A ROYAL PROCLAMATION

Summons the British Parliament On the 17th of October and the Military Reserves are Ordered Out at Once.

Transvaal is Active -- Queen Victoria May not terminate Her Glorious Reign in Peace -- Forces Commence Mobilizing Monday -- Ugly Reports of the Treatment of Refugees -- Liberals Proclaim the Necessity of British Supremacy in South Africa.

By Associated Press to the Journal. LONDON, Oct. 7.—A royal proclamation summoning parliament to meet October 17 and authorizing the calling out of reserves was signed this morning. A summons will be issued today for the number reserves necessary to bring every battalion ordered to South Africa to its full strength. This forward movement here is fully counterbalanced by stories of military preparations in the Transvaal and Free State.

Troops Move Monday. LONDON, Oct. 7.—The field force for service in South Africa, the war office announces, will commence mobilizing Monday.

Boer Situation Bad. LONDON, Oct. 7.—A new element of danger has arisen in the exasperation created throughout the British colonies of South Africa by stories of brutal treatment of refugees by the Boers. Whether correct or not, reports of outrages upon women and children are being accepted in many quarters.

The Liberal View. LONDON, Oct. 7.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, speaking at a luncheon especially arranged to give the leader of the opposition in the house of commons an opportunity of expressing his views regarding the Transvaal crisis, said that neither side has shut the door upon the peace negotiations.

Great Britain, said he, "has not made her demands as a sovereign power, but in virtue of international law and as the power responsible for the well being of South Africa. Party interests must stand aside at this juncture, as well as the reputation of ministers. I do not believe diplomacy has said its last word, although the country is on the brink of war. It is a remarkable thing that, when the question is asked what we are going to war about, no answer can be given. This country has never yet gone into a great war in such a state of uncertainty.

"It was an evil day," he continued, "when this claim was dug from the grave in which it was decently buried in 1884 by the wise and experienced men who then conducted British affairs, the men who buried it because they knew it was devoid of efficacy, and a fruitful source of difficulty. I believe the country has confounded the word 'sovereignty,' which is valueless, with the great fact which is essential and cardinal—the pre-eminence, the supremacy, paramountcy, or whatever you may wish to call it, of British power in South Africa, which is indisputable and founded upon the necessary facts of the situation."

"From patriotic motives, the liberals cannot and should not embarrass the government, but the time for free speaking will come by and by. At the present moment the interests of party, the reputation of ministers, and our estimate of the conduct of the government must all stand aside, as the only thing that matters is the question of peace or war."

Pointing out the absurdity of going to war for a difference of two years in the opposing franchise proposals, Sir Campbell-Bannerman declared that the claims of sovereignty had finally been exploded by Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Sir Edward Clarke.

The Pest House. The city authorities, represented by Thos. Burrows, chairman of the health committee, are taking energetic steps to properly handle anything in the way of contagious disease which may demand attention. The building of a pest house on Water street being objected to by parties in the vicinity of the site selected, another site has been found, and by the kindness of Dr. Pierce, the building will be temporarily located on the old Parrish place, east of Capitol street and north of No. 1 Mill creek, a good distance away from any other buildings. The work is being pushed under the supervision of Alderman Riggs and assistants, and the house will be ready for use in a day or so.

An Exhibition. The large nasturtium head, which has hung in the L. B. Hoffman livery barn for several years, has been taken to the Portland Exposition, where it will be on exhibition during the fair. Mr Hoffman has been offered a large sum for this specimen, as it is a rare one and in a good state of preservation.

They Had Passes. The Minnesota volunteers were supplied with free transportation from San Francisco to their homes by the public spirited people of that state. They got $110 travel pay each. The Oregon volunteers had to pay their own way home. Query: Did the Oregon state officials and state military authorities travel back and forth to receive the boys at their own expense or the state of Oregon?

