "air" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently yet surely. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and, by thus securing the food, overcomes the local symptoms, cures the headache, and refreshes the tired system. "I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I ate distressed me. I was unable to do my business, painting, and from being nervous shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food digested and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. FAIR, Waterbury, Mass.

Heart-burn

"I have been troubled with heart-burn, or tired, alligee feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, painting, and from being nervous shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food digested and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. FAIR, Waterbury, Mass.
