Lost a Valuable Horse.

C. E. Kays, lost a valuable horse today, being obliged to kill the animal owing to an unfortunate accident, and one which altogether too frequently happens and can be avoided by a little attention. His horse, a brown, while scratching its head with its foot got the hoof through the throat latch of the halter and in its effort to relieve itself from its difficulty it thrashed and bounded around until its head was badly bruised and when found in the morning was swollen to twice its normal size and it was impossible to get its tongue back into its mouth, and it was therefore deemed expedient to kill the beast. Mr. Kays has learned a lesson at the cost of a valuable horse.

A New Diamond.

A new baseball diamond is being got in readiness on the west end of Wilson avenue which will give the baseball lovers an opportunity to play ball without going to the fair grounds. The Foresters and Red Men who will meet to decide their superiority at the National game have about decided to meet at the west end of Wilson avenue where a fine diamond is being prepared.

This game will be hotly contested. A purse is being arranged by citizens in order to make it of interest and to defray the incidental expenses connected with a ball game. If played on the avenue diamond the game will be well attended.

Contracts Awarded.

Bids were opened for the building of several hop houses, for Horst Brothers various yards. Al Campbell of Dallas, receiving the contract for the buildings to be erected on the large 400 acre yard on the old Dove place where the buildings to be constructed will consume about 50,000 feet of lumber.

A MANILA LETTER.

Brave Oregon Boy Who Has Been a Conspicuous Target for Filipino Bullets.

Hon. K. L. Hibbard of this county received following letter from Manila, of date May 29th., from his nephew Walter Perkins in the Washington regiment:

WALTER PERKINS'S LETTER.

Your very kind letter has been received and must beg your pardon attempting to write my reply with a led pencil.

The heat down here is terrible just now, May being generally the warmest month in the year.

Our regiment has been constantly on the line since the commencement of hostilities and the hardships they have undergone have been terrible, being blistered by the rays of a tropical sun during the day and after being drenched to the skin by rain, while lying in the trenches at night, are nothing pleasant, I assure you.

The hospitals are filled with sick, many being overcome by the heat.

The authorities are doing all they can in their power to prevent any news as to the condition of things over here from reaching the states, for fear the people would demand the return of the volunteers. All these reports now current in the states are purposely misleading.

Not one half of one percent could be induced to remain here for five times the $500. bounty the government has offered.

The volunteers have been doing all the active fighting, while the regulars have invariably been held in reserve, or for interior guard. Now these men, who often against their honest convictions of what is right, have fought with a courageous soul for their country, never excelled in the annals of American warfare, say to me that they will leave this island, which they left their homes and the civil walks of life is now over and their contract with the United States now terminates.

There has been no general engagement with the enemy since the big battle on January, 5th., though we have had numerous skirmishes with them. Since they have discovered they could not force the American lines, they have resorted to guerrilla warfare, their favorite tactics being to venture down out of the mountains at night and attack our outposts, returning at day break. In one of these skirmishes, near the first of April, we had a captain killed, one of the most popular officers in the regiment. Up to date my company has lost five men killed and four wounded.

Though my work has been such as to spare me from many of the hardships of the campaign, I have often been a conspicuous target for sharpshooters at both long and short range, while galloping across the country with dispatches I recall one instance in particular when an enterprising insurer made me wish sincerely that I was only about a foot high, and if there is anything in this world that can make a fellow feel like as if he was as long as a barn is to hear the "ping" of a Mauser bullet that conveys the complements of some hidden "gee gee" in a bamboo thicket. I have never quite gotten over the temptation to duck my head when those leaden Christmas presents come very near that part of my anatomy.

My experience has been that a man is generally more nervous when he is fired on from long range by a hidden foe than at any other time, this is especially true, if the man has good reason to believe that he has been particularly singled out for a target. During a spirited engagement fire is generally borne along on the tide of enthusiasm and excitement, that consciousness of danger rarely exists.

I long for my return to the states and to civil life, for, although this experience has been of inestimable value to me, in many ways, one never realizes how dear are the ties of country until they have been separated from its shores.
