Edwin Gould Held Up for $5,000.

PRENDERGRAST IS CRAZY.

A Postal Telegraph Superintendent Assassinated.

VOYE ON SILVER BILL DELAYED.

Latest from Washington for 5 O'clock Edition.

Edwin Gould Held Up.

New York, Oct. 30.—A crank walked into Edwin Gould's office and demanded $5000 immediately. He was detained until the police arrived and was arrested. His name is Andrews. He was once a telegraph operator.

Telegraph Official Shot.

New York, Oct. 30.—A crank has just shot Superintendent Frederick Matthews of the new Postal Telegraph building. His name is not known. Matthews is in a critical condition.

Prendergast Ool.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Prendergast has been indicted by the grand jury for murder. When told of the grand jury's action, the prisoner merely took a cigar out of his mouth and said, "well."

Mrs. Wallace Fined.

EGGERS, Or., Oct. 30.—Mrs. Patterson Wallace was fined $100 in the circuit court this afternoon. She did not pay, but she fainted and caused considerable excitement.

In the Senate.

SOME MORE SPEECHES.

Roll call showed the presence of fifty-two members when the consideration of the repeal bill was resumed. As the hour of 2 o'clock approached, at which time Voorhees on Saturday expressed hope that a vote on the passage of the bill would be had, many representatives entered the chamber and found seats on sofas in the rear of the senatorial chairs. At 2:45 p. m., Morgan concluded his remarks and vest was recognized. Vest concluded his remarks at 3:15 and Cockrell, his colleague from Missouri, took the floor. Cockrell completed his remarks at 3:50 and Carey, of Wyoming, was accorded the floor, to explain his position. The vote will not be reached till late this afternoon.

UNION PACIFIC.

Senator Bryce held a three hours conference with the attorney general today, discussing the affairs of the Union Pacific railroad. Bryce said after conclusion of the conference the government's debt against the Union Pacific will be collected if the stock holders and their estates should have to pay for it.

IN THE SUPREME COURT.

Oregon Soldiers' Home Case is Decided.

THE ROSEBURG TRUSTEES VICTORIOUS

State Institutions May Be Seated and the Capital Remains at Salem.

Following supreme court decisions were handed down today:

D. C. Sherman, resp., vs. A. J. Bel-lows, James Byron, J. W. Mullen, Charles Mitchell, and S. S. Train as trustees of the Oregon Soldiers' home, appellants, appeal from Linn county. Judgment reversed. The demurrer sustained and the cause remanded for such other proceedings as are necessary and not inconsistent with this opinion. Opinion by Moore, J. Bigger and Condit for respondent; Attorney General Chamberlain for state.

L. D. Dugan, et al, resp., vs. Lincoln Messerve et al, apps. Appeal from Columbia county. Judgment affirmed. Opinion by Lord C. J.

On motion, Wm. L. Brooks and Eugene D. Timm were admitted upon certificates from the supreme courts of Michigan and Illinois to practice in all the courts of this state.

May Osburn, resp., vs. H. D. Winters app. Appeal from Multnomah county; argued and submitted. A. F. Flegel and A. F. Sears, Jr., attys. for resp; J. T. Watson, atty. for app.

THE DECISION

in the Soldiers' Home case is on this point. The state demurred to legal capacity of plaintiff to bring the suit and this is sustained, as plaintiff proved no personal injury to him as a taxpayer nor that any additional burden was laid upon him as a citizen by reason of the location of the home at Roseburg, hence he could not properly ask an injunction.

Gets an Office.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The president has nominated E. F. Uhl, of Michigan, to be assistant secretary of state.

IN STANTON'S DEFENSE.

Friends Try to Justify His Conduct.

THEY CITE SOME PRECEDENTS.

It is Claimed That He Simply Saluted the Brazilian Flag.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 30.—Secretary Herbert gave out the following statement and telegram regarding the Stanton Mello incident:

"Inasmuch as there seems to be an impression the president acted on the matter of removing Admiral Stanton without hearing from him, it is fair to state before an order issued Secretary Herbert sent a telegram of inquiry and received the following reply:

"RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 25.—Secretary Navy, Washington City: Before anchoring saluted the flag of Brazil with 21 guns. Salute was returned by the government fort. After anchoring we received a visit from the aide-de-camp of Admiral Mello, flying the Brazilian flag. Returned said visit. Saluted Brazilian Admiral afloat. Salute returned by same. No call received from any Brazilian officials from shore. Next day called upon Brazilian admiral. Visit returned. Mello only Brazilian admiral afloat. STANTON."

