Printers Ink, the great Advertiser's Guide, says in a recent issue, "The Salem, Oregon, CAPITAL JOURNAL is the first one-cent paper established on the Pacific coast and the only one west of the Rocky Mountains. Not all the readers of a one-cent paper belong to a one-cent class of people, as many busy men purchase a penny paper because its matter, being more condensed, is more quickly read. The newspaper or magazine which reduces its subscription price will not lessen its value as an advertising medium if the quality of its reading matter is kept up to the standard."

THE KIND OREGON WANTS.

It is said that a wave of immigration is about to roll out of the East, bound west and south, and Portland papers propose that efforts be made to turn the nose of the caravan toward Oregon, says the Corvallis Times. If the immigrants are of the right sort, the effort should be made. Oregon needs newcomers with $500 to $5000 in cash about them to buy a quarter or a half of each one of the mortgaged farms in her borders, so that all the mortgages may be cancelled, the store bills paid, that everybody may start anew, with money in the till, and with new life, new vigor and new hope. She needs immigrants who have earned their all by industry, frugality and perseverance in the East, where they had to dig and delve, pinch and toil to make ends meet; men, like the late banker Ladd, with grit enough to dig out a stump if need be, and before they start, let them be told that in Oregon twenty dollar pieces are not to be raked off of vines like huckleberries with a comb, but are gathered in the same old way that prevails in the East. Oregon, however, needs neither carpenters, blacksmiths, school teachers, laborers, lawyers, doctors, tradesmen, editors, nor any others whose subsistence is a drain upon the soil's production. She is already over-run with the home-made article of this class who live in towns and absorb what the tillers of the land, forests, and mines create. None of these should be included in the invitation that is to be sent to the advancing column. Neither should any traveler be invited to Oregon, who is lacking in pride of our state, our common country, our flag, our institutions, and his own home; that sort breed discontent, begot social disorder, induce idleness, and the result of these, is poverty.—Junction City Times.

OUR BUSINESS CONDITIONS.

The following report of the conditions of trade and labor is just published in the American Economist, of Washington, D. C.
 There were 45 per cent. less wages earned this year than in 1893. No work for 30 per cent. of the people. The output of the factories decreased by 44 per cent. Average earnings fell off by 55 per cent. Billions of dollars less money circulated.

Literary Notes.
 "A Lover's Fate and a Friend's Council," by Anthony Hope, author of "A Prisoner of Zenda," is just published at 25c in Neely's Popular Library.
 F. Tennyson Neely, who has returned after several months' travel in Europe, will soon publish some experiences under the title "Foreign Authors as They Received Me."
 "The Panglima Muda," the Malayan romance, by Hounseville Wildman, late U. S. consul at Singapore, and editor of the Overland Monthly, which will appear in a few weeks at the first of a series of books reprinted from the pages of the Overland, has been so favorably received by advance orders that the management is forced to double the number of copies settled upon for the first edition.

The demand for copies of the October Overland containing the first part of Joaquin Miller's great poem—"The Song of the Balboa Sea"—has been so great that an extra large edition of the coming November number will be printed. Reviews, criticisms and letters have poured in from all over the West and East. Its publication marks the use of the events and triumphs of a magazine's literature. As has been said, Mr. Miller considers "The Song of the Balboa Sea" his greatest work.

The leading article in the Forum for November will be "The Political Career and Character of David B. Hill," by an anonymous writer, who will attempt to make an independent measure of Senator Hill's position and influence in national politics. In the same number, Ex-Senator Edmunds will discuss the question of the popular election of United States Senators—a noteworthy article from perhaps our highest constitutional authority, and a man who has himself had long senatorial experience.

The November number of Romance opens with a seasonal and thrilling story of a riot in China. Among its other contents is a touching love story by Arsene Houssaye; stories of adventure in the wild Southwest and in the forests of Maine; a humorous tale from the German; and a strong plea for the birds, in the guise of a charming tale by Alphonse Daudet. The motto of Romance at its reduced price is "Ten stories for a dime," and the ten furnished in the number are all written expressly for the magazine or are original translations. Romance is now only $1 a year, and a sample copy of a recent issue will be forwarded for three two-cent stamps sent to Romance Publishing Company, Clinton Hall, Astor Place, New York.

PROPOSED GAME LAWS.

Recommendations of the State Rod and Gun Association in Portland
 At a recent meeting of the State Rod and Gun association in Portland there was a difference of opinion as to the proper date for the close season for pheasant shooting to begin. The delegates from Linn county, the home of these splendid game birds, contended that September 15 or October 1, was soon enough for the open season to commence and they were right. They talked to the Portland sportsmen with tears in their eyes but without avail. After a great deal of discussion engaged in by all present as to what was needed, it was finally recommended that the game committee endeavor to secure the following legislation for the protection of game birds in Oregon.
 1. Preventing the sale of all birds during the closed season that had been kept on cold storage.
 2. That the open season for all upland birds be from August 15 to November 15 of each year.
 3. That authority be granted for counties to offer bounties for crows, magpies and jaybirds.
 4. That the open season for killing wood duck and other water fowl commence August 15 and extend to March 15, canvasback, ducks excepted, for which the season remains open until May 1.
 5. That jacksnipe be afforded the same protection as water fowl.
 6. That the game warden be authorized to appoint deputies in the several counties.
 7. That the game and fish laws be separated, all old laws to be repealed, and a new bill embodying the good features of other bills passed.

THE BEST TEACHER.

The Arabs say that the best Teacher is Time. That is true, especially when your year just expires the same lesson. For more than thirty years Alcock's Famous Plasters have been in use in every part of the world, and their testimony is universal as to their value as an external remedy for pain of every kind in the back, chest and side. Some people have learned the lesson so well that they try to imitate them, and the result is a host of counterfeits, all pretending to be just as good as Alcock's Famous Plasters, and announcing that by this very statement they show how false that Alcock's Famous Plasters hold the first place. He cure and get the genuine.
 Brandt's Pills always act satisfactorily.
 Tonight at the W. U. T. U. rooms will be given the first of a series of lectures. Mr. Fagan will sing.

HEART DISEASE.

Fluttering, No Appetite, Could not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.
 "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered about incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and hold my hand to my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not get a good night's rest. My husband induced me to try
