TEAM DROWNED.

Sunday at 12:30, a team belonging to Sam Branson was drowned in the mill race just above the waterworks. The circumstances were something like these: J. H. Penland, a delivery clerk for John G. Wright, hitched the team up to try them. If suited he was to take them home and keep and work them for their feed over winter. Miles Howard, a stepson of the owner, went with Mr. Penland and together they drove the team down to the race, a very common watering place. Howard unchecked the horses before they drove in and then the accident happened. The off horse did not drink. The near horse drank a little, reared up and kicked, the driver tried to gather up the lines, but the horses were already swimming, and there was two feet of water in the track. The horses struck straight across, and became entangled in one of the bents of the cable-shed. Mr. Penland jumped into the water and with his knife cut two tugs and unhooked one, when he was kicked double and barely escaped with his life. Howard jumped out at the start and got ashore badly wet. The team then drowned. The team is worth about $100.

THE ALKAS.

After all other business was disposed of Saturday evening, President Whitaker called G. Stolz to the chair. He made a very good presiding officer and decided in favor of the affirmative on the question of the government setting apart the territory of Oklahoma as a black state. The committee on finance reported a very nice literary and musical program for Friday evening, at the hall to which the public are invited. The object is to raise funds to pay rent and other expenses. Following is the program: Address, President Robert Whitaker; male quartette; "Whistling Regiment"; Miss Scriber; flute solo, Oscar Fechter; ten minutes social recess; debate, question—"Resolved, That civilization has degraded man physically, and has detracted from the sum total of his happiness." Leaders—affirmative, E. Hofer; negative, Robt. Whitaker; colleagues, Napoleon Davis, negative; William Kaiser, affirmative.

HONORING THE DEAD.

Tributes Are Being Generally Paid to the Public Spirit and Enterprise of Mr. Wallace.

As a public society the Alka-Hesperian literary society was the first body publicly to adopt a resolution of respect to the memory of the late R. S. Wallace, as a public spirited citizen.

AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. Whitaker spoke Sunday morning on the untimely death of Mr. Wallace. His relationship to President Harper of the North-western university was referred to as a topic of conversation between the speaker and Mr. Wallace Friday at the waterworks. The sermon was not a funeral discourse nor a eulogy of the departed, yet it was a delicate tribute to that gentleman's character. "There is but a step between me and death," were the words of his text. There were hours in every life when this was literally true, and when we stood as it were on the margin of the unseen and know not but the next throbbing of the heart may carry us over. To think of that one with whom we walked and talked but a few days ago and to reflect that he had taken that step into the other life before us, was to vividly realize how narrow is the isthmus between this world and the unknown future. We are yet standing at the borderland of learning. These are the words of the wisest of mankind till the last day of the race has come. Death, to the righteous even, was the king of terrors at a distance, but nearer it became to the dying soul that put its trust in God the face of a beneficent angel. A strange ministry of Providence had fallen upon our community to warn us to live better prepared to take the last step.

ARTISANS AND LABORERS.

A public meeting was called at the office of Architect McNally Sunday at 10 a. m. to properly recognize the loss of one of Salem's greatest employers of labor.

AS A PUBLIC OFFICIAL.

Captain Babcock has also an honorable career. He was elected a member of the city council, city treasurer and in 1888 he was elected county clerk on the Republican ticket, and re-elected in 1890 by a largely increased majority. Owing to his increasing infirmity from incurable consumption, he has attended to his official duties since June 1st only in a formal manner. At the last term of the county court he sadly took leave of his old associates at the court house.

AS A MASON.

Captain Babcock had a splendid record. He united with the order in 1865. In 1872 Pacific lodge was chartered and he was designated master and held the position until he declined to hold it longer. He was grand secretary for Oregon for a number of years, and up to Oct. 24 he was grand recorder of the grand commandery of Oregon. He was a zealous and honorable member of the fraternity and always regarded his associations with Pacific lodge as very precious, and no man in Oregon had nobler conceptions of lodge duties than he.

HIS FAMILY.

As Captain Babcock closed his eyes in death at 5 o'clock this morning his family were present, consisting of Mrs. Babcock and three children, William, the oldest, Grace and Mary, younger. He enters upon his long rest leaving his family provided for. He leaves his new residence in the city, a farm home, $7000 insurance and other assets. He conducted a furniture factory and store in Salem for many years in company with C. M. Parmenter, beginning life with very small means, and meeting with some reverses, and is remembered by all for his strict integrity. He was a member of the Congregational church and one of the founders of Marion County Fruit Growers' association, of which he was president at his death.

Two Men With the Team and Rig Stolen at Cresswell—Captured at Salem.

Two men, giving their names as Charles Henry and F. S. Phillips were arrested Saturday evening at six by Deputy Sheriff Wain, at Rocky Mountain restaurant.

They were believed to be the men who stole a hack and span of mares on the night of October 27th from the pastures of Daniel Stanton, at Cresswell, as already described in THE JOURNAL.

They came into Salem on the Turner road at five o'clock, and stopped at one of the livery stables, offering two saddles for sale. This created some suspicion, and as the whole rig corresponded to the one described at the sheriff's office, they were soon identified and the men placed under arrest at the county jail.

ANOTHER TEAM.

was found Sunday afternoon, where the men were camped before coming to Salem. The team was in an out-of-the-way place east of the rural cemetery. The second team is a gray and bay, have a new set of buggy harness and an old platform spring hack. The sheriff believes this to be also a stolen team. It had all the appearance of being stolen. The thieves are evidently professionals, and traveled at night and hid in the daytime.

SHERIFF WALN.

came to Salem and got the men yesterday, Deputy Waln accompanying him to Eugene with them. They refused to talk to the officers or a JOURNAL reporter about their affairs. The second team is held for identification at the Goulet livery.