Admiral Stanton's defense in the probable court of inquiry or court martial proceedings is clearly indicated in his dispatch where he says he saluted the Brazilian flag "afloat," and this statement coincides with the belief among a number of naval officers that it was in doing this that he brought so much trouble on himself. Inquiry at the navy department has brought to light some matters that are claimed to be precedents for Admiral Stanton's action, and the theory of the officers who believe the admiral's unfortunate salute was justified by the circumstances is given in this way: A commander of a naval vessel of a different nation must either acknowledge the flag floated by another armed vessel of a different nation or else seize or attempt to seize her as a pirate. If Admiral Mello had no authority from any recognized government, and the insurgents have no government, to display the flag that was flying at the peak of his flagship, then, according to theory, he was an unauthorized armed rebel of the seas and considered and treated as a pirate.

If he had the right to float the Brazilian flag then he should have been saluted, and it is further contended in Admiral Stanton's behalf that in view of the fact that Admiral Mello holds a commission as an officer of the Brazilian navy the American officer could not have done otherwise than to pay him the customary courtesies. One of the precedents referred to is the action of Admiral Welles of the United States navy, at Cadix, Spain, in capturing a Spanish war vessel manned by insurgents and floating the Spanish flag, and turning her over to the Spanish government on the ground that she was a piratical craft. The same thing was done at Carthage by a British squadron. Another precedent cited, if it can be called such, is the action of the captain of the United States cruiser Boston in landing troops and recognizing the revolutionists, the present provisional government of Hawaii, without authority from the president.

Preferred Suicide to Starvation.

VANCOUVER, Wb., Oct. 30.—George P. Sears, ex-city treasurer, died last night from an overdose of laudanum taken with suicidal intent, he being unable to get work owing to old age. He preferred death to starvation or being a charge on his friends.

Ministerial Crisis in Austria.

VIENNA, Oct. 30.—Emperor Francis Joseph has accepted the resignation of the entire cabinet.

IT IS CLOSED IN TEARS.

Owing to Tragic Death of the World's Fair Mayor.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The last day of the world's fair opened with beautiful weather, but a pall hung over the great exposition and its myriad flags floated at half staff. With the tragic death of Mayor Harrison the life and gaiety of the exposition went out forever. Instead of festival of oratory and music which was to have filled in the afternoon, memorial services will be held in the Festival Hall.

Scene in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—This has been a field day in the senate. No more interest has been manifested at any stage of the long struggle than was shown today. Before 11 o'clock the galleries were black with people and a number of foreign representatives looked down from the diplomatic gallery. The scene on the floor is impressive. Nearly every seat is occupied while hundreds of representatives from the lower house are arranged against the wall.

CHINESE EXTENSION.

It is generally understood the senate will pass the Chinese extension bill while the house is considering the silver bill.

Secret Treaty with Brazil.

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 30.—It is stated that a secret treaty between the United States and Brazil has been signed. This treaty, is said to involve the United States in support of Brazil if the latter country asks for support, and also says the United States is pledged to support the Brazilian government in case of an attempt to restore a monarchy.

A DENIAL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The state department this afternoon denied that the United States government had entered into a treaty with Brazil, pledging our support to that country in the event of an attempt being made to restore a monarchy there.

Ministerial Scandal.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Behind closed doors the Chicago Presbytery today began trial of Rev. Dr. W. W. Toberoh, late pastor of the Hyde Park Presbyterian church, on the principal charge that on two visits to the Pacific coast, one when the general assembly met at Portland, he was accompanied by a woman not his wife.

Pertinent Personals.

Carter Harrison was the strongest personality before the American people.

Grover Cleveland is another unbending Hickory Jackson.

Geo. J. Gould of New York was nearly killed by accidental discharge of a rifle while hunting in Missouri.

Voorhees head will grow bigger than the presidents if that silver bill becomes a law.

A statue was unveiled in France Sunday to LaSalle.

Patrick Prendergast, the assassin of Carter Harrison also cherished designs on Governor Alge's life.

President Harrison says of the killing of his distant relative: "The affair lends additional perils to prominent public characters, especially at this time. There is always a risk that public officers run, but with the conditions of the country as they are, the risk is increased."

Catarrah in the Head.

Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood, and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect and permanent cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of catarrah. Catarrah oftentimes leads to consumption. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla before it is too late.

Hood's Pills do not purge, pain or grip, but act promptly, easily and efficiently. 25c.

TO MARRY.—Licenses have been issued to Martha Steiner and Ephraim Steiner, D. J. Steiner, witness; also Frances A. Beck and Martha E. Cole.

Look me in the face! My name is Night, I am also called No more, To-leave, Farewell.

