FOR GAME FISH AND FORESTS

As Well as for the Yellow Metal
Alaskas Possibilities Not Yet Dreamed of

Alaska is teeming with animal life. From the countless millions of fish crowding its thousands of rivers to the still more countless millions of game birds in the cover of her limitless forests and plains, the broad land is life-sustaining from the Pacific to the Arctic Ocean, from the great lakes at the head of the Yukon to the Behring Sea.
 Volumes could be written on the subject of the inexhaustible resources of the country, and were a man to do justice to the whole subject, some of the stories would sound like the exaggerations of a person suffering from an abnormally developed imagination.
 Principally the salmon canneries of Alaska produce at the present time more than 60 per cent of all the salmon canned in the whole world, and the industry is still in its infancy. With the rapid development of the salmon hatcheries and a more rational management, the whole catch of the rest of the world will be equal to only a fraction of the annual output of Alaska.
 But salmon is not the only fish schooling on the Alaskan coast and its outlying banks. The output of the herring fisheries, that were started only two or three years ago, has already reached a magnificent proportion and will in the near future be second to none in the world, the tremendous herring fisheries of Norway not excepted.
Immense Fisheries.
 Everybody has heard something of the cod fisheries of Newfoundland or of Dogger banks of Lofodden in Norway. But some day there will be reports from Alaskan cod banks that will reduce these now famous fishing grounds to comparative insignificance.
 Reports of vast schools of mackerel, larger and richer than those caught in the Atlantic, are now coming in from the westward, and American enterprise will soon take advantage of this new field.
 The immensity of the Alaskan halibut banks is almost beyond conception. Upon them a fishing schooner can be loaded in a few hours. Only lack of rapid transit to the markets of the world has kept the shipping of halibut from being a great world-wide industry.
 The fame of Alaska as a game country is world wide. While the costly fur-bearing animals are now becoming scarce in the more settled parts, there are still large areas where they abound. The deer on the islands of the coast are still plentiful, in spite of the enormous numbers killed every year, and in the interior the caribou and moose are still common. Bears of several varieties are very plentiful in wilder portions of the country. Bands of mountain goats range the higher uplands. Of fur animals, the fox, lynx, marten, beaver, otter, mink and many other species are still caught each year in large numbers.
Game and Timber.
 Along the Alaskan coast the sea is alive with schools of cod, haddock, many varieties of cod, dace, trout flounders and soles. The rivers and lakes of all the country are full of trout, the sportive grayling; the voracious pike and delicious large whitefish.
 Through the enactment of an effective game law, fur and fowl and meat and the invigorating sport of the chase will be saved for future generations.
 Alaska has limitless forests of red and yellow cedar, spruce, hemlock, birch, cottonwood and alder. Some of the trees grow to a large size and will scale on the average better than

WHY MOTHERS WORRY

Did you ever hear a mother worry over a plump child? There is no better bank of health for a child to draw from than a good supply of healthy flesh.
 Scott's Emulsion not only gives a child weight and plumpness, but it feeds the brain, bones and nerves with strength and active power.
 Fewer mothers would worry if they knew more about Scott's Emulsion.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.
 The timber in the eastern forests. In Alaska is the reserve supply for American lumbermen.
 What can be done in the line of farming has been treated in another article in this issue. The people of the States with wonder see proofs of what Alaska can produce at the Alabama Purchase Exposition in St. Louis next summer. This country can exhibit garden produce that is incomparable in growth and quality.
All Kinds of Minerals.
 Evidences of mineral wealth are observable everywhere throughout the country. Few of the splendid prospects have been exploited, though there are many paying mines of gold and copper in various parts of the country. The millions that have been mined from lodes and placers is as nothing compared to the certain output of the future. The time will come that Alaska will lead the world in producing copper and gold. This has been found in the far North. Beds of iron are plentiful but receive no attention, coal abounds throughout the Cook Inlet country, while along the coast of the Peninsula of Alaska coal oil has been discovered in a number of places. It is a land of signal promise for mine investors, miners and prospectors.—Daily Alaskan.
The Benefit of Change.
 We are like house plants. We need a change of soil now and then—to be replanted. New scenes, new experiences, new surroundings—a change of climate, dry air instead of moisture, sunshine in place of cloud. This is something essential to health. There are conditions near at hand that are better than Europe can offer. Take a month or two in California. Plant yourself for a time where there is no irritation, where the hotel is beyond criticism, the landscape pleasing, and where warm, sunny weather invites walks and drives. Pure and dry air, and the increased electric influences of sunshine are vastly helpful.
 You can make this trip at very little expense and enjoy a ride over the scenic Siskiyou and Shasta Mountains, which, at this time of the year, with their snow-covered peaks, are unsurpassed for their grandeur.
