The question for next Saturday night is: "Resolved, that a war with Italy at this time would be beneficial to the United States." Frank Davey and N. R. Gaylord are the leaders. This question has been discussed on the streets and in the offices. So the boys concluded to meeting. After the debate Saturday night the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, Wm. Kaiser; vice-presiast, Robt. Whitaker; secretary, Fank Davey; assistant secretary, N.M. Newport; treasurer, C. B. Brown; librarian, N. R. Gaylord; sergeant-at-arms, John H. McNary.