The poet who wrote the above, must have been in the last stages of consumption. Perhaps he had only learned, for the first time, if he had taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in his earlier illness, he would never have reached his present hopeless condition! What can be more sad than a keen realization of what "might have been?" Physicians now admit that consumption is simply scrofula in the blood attacking the lung tissues. It is never safe to allow the blood to remain impure, and it is especially reckless, when such a pleasant, harmless remedy as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will drive every taint of scrofula or impurity from the system, causing a current of healthy, rejuvenating blood to leap through the veins.

THE CHICAGO ASSASSIN.

How He Filled the Malls With His Insane Threats.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Prendergast's bullets, which took the life of Mayor Carter Harrison, might have found lodgement in the heart of a United States senator, or even the president of the United States. For fully two weeks before the murder of Chicago's mayor the assassin had been directing messages through the United States mail to at least one United States senator, which indicated that his mind was intensely wrought up against President Cleveland.

The burden of all these communications was the silver question. Senator Dubois, of Idaho, and others were recipients of communication which have been received almost daily since Oct. 9. The silver senators paid no attention to these cards for the reason that since the silver fight began they had been receiving many of a similar nature from all parts of the country. These have included threatening letters telling them if they did not cease their opposition to the repeal bill they would be shot down like dogs.

PRENDERGAST'S REASON.

Prendergast, Mayor Harrison's assassin, repeated to an associated press reporter this morning his former assertions that the reason for the deed was that the mayor had deceived him, betrayed him, and he took that means of getting even, declaring he was justified in so doing. At a special meeting of the city council, he did this morning, it was decided that the body lie in state from Tuesday until Wednesday morning.

The Coroner's Inquest.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The inquest on the body of Mayor Harrison was held Sunday at the late residence. Except for a technical description of the wounds, but little news was elicited. The verdict was in accordance with the facts, and recommended that Prendergast be held for murder until discharged by due process of law. Prendergast was present at the inquest, and maintained a stolid indifference, except when attracted by the presence of Mrs. Chalmers. He asked if she were Mrs. Harrison, and said he wanted to tell her he was sorry for her trouble. The Harrison residence was thronged with sorrowing friends all day, and the sidewalks in the vicinity were impassable. The members of the family were denied to all but the most intimate friends. All of them bore up bravely under the terrible affliction, the real significance of which could hardly be realized by them. Miss Howard, the late Mayor's fiancée, although prostrated by the shock, rested quietly during the day. Telegrams and letters of sympathy in great numbers were received from public and private friends of the late mayor in various parts of the country. Secretary of State Gresham telegraphed from Washington his sincere sympathy.

The remains of Mr. Harrison lay all day in the room which was always occupied by him as a sleeping apartment. Late in the afternoon a death mask was executed, and the result is said to be a most life-like representation. Today the body was made ready for lying in state at the city hall.

THE ACTING MAYOR.

Oscar D. Wetherell, city controller of Chicago, who by the death of Mayor Harrison becomes acting mayor, is a Republican. He is a native of New Hampshire, but removed to Chicago many years ago and became a prominent lumberman. Something like 12 years ago he was elected to the city council of Chicago and served for at least two terms as chairman of the finance committee. Three years ago he was elected president of the Globe National bank, and last spring, on Harrison's election, Mr. Wetherell was appointed controller. He is about 60 years of age.

CHICAGO MAYOR SHOT

By a Disappointed Devilish Crank.

HE DIES IN TWENTY MINUTES.

Sketch of the Head of the World's Fair City.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Carter H. Harrison, a five-times mayor of Chicago and one of the best known men in the West, lies dead at his home. Three bullets entered his body, two making wounds sufficient to cause death. The murder was committed by Eugene Patrick Prendergast, a paper-carrier, who had declared Mayor Harrison had promised to make him corporation counsel and had not kept his word. This, he said, was his only reason for committing the crime. The only person in the house at the time of the shooting, besides Mr. Harrison, was his son, William Preston Harrison, aged 25, and the servants. A little before 8 o'clock the door-bell rang, and when Mary Hansen, a domestic, opened the door, she was confronted by a man about 5 feet 5 inches high, smooth shaven and with clean-cut features, lighted up by a pair of dark eyes.

"Is Mr. Harrison in?" asked the man in a quiet, pleasant voice.

"Yes, sir," responded the girl, as she threw open the door to admit his entrance.

"I would like to see him, please," said the man, as he walked toward the back end of the hall.

Mayor Harrison was in the dining-room, which opened into the rear of the hall. Hearing a man a-k for him, he stepped into the hall and walked toward Prendergast.

