Money Makes the Goods Low. XXX

We have found the cash system very satisfactory. The wholesale dealers appreciate it, we like it, and our patrons are well pleased with it. We buy our goods cheaper and, consequently, we can and do sell cheaper. It has made new customers for us. Once they come, they always stay.

Investigate our claim of having the finest and cheapest line of Dry Goods and Ladies' Furnishings in the city.

There by Miss Mandie, who has been visiting with the Stock's for some time.

Mr. Newton Dryhead and Miss Ella Blinnard, of Franklin, Ind., are the guests of Miss Rose Woodruff. These young people attended the great C. E. convention at San Francisco, and stopped off at Salem this morning enroute home, for a short visit with Miss Woodruff.

C. E. DELEGATES

Thousands Pass Through Salem on Their Return Home.

As previously announced, thousands of the delegates to the International Christian Endeavor convention are passing through Salem on their return home to points in the middle West, Atlantic and New England states.

The convention met in San Francisco on July 5, and its closing session was held July 12, when the immense army of young Christian workers departed for their homes. Most of the delegates came via Southern and Central routes, and decided to return via the Northern routes, thus completing a circuit of the United States. The routes selected for the homeward journey, will afford the Eastern tourists much beautiful scenery and those fortunate enough to possess cameras will carry back with them many views of beautiful mountain scenery as souvenirs of the journey to the Pacific coast.

The first section of the C. E. home-bound excursion train reached Salem at 4:30 a.m. today and made only a brief stop. The train consisted of 12 coaches, but most of the tourists had not yet risen and were thus denied the pleasure of seeing the Capital City in all its beauty, on a typical Oregon summer morning.

Section No. 2 of the Endeavorers, excursion, consisting of fifteen coaches did not reach Salem until shortly before 12 o'clock noon; all the coaches were comfortably occupied. In one coach a company of young people were observed playing a game of cards. No poker chips being seen, the writer concluded that the young people were engaged in that ever-fascinating game of whist as a means of relieving the monotony of a tedious railway ride of several thousand miles. At best it was not a very high recommendation for persons of their profession.

By reason of the Endeavor excursions, the north-bound California overland, due in Salem at 7:10 a.m. did not arrive here until 12:30 p.m. today. It consisted of three baggage cars and nine passenger coaches, as usual, heavily loaded.

At least five additional C. E. excursion trains will leave Ashland, tonight, bound for Portland, thence to Eastern points. The trains will consist of about a dozen coaches each, and will pass through Salem, Thursday morning. The greater part of the Oregon delegation, especially the local contingent, will probably arrive home on the trains tomorrow morning.

THE LOCATION—Of a place having been learned it is no trouble to find the place. You will find Branson & Co.'s grocery corner of Court and Commercial streets, and in trading there you can but be pleased.

GARDNER

Will Be Sentenced Thursday.

Proceedings in Both Departments of Circuit Court.

Circuit Judge Gen. H. Burnett, re-convened department No. 1, of the Marion county circuit court at 9 o'clock this morning in the county court room.

F. L. Gardner, the Marion postmaster, who was convicted on July 1, of the crime of rape committed May 28, 1897, with Mabel Hitchman, the 14-year-old daughter of Walter Hitchman, was to have been sentenced by Judge Burnett this morning, but his attorneys, Messrs. Tilmon Ford and R. J. Hendricks having filed a motion for a new trial, the pronouncing of sentence was suspended, pending argument of the motion. R. J. Hendricks opened the argument for the defense. The motion for a new trial was read as were affidavits from M. E. Pogue and members of the grand jury all of whom went to show that Mabel Hitchman had testified in justice court at the preliminary examination that the crime was committed May 28, 1897, and when the case was on trial in the circuit court she made oath that the crime was perpetrated on April 28. The grounds upon which the defense requested a new trial and as contained in the motion were as follows: In because of surprise to the defendant occasioned by the testimony of Mabel Hitchman, by which she changed the date of the alleged occurrence from the 28th of May back to the 28th of April, which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against; 2d. Because of newly discovered evidence material for the defendant, which could not with reasonable diligence have been discovered and produced at the trial; 3d. Insufficiency of evidence to justify the verdict; 4th: Because said verdict is against the law.

Deputy District Attorney J. H. McNary and District Attorney S. L. Hayden followed and showed that the date upon which the crime was committed was immaterial, providing it was within the time as provided in the statutes. Counsel for state also contended that the result of the first trial would not be affected in least by a new trial.

Tilmon Ford then addressed the court on behalf of the defendant and for over an hour labored earnestly for a new trial. The defense laid unusual stress on the fact that the principal witness for the state, Mabel Hitchman had contradicted herself as to the date upon which the alleged crime was committed.

Judge Burnett took the matter under consideration until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when the case will be further argued.

Gardner is about 45 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches in height and slightly corpulent. He wears a heavy mustache of unusual length.

Judge Burnett made the following order:

State vs. F. L. Gardner, rape; defendant's motion for new trial argued and further hearing postponed until July 15, 1897, at 2 o'clock p.m. Time for pronouncing judgment also postponed to that time.

IN DEPARTMENT NO. 2.

The entire time of Judge Hewitt's court today was occupied by the La Roque divorce case. The case began Tuesday afternoon and at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, the testimony for the plaintiff had not been all received. Geo. G. Bingham, of this city, and Chester Dolph, of Portland, are counsel for Mrs. La Roque. Messrs. Wm. Kaiser, W. H. Holmes & Kellogg are counsel for the defendant.

