VETERAN LEAVES MCKINLEY.

The following are extracts from a letter written by an old veteran of Eastern Oregon to a friend at Salem. He has been a life long Republican and a patriotic citizen. He says:

EIGHT MILE, Or., Oct. 12, 1896.

"We are still complaining of hard times, however, crops are better and prices better than they were last year. Those of us who oppose the gold standard firmly believe that the hard times will continue indefinitely if the gold standard is permanently established in this country, hence we are for Bryan, first, last, and all the time. This is a campaign of falsehood, slander and vituperation. It is a campaign in which the rich are arrayed against the poor, the classes against the masses, notwithstanding McKinley said in his letter of acceptance that there are no classes in this country. McKinley may be a very nice man, but he has got into bad company. He has placed himself in the hands of the most corrupt ring of politicians, that ever disgraced American soil. When I consider the means that are being employed, and the vast amount of money subscribed by the monopolies, trusts and combines to the Republican campaign fund for the purpose of purchasing McKinley's election, my blood boils with just indignation. I hope to see the day when men, instead of blindly following party, will lay aside party prejudice and vote for principle, vote for the welfare of the people instead of the success of party. I was trained in early youth to oppose slavery in any form, no matter if it was black or white slavery, chattel or industrial slavery, and I hope I have not so far forgot my early training as to vote with the oppressors of the human race. When I look around me and see my friends lending aid by voice and vote to this unholy cause, to this unholy crusade against humanity, I almost despair. I almost lose hope of the ultimate triumph of the right. The Republicans still insist that it is only a lack of confidence that has caused the hard times and all we have to do to restore prosperity is to elect McKinley. I am one of those who believe that confidence must have something more substantial than a mere shadow to rest upon."

E. B. STANTON.

Senator Tillman had an immense crowd at McMinnville Monday, where he spoke over the noon hour. Farmers came to hear him from points as far as Independence, Salem, Nestucca and others less distant. Loads came in armed with pitchforks and all manner of emblems, such as showed their appreciation of the senator's position. A McKinley man in the crowd asked some questions, which were satisfactorily answered, until he sprung one of an impertinent nature. At this the Senator invited his questioner to the platform, but he declined, saying "you will try to prove me a liar."

"No," said the Senator, "but I might prove you a fool."

The meeting closed with three cheers and amid the best of feeling.

There is to be a Bryan rally at Richey, next Thursday night. A good program has been arranged.

DAZED ON THE DESERT.

A Man Dies of Thirst Within One Hundred and Fifty Yards of a Lake of Fresh Water.

On the burning sands of Cocopah desert, beside a lake that appears to be of the coolest and the purest of fresh water, lie the bones of an American who died of thirst, and around him are five or six holes of two or three feet in depth, which he dug with his finger nails in a frenzy of thirst. His fingers are worn off at the ends, and only his whitening bones are left to bear witness to the tragedy.

Jose Garcia, who makes a living by peddling from one little camp to another on the desert, has returned from a trip which began on Aug. 20. He left here at that time and engaged a guide at the new placer camp at Los Picachos, below the boundary line, to take him to a mining camp in the Cocopah mountains in the heart of the desert. The guide was named Quirino Sosillo, a half breed, and with them went also Frank Cota, a Mexican. They left Los Picachos in the afternoon, traveled all night, and by the next morning were far out on the desert. By some miscalculation they were without water, and though not lost they were bewildered as to the nearest way to a well and spent the next two days in traveling without water, becoming almost insane from thirst. On the evening of the third day they found water. They were then on the northeast side of Great Salt Lake, or Leguna Salada, that lies between the Cocopah mountains on the east and the Painted mountains on the west. The lake is about six miles wide and 20 or 30 in length, varying in size according to the season, indicating that it is fed by the Gulf of California. It is very shallow and saltier than the waters of the ocean.

The three men proceeded southward between the lake and Cocopahs for a distance of ten miles or so and there encountered two Mexicans and a white man. The two former were named Margarito Angulo and Felipe Moreno, and the American's name was not learned, but from the description he is thought to be Fred Wassum, who left this city for the Cocopah placers some weeks ago. Garcia continues the story as follows:

"The men came from Los Picachos by way of Miji and had been without water for several days, and one of them, Margarito Angulo, was already crazy. He was as deaf as a post and wandered around like a drunken man. He paid no attention to my guide, and we had to lay hold of him to make him drink. In a few hours he was all right. The others were in their right minds, but in a terrible condition, and as I saw their swollen tongues my own began to swell, for I had passed through the same torture only two days before, and even now my tongue swells while I think of it. We gave them water, and they soon revived and continued on their way. They were burdened with a dry washer and many tools and moved slowly, so we left them, my guide giving them directions how to find the next water.

"A few miles farther we came upon the bones of a man lying stark on the sand about 25 yards from the lake. There was no flesh left. The coyotes had found the body. One leg was gone, but the rest of the remains were there. The head lay toward the north, face upward. The whiskers were dark and turning gray, and the hair was the same. The man had worn a blue jumper, a red woolen undershirt, one boot and a brown slouch hat. I found a cheap clasp purse in his jumper pocket which contained this paper, which is a piece of an envelope or paper sack, addressed 'James Moore, paymaster A. T. and S. F., Topeka.' In the purse was also part of a greenback. There was nothing else to identify the body. The boot was about a No. 6, and the man did not seem to have been large.

I TOOK CARE OF THE SHAKES.

Uncle Allen had dropped into a cobbler's shop for repairs. As he rose up after putting on the mended shoe he pulled the chair up with him.

"That lump of wax," said the shoemaker, "seems to have formed a strong attachment for you."

"I don't reciprocate," replied Uncle Allen, "but I confess I'm a good deal stuck on the chair."—Chicago Tribune.