FROM THE PHILIPPINES. A Regiment of Volunteers Passes Through The City. Private L. E. Lee, of the C. company, 13th Minnesota regiment of St. Paul was a pleasant caller at the Journal office this morning, while the train was delayed at Salem. The thirteenth Minnesota regiment arrived in Frisco on Sept. 9th and they have been treated royally since they sailed from Manila. They left seven days ago. They expect to arrive in St. Paul on the 12th, where great preparations have been made to receive them. The Twelfth regiment were thrown with the Second Oregon for 30 days during which time they saw some of the hardest fighting of the war and the Minnesota boys have many warm friends in Co. K, and M. The regiment started out with 1300 men and now on their home journey only 900 men being left. Mr. Lee wears a button of Major Diggles, of Minneapolis who sat on his horse beside Colonel Summers of Second Oregon when Summers was wounded and he himself saw him fall. The Minnesota boys have nothing but praise for their Oregon brothers in war. Mr. Lee says the Oregon boys were considered among the greatest fighters in the service.

THIRD YACHT RACE A DRAW.

Columbia Proves the Better Vessel in First Round for Blood.

Both Vessels in the International Yacht Race Show Remarkable Sailing Qualities -- The American Vessel Could Not Be Caught Napping -- A Mutiny On a Philadelphia Excursion Steamer -- Several Reported Killed But the Story is Afterward Denied.

By Associated Press to the Journal. New York, Oct. 7.—The starting gun was fired at 11:20. Columbia crossed the line ten seconds ahead of the Shamrock, 11:47—Columbia still leading but the race is very close.

12:03—The Columbia is left by about an eighth of a mile. At 12:10 the Shamrock had gained rapidly on the Columbia.

1:36—The Columbia has gained during the past twenty minutes and turned the stake boat only a length behind. The boats are now abreast.

1:56—The Shamrock still holds the lead.

2:44—Both boats are standing far out to sea, apparently getting a better breeze. The relative positions are unchanged but the Columbia appears to be getting the best of the breeze.

3:05—Shamrock still ahead.

3:23—The Columbia seems to have a slight lead. If the wind holds out it will be a beautiful race to the finish.

3:15—The race is apparently off. Time limit expires at 4:05.

Details of Race. New York, Oct. 7.—The Yachts spent a half hour after arriving at the starting point trying the wind, running about one tack or the other, and up and down, off and on the wind. As the time of start approached the wind began to decrease and at 10:30 it was not blowing much over 12 knots.

The 11:05 gun spoke out a preparatory signal. The crews on the rival boats then began jockeying for a start in earnest. Columbia had the weather position and try as he would, Hogarth admit of the yachts finishing within could not out her from the better berth.

As the boats tore along toward the lightship almost parallel to the starting line they made a beautiful picture. Just before getting to the lightship Columbia eased off quickly and crossed the line at 11:21 1/2.

The Shamrock tried to get nearer to the lightship than her rival in order to break up the Columbia's wind, but had not room, so crossed on the Columbia's weather quarter at 11:21. In Columbia was first over but the Shamrock was pointed in to the weather berth.

This was a challenge that set Barr off his course and down on the fleet of steamers. The torpedo boats shrieked wildly. They did not need a second look to know that Barr, and Hogarth as well, would sail through walls of iron rather than give, in the first battle.

When the Columbia broke out her big boom, which filled in a wholesome way, she took a spurt. The windward maneuver was called off within 15 minutes. Both boats set back into the course, the Columbia in the lead.

Columbia Lead. The official time rounding the outer mark was Shamrock 1:30:25, Columbia 1:30:34. Immediately after rounding the Columbia went on to a port tack followed shortly by the Shamrock.

The Columbia tacked again and forced the Shamrock about. It was a great game of jockeying with the American doing the better work. At 1:15 the Columbia was in the lead by about 30 seconds.

The wind, however, was too light to position and try as he would, Hogarth admit of the yachts finishing within the time limit. The boats were about seven miles from the finish when the race was called off.

A Meeting. New York, Oct. 7.—A Philadelphia excursion steambot, the Georgiana, which went out to the race this morning returned this afternoon with her flag at half mast. As she passed the Battery her captain sung out that a mutiny had occurred on board, and that four or five persons were killed.

It is said gambling games were running on deck and no attempt was made to reach the race course. The passengers demanded that the vessel proceed to the course and a riot ensued. It is now said no one was killed.