Without saying a word, Prendergast drew a revolver and commenced to fire. He pulled the trigger three times, and every bullet hit its mark. One bullet shattered Harrison's left hand; another passed into the lower right side of the abdomen, making a wound that would have been mortal within a few days, while the third bullet entered the chest slightly above the heart. This wound was the immediate cause of death.

Across Ashland boulevard, directly opposite the Harrison residence, is the home of W. J. Chalmers, a wealthy maker of mining machinery. Chalmers was standing upon the front steps of his residence when the shots were fired. He dashed across the street and met Prendergast at the gate.

"What is it?" said Chalmers. The man walked rapidly away without replying, and Chalmers hastened into the house and reached Harrison almost at the same moment that William Preston Harrison found where his father lay.

"Are you hurt?" asked Chalmers, as he and the son of the dying man strove to raise him.

"I have got my death, Chalmers," responded the mayor, "I'm shot through the heart and am a dead man."

A moment later Harrison said with a voice rapidly losing strength:

"Unbutton my vest; there's where the trouble is."

By this time the stricken man was borne to a couch in the adjoining room, and as he spoke Chalmers gently opened his waistcoat. The front of the shirt was soaked in blood, which welled rapidly from the wound.

"It's through the heart," said the mayor again, his voice scarcely above a whisper.

A moment later he sank into unconsciousness, and 20 minutes after receiving the wound Mr. Harrison was dead.

About 25 minutes after the shooting, Sergeant Frank McDonald was standing in the office of the Desplaines-street police station. Every available officer had already hurried out and McDonald was preparing to follow. The door was pushed gently open and in walked a small, smooth shaven, poorly dressed man carrying a revolver in his hand.

He shook like a man with the palsy. His face was white and drawn. Great drops of perspiration chased each other down his face, and his tottering limbs seemed scarcely able to hold him up. Looking McDonald straight in the eyes he said:

"I did it."

"Did what?" said the officer, as he laid one hand on the fellow's shoulder, and with the other took the revolver.

"I shot Mayor Harrison, and that is what I shot him with," was the reply.

"What made you do it?" asked McDonald.

"He said he would make me corporation counsel, and he did not. That is what I shot him for."

Prendergast was trembling so he could hardly stand, and the officer led him to a chair and asked a few more questions, to which Prendergast would only make the reply he had first given as to the cause of the shooting. He said that, after leaving Harrison's house, he had taken a street car and started toward Desplaines-street station with the object of giving himself up, adding:

"The car did not go very fast, or I would have been here sooner."

THEMATS OF LYNCHING.

The cell door had scarcely closed behind the murderer when an excited crowd began gathering about the police station. Patrol wagons rattled up to the place, cabs and carriages came to the scene, and the occupants crowded and pushed their way into the office. Personal friends of the dead mayor, city officials and the curious crowded against each other in a wild endeavor to learn if the story, which spread like wildfire through the city, was true. An immense throng gathered and the laboring men who had stopped on their way home added their voices to the subdued threats of vengeance, for Mr. Harrison was popular with the masses. The streets were soon filled for blocks, and the officers, as they looked out the station windows upon the surging sea of angry faces, became alarmed for the safety of their prisoner.

All night long crowds came and went about the place. The bitter feeling against the murderer became intensified and significant. Subdued remarks about a convenient lamp-post and swift vengeance were frequently heard. At one time during the evening, as a carriage drove rapidly down the street, a young man shouted "There he goes."

There was an immediate rush for the retreating vehicle, but some one shouted that Prendergast was still in the chief's office and the crowd returned.

Corporation Counsel Kraus, who is perhaps the closest friend Harrison had, said: "Prendergast is crazy. I know him well. He called at my office and told me he was going to be appointed my successor. The man was so palpably out of his mind that I did not consider it worth while to talk seriously with him. I spoke to the mayor about it and he said he had received threatening letters from the fellow, but had paid no attention, as the man was insane."

Miss Anna Howard, fiancée of Mr. Harrison, was in the house at the time the fatal shot was fired. In accordance with the wounded man's request, she was at once summoned and was present when the sad came. Miss Howard's grief was pitiable. She was completely overcome, and was taken to the house of Carter Harrison, Jr., at Jackson Park, who, when the news of his father's death reached him, hastened home. Mrs. Heaton Owsley, the mayor's daughter, who resides nearly five miles from her father's residence, received the news by telephone and hastened to Ashland boulevard, but her father was dead fully 20 minutes before she arrived.

The leading business man of Chicago were in attendance upon the Commercial Club banquet, when the news of Harrison's death reached them. The banquet was immediately adjourned, and general expression of the most sincere regret at the tragic death of the city's chief executive.

Developments made late go far toward indicating that Prendergast had had murder in his heart for several days. Thursday afternoon he entered Billy (Continued on fourth page.)