THE COUNTY COURT.

Judge G. P. Terrell and Commissioners Watson and Davis re-convened the Marion county court at 3 o'clock this afternoon and proceeded to the transaction of the business not yet considered at the July term.

LEARNING FAST.—Housekeepers are learning to replace broken dishes free. The freshest and best teas and coffees are sold as cheap as anywhere at the Yokohama Tea store, with tickets for crockery and glassware thrown in. At 243 Commercial street, Salem.

NOTICE.—All Odd Fellows of the city and visiting Odd Fellows are requested to meet at the I. O. O. F., hall in the Holman building, corner of State and Liberty streets, at 9:45 a.m. Thursday to attend the funeral of E. M. Waite, Ed. N. Edes, N. G., Olive Lodge, No. 18, C. H. Robertson, secretary.

E. M. WAITE'S DEATH

His Death Moved the Community—Preparations for Funeral.

No death has ever occurred at Salem among business men that has been so generally regretted as that of E. M. Waite, the veteran printer and public spirited citizen of Salem.

His many relations to all the activities of this community are now severed, but his influence will be felt for years to come. His strong social nature, his willing mind, feet and hands, made him a treasure to this community. Mr. Waite was an old time printer and also a graceful writer.

He often contributed to the local columns of the press and always in an agreeable and interesting manner. No man had a greater pride or better taste in decorating and beautifying his home and grounds. It was due to his efforts that the state house grounds were beautified and planted with shrubbery. He inspired others to make improvements and his thorough knowledge of botany was always at command of anybody who desired information.

WAITE AS A PRINTER.

E. M. Waite's exact age is not known. Some who have known him long think he was 66, but he was possibly 70. He was born in Massachusetts, and lived in Westfield, where he learned the printer's art when quite young. He worked on the Journal of Commerce of New York, and left that city for Oregon.

He came by the Isthmus and located in Oregon City, in 1851. There he was foreman for A. Bush, territorial printer, and was also foreman for State Printer Bush when the capital was changed to Salem. He was also foreman on the Oregon Statesman and the Christian Advocate. In 1869 he started a book and job office in Salem, and, with the exception of a short interval, was in the printing business for himself thereafter.

In 1874, Mr. Waite was the Republican nominee for state printer. For 11 years he was secretary of the state board of agriculture. He served as member of the Salem city council and was chairman of the board of school directors of the Salem district when he died. He was also a member of Olive Lodge, L. O. O. F., of Salem.

HIS ODD FELLOW RECORD.

Mr. Waite became a member of Olive Lodge No. 18, L. O. O. F., of this city on the evening of February 11, 1871, when he was initiated, and he has held membership continuously since that date. He has ever been a consistent and faithful member of the fraternity. He soon advanced in the order. On July 11, 1874, he was installed noble grand of the lodge filling the office during his term of six months with credit to himself and entire satisfaction to the fraternity.

On July 2, 1875, Mr. Waite was installed treasurer of the lodge and his work in the order, and scrupulous care of the funds gave such entire satisfaction that he was kept in that position for a number of terms. On April 3, 1875, Mr. Waite was elected a representative to the grand lodge of Oregon, and on May 19th, of that same year, he became a member of the grand lodge in which he held his membership to his death, being for a number of years a very active member of that body. Mr. Waite was known among the members of the order of Odd Fellows, not only in every portion of this state but far beyond its confines, and his demise will be sincerely mourned by all of them.

IN OTHER BUSINESS.

E. M. Waite was also engaged in other lines of business, among which were stock buying for the immigrant trade in Eastern Oregon, shipping produce to California, etc. In company with E. Holland he went to where Silverton now stands and built a store, being the first building erected in that now flourishing little city. There he soon became tired of merchandising, and afterward he began working at the case along side of his old chum, W. B. Carter (deceased) in the Christian Advocate office, in Portland; at the same time, as an outside speculation, he and Mr. Carter were running a milk-ranch near the city. A few months later he came with the first Statesman to Salem, and he followed it with the legislature to Corvallis and back to Salem. In 1869 he established a job office, in Salem, adding to it from time to time until it became one of the best selected in the state. Prior to his launching into business for himself Mr. Waite was an employee in the job printing office then owned by A. L. Stinson, now deceased. He was at one time connected with the management of the Willamette Farmer, which was published in Salem for a number of years.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral services will take place Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, from the late residence of the deceased, Rev. P. S. Knight officiating.

After the services at the home, Olive Lodge, No. 18, L. O. O. F., of which Mr. Waite was an honored member, will take charge of the remains, and will conduct the funeral services of that order at the grave, before final interment.

Interment will be held in the family burying ground in Rural cemetery.

The Salem Horticultural society, of which he was president, have appointed a committee to decorate his last resting place with flowers and have ordered a beautiful floral piece for the coffin. E. M. Waite will be buried in flowers.

A BUSINESS CHANGE.

The Willamette hotel livery barn, which has for several years past been conducted by J. F. Stoen, has been purchased by W. J. Huffman, who owned the place some 5 years ago. This barn will have the best of stock at all times and most of its vehicles are new. They make a specialty of keeping the gentlest horses, especially for single driving for ladies. They also are prepared to furnish parties with hack and outfit for coast or mountains parties. Mr. Huffman is a competent man in the livery business and will without a doubt do a flourishing business.

From a Washington Man.
