WASHINTON, June 9 .- That historic structure, Ford's opera house, on Tenth street, in which president Lincoln was assassinated, collapsed today. There paper. They will certainly convince you that Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses unequalled merit, and that HOOD'S CURES. were 400 government clerks in the building at the time the accident happened, The floors of the great building were loaded with pension records. The war department clerks employed, were all men. The first floor collapsed through weakness caused by excavating a celar, and in its fall, it carried down three floors, and with them bundreds of clerks. The dead and wounded are being taken out rapidly by firemen and police. It is feared hundreds of people have been killed. The attending cenes were terrible. gency hospital is crowded with the dead and injured. Injuries from the very nature of the affair are very severe. Crushed, broken limbs and internal injuries are the rule. Thousands surround the scene and excitement is spread all over the city. Eight dead bodies have just been taken out of the ruins unidentified. At 16:50 a. m. it is feared there are still eighty bodies in the ruins. Another man has been taken out dead. Howard S. Miller of Ohio, a clerk in the bureau, and an unknown man have been brought to the emergency hospital dead.

number of those who went down in the crash be known. No doubt several bodies are still in the ruins. When it came there were supposed to be in the building 496 clerds, 18 messengers, 20 laborers, 534 in all. Up to this hour 16 bodies reached the morgue. The walls are still standing but every floor is down and every windaw is blown out. The building has been condemned as unsafe for some time but sentiment kept it unchanged.

THE CAUSE of the collapse is supposed to be dig- The latter returned fire, and a he ging under the foundations for the purpose of putting in an electric plant, out as near as can be ascertained, the top floor gave way first, carrying the others down with it. many lives are sayed, Some cierks sitting at desks were left sitting on the brink, while the deaks at which they sat went down. Police and soldiers were ordered to the scene by General Schofield. They kept the crowds back so no interruption to work of rescue was possible. One of the first victims found was George M. Arnold, of Colorado. A clerk from West Virginia, who jumped from the third story window, was dashed to death in an alley the night be assassinated Lincoln.

It had been used a number of years as part of the office of the surgeon general. It is a strange coincidenc that the building should collapse on the day Edwin Booth, brother to the man who assassinated Lincoln, was buried. At 2 p.m. the number dead reported from all sources was 24. Four others are reported dead but the bodies are not at the morgue or hospital. Names of 49 injured have been secured, but this is probably not nearly correct, as many were sent direct to their homes.

Behring Sea Tribunal.

PARIS, June 9 .- C. Robinson, in the concluding portion of his argument in the British case before the Behring sea tribunal of arbitration, contrasted viewed the extermination of the buffaloes with their auxiety to protect the seals, which anxiety Robinson attributed that a rich monopolistic company was interested in the seals. This statement of Robinson aroused discussion. Senator J. T. Morgan, United States arbitrator, contending that the destruction of buffaloes was necessary to he progress of civilation and analogous to the destruction of rabbits in Austraila. Robinson proceeded to argue that the slaughtering of seals on land was more bartarous than pelagic bunting, which Americans declared broke every aw of the decalogue. Shot in a Row.

SEATTLE, June 9 .- Charles Defiel, a lumber, was shot and killed in the southern part of this city by John H. Fay, a saloon keeper, whom he was beating. The two men had been drinking all night together. About daylight went to Grant street bridge south of the city for a walk when Defiel struck Fay over the head with a slung shot and then comenced beating him in a horrible manuer. Fay reached into his pocket as he was on the ground, and pulling a revolver, placed it against Defiel's breast and fired. Then he became unconscious and was not restored until late this afternoon when learned for the first time that Defiel had fallen dead almost on top of his body, not until, however, he had inflicted additional punishment upon his stayer. Deflet was considered a dangerous man when drinking.
