

TAKE STEPS
 In time, if you are a sufferer from that scourge of humanity known as consumption, and you can be cured. There is evidence of living hundreds of thousands of people who have been cured by the use of the Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

FEEDING FODDER.
 An Improved Plan That May Be Adopted With Small Expense.
 Throwing the bundles upon the ground for the cattle to trample under foot while the feeder is descending the steps or coming around the back way is the ordinary method of feeding fodder from the two story or the "bank" barn. Those who have been pursuing this plan will greatly appreciate the improvement represented in the following cut, which was originally drawn for The Rural New Yorker and thus described in that journal:

The cost of this arrangement is comparatively small and within the reach of all. A platform 12 to 14 feet long and as wide as the small double doors—7 feet or more—is hung to the rear of the barn. Out upon this the fodder is carried and dropped into a feeding rack placed on the ground just below. The side beams of this hanging platform are made of light wood, pine or poplar, 3 inches by 8 inches, connected below by four crosspieces of stouter material, 3 inches by 4 inches, all firmly bolted together. Boards nailed down upon these crosspieces form the floor. A bolt having a hook above is inserted near the outer end of each side beam of the platform.

 form, and in each doorway, about four feet from the floor, a similar hooked bolt is placed, upon which are hung the brace rods, made of five-eighths inch round iron furnished with a ring at each end.

Through the sill, just back of each door post, two half inch holes are bored and an iron loop (C) inserted, having an inside measure slightly greater than 3 inches in width and extending half a foot or more below the surface. These receive and hold the beams at the back end of the platform. To prevent straining these loops by any horizontal thrust a board (B) is placed just behind them, against which the ends of the beams may rest. This board is supported by others (A) nailed against the sleepers in the position shown in the drawing. When the season's feeding is done, the platform is taken down and stowed away until again needed. The feed rack is placed just below the outer end of the platform and parallel with the barn. In this position it may be 16 feet long and yet easily reached from the platform. Ordinary fencing boards and scantling are used in its construction.

Poultry in Texas.
 The south, and Texas in particular, offers an inviting field to poultrymen. A Texan in The Poultry Journal says: In climate we have much the advantage of the north and east. On a farm fowls do well the year round with little shelter or feed. This statement should be qualified by the remark that during a Texas "norther" or Kansas "blizzard" they need both, but severe cold does not come more than three or four times in a year and seldom lasts more than three days. The temperature seldom falls below 20 above zero. Sometimes where fowls are exposed to the severest weather combs will freeze and egg production will be checked for a few days, but if the farmer has not a comfortable house for his fowls he usually hustles them into his barn or under his house until the weather moderates in which case the cold does no harm.

In this climate during three-fourths of the year a tree is more healthful for fowls than a close house, but the ideal home for them is a house walled on the north and west and latticed on the south and east exposure. Such a house will afford sufficient protection and ventilation the year round. Curtains should be provided for the latticed sides during the coldest weather. As we frequently do not have a dozen real rainy days in a year, the only shelter needed in any line is protection from the sun; hence what famous Texas fowls bring the farmer is almost a clear profit, his chief labor being to gather and market the eggs. The drawback heretofore to poultry raising in Texas has been a lack of access to markets, but conditions are now changed, as towns have sprung up and railroads been built.

Much attention has of late been given to improving the doughbill fowls by mating with thoroughbred males, while in many cases the doughbill has given place to pure breeds. Plymouth Rocks and Leghorns are the most popular as account of their ability to take care of themselves. Game, Light Brauns, Hamburgs and Minorcas are becoming a favorite breed. The demand for fine fowls is fast creating a bonanza.

PURITAN MARRIAGE CUSTOMS.
 Starting Bible Texts Sometimes Selected For the Wedding Sermon.

A marriage in church was rare, writes Alice Morse Earle in The Ladies' Home Journal, in an article on "Courtship and Marriage in Puritan Days." Occasionally one took place in the new house of the young couple. This was held to be somewhat unlucky. Thanksgiving day was a favorite time to choose to be married, as friends were then gathered from afar.

The bride was universally advised to wear something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue, and though she could dress before a mirror she must not look in the glass when once her toilet was completed, else ill luck, in vaguely defined but positive form, wore the result. Sunday was really the exhibition day for the bride. Indeed she found at meeting the sole place in which she could appear before an assembled public, and for this exhibition the happy pair donned their finest bridal attire. The bride and groom and bridal party opened the show by proudly walking in a little procession through the narrow streets to the meeting house on the Sabbath following the marriage.

In Larned's "History of Windham County, Conn.," we read a description of such an amusing scene in Brookfield, Conn. Further public notice was drawn to the bride by allowing her to choose the text for the sermon preached on the first Sunday of the coming out of the newly married couple. Much intimacy was exhibited in finding appropriate and sometimes startling Bible texts for their wedding sermons.

The instances are well known of the marriage of Pardon Smith's two daughters, one of whom selected the text, "Mary hath chosen that good part," while the daughter Abby, who married John Adams, decided upon the text, "John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say he hath a devil."

FORCED TO TAKE A TITLE.
 Its Acquisition Forbidden by Law.
CONTRARY TO THE CONSTITUTION.
 How It Has Been Fastened on a Newspaper.
 The Constitution of the United States forbids the acquisition of titles.
 In the far west not much respect is paid to titles. Neatly every man is a "Colonel" or an "Honorable." It is so little thought of that many men prefer to be called plain John Smith, Til Ford, Jo Simon.
 But titles are sometimes conferred by accident, and become a really good handle to catch hold of. In that case the people catch on and use the handle right freely and properly.
 A CURIOUS CASE.
 A stack of letters is received at this office in every mail and while many of them are printed in large letters "The One Cent Daily, Salem, Or.," a great many are written and there is a great variety of ways of writing it. Here are some of the forms:
 "1 ct. D., Salem, Or."
 "1ct. DAILY, Salem, Or."
 "ONE CENT DAILY, Salem, Or."
 "THE ONE CENT DAILY, Salem, Or."
 "THE ONE CENT DAILY JOURNAL, Salem, Or."
 "THE GREAT ONE CENT DAILY JOURNAL, Salem, Or."
 "THE HONORABLE ONE CENT DAILY JOURNAL, Salem, Or."
 That's a queer title for a newspaper to get isn't it? About the last on earth, anyone would think of!
 "THE HONORABLE!"
 Just think that over, what it means in connection with journalism.
 Honorable with itself.
 Honorable with the people.
 Honorable with its readers.
 Honorable in its politics.
 Honorable with its contemporaries.
 Honorable in all its dealings.
 Honorable towards other communities.
 Honorable towards every human being.
 That's what a newspaper should be.
 Perhaps?
 Perhaps what?
 Perhaps this is all a lie.
 Maybe it is.
 But the people keep on addressing their letters
HON. ONE CENT DAILY,
 Salem, Or.
 In every mail come orders with the amounts are small. But they aggregate enough to pay our paper bills, to pay Mrs. Jones her rent, to pay our employees, to pay the Water Company for power to run our press, to pay the Electric Light Co. for lights in the office, to pay for ink, to pay the cabbage head editor who worries the Statesman and Oregonian so. We don't know what would become of them if we had real editors like they've got, instead of just a common Dutch cabbage head.
 But the orders keep coming for THE ONE CENT DAILY.
 25 cents in silver for a month.
 50 cents in silver for two months.
 $1.00 in silver for 121 days. (Do not send stamps).
 We can't stop them sending in the orders.
 But we can and do stop THE ONE CENT DAILY when your time is out. No papers sent but what you pay for.
