Salem Beats Roseburg Two Straight Games

Albany and Eugene Each Win a Game--Salem Has the Pennant Pretty Safe

	Won.	Lost.	Per.
Salem	13	6	.684
Eugene	10	9	.526
Roseburg	9	9	.500
Albany	6	14	.290

In the games between Salem and Roseburg Saturday, Salem won by a score of 9 to 0, and Sunday repeated her victory with a score of 9 to 3. Albany lost the game to Eugene Sunday.

The Eugene Register dishes up the game with Albany Saturday as follows:

The Eugene team was pitted against 10 men today in the contest with the Albany league. Of these the umpire played the most formidable game. Both Shanahan and Somers were retired to the bench by this fresh autocrat of baseballdom. On account of one exceedingly rank and rotten decision Manager Mahoney protested the game, and is sure to win out. It occurred in this wise: One of the visitors was on first base, with no outs. A fly was knocked to infield, and the umpire allowed a double play, which was the rawest kind of a decision.

Features of the game were Keil's home run over the left field fence, with one Albany man on base; Pratt's pitching, with three men on bases, no outs, and shutting them out of a run. Tommy Mahoney's two-base hit, bringing in two runs, was also a clever piece of work. Albany's four runs in the first was a lucky streak for the locals. First came a single by an Albany man. The next man was hit by a pitched ball. Then came a wild pitch, an error and a two-base hit. After this had started Tallafera took a brace and pitched a pretty game. He gave place to Pratt in the seventh inning.

An error by Strubb, at third base, was responsible for the winning run in the twelfth inning. There was an attempt to steal third, and the ball was thrown to Strubb, who missed it.

Eugene stood to win the game hands down had it not been for the saffron-hued decisions of the umpire, who, apparently, is itching for a little baseball notoriety. The score by innings: Eugene .0 0 5 2 0 0 1 0 1 0 0 0—9 Albany .4 0 2 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 1—10

Painters Beat Laundrymen

The wielders of the paint brush yesterday met the starchers and ironers, on the diamond, and sent them to the tub with a score of 9 to 7. The day was an ideal one, but the crowd was small and not enthusiastic. Some very good ball was played, especially by Southwick of the painters, who took everything offered him, making an exceptionally good one-hand catch.

Another fine catch was made in the centerfield. The game was featureless, though as usual there was considerable fault found with the umpire, and the average amount of rag-chewing. In all of which the umpire won out 9 to 6.

Hands Down Opinions

The supreme court at noon today handed down decisions in five cases. Among them was the following:

Leo J. Patterson, respondent, vs. United Artisans, appellant; appeal from Multnomah county; M. C. George, Judge; affirmed. Opinion by Justice Bean.

This action was brought by plaintiff to collect a policy of life insurance on his father's life for $1900, which the defendant refused to pay for the reason that the insured committed suicide. The society lost in the lower court, on account of admissions of its own officers, and this finding was approved in the appellate court, and the son of deceased will secure the insurance money.

Other cases decided by the court were:

B. B. Colbath, appellant, vs. John Hoefler, et al., respondents; appeal from Marion county; G. H. Burnett, Judge; reversed. Opinion by Justice Wolverton.

Van B. Sears, executor, respondent, vs. Phya Daly, appellant; appeal from Marion county; G. H. Burnett, Judge; reversed. Opinion by Justice Bean. Stephen Williamson, et al., appel-

STUDY OF THE FORESTS

Government Examining Southern California Lands

Special Investigation Being Made of Chapparel Lands With View of Planting

The bureau of forestry has begun the task of securing all information necessary for a forest policy for California. The work is on such a large scale that several years will be required to complete it. Six men are now examining the public lands in the state to determine what parts of them are suitable for national forest reserves, and similar studies will be made of lands for state reserves. A study will be made of all lands owned by the state in order to determine the uses to which they may best be put, who should administer them and what sort of administration they should have.

A forest map of California will be made showing the location of all forest areas and distinguishing between different kinds of forests. In connection with this forest map will be a study of the important trees in order to learn with exactness the commercial range of valuable species.

An investigation will be made of the effects of lumbering on forests in order to determine what ought to be done to cut-over lands. The effect of fire on forests, especially in lumbering, and what may be done by the state to prevent fire, are some of the subjects that will take a long time to work out. In September E. A. Sterling of the bureau will try to determine what is the cheapest and most effective method of protection from fire of land that has been lumbered.

The bureau will also make a study of the chaparral lands of Southern California in order to learn whether it will pay to plant them with timber trees. A very interesting question has been asked as to whether chaparral, which includes a great variety of scrub trees, such as manzanita, scrub oak, valley mahogany and scrub cherry, will retain the moisture in the soil as well as timber trees. L. C. Miller, who has charge of this work, is now making a study of the conditions under which chaparral grows in the San Gabriel mountains, near Pasadena, where the bureau has been planting pines and cedars for several years.

The results of these separate investigations will be gathered together by William C. Hodge of the bureau, who has general charge of California work, and will be presented to the state in a formal report, accompanied by maps.

Simon Ford

Simon Ford, who is regarded as the legitimate successor of Mark Twain as an after-dinner speaker, has written his first book, which will be called "A Few Remarks," and Doubleday, Page & Company will publish it. A surprising thing about Mr. Ford is that he is neither a legal, financial, political nor a literary light. He is one of New York's successful hotel keepers, but his fame as a speech maker has already earned him an offer of $1500 a week from an enterprising theatrical manager. Mr. Ford declined the offer, and he will publish "A Few Remarks" instead.

Elder, Stayton, were absent, not served by the sheriff, for the reason that they were out of the county.

An information was filed by District Attorney Hart against S. B. Hoeringhaus, accused of obtaining money under false pretenses, by the issuance of a check for $25 on Ladd & Tilton, the Portland bankers. Hoeninghaus took until tomorrow at 5 o'clock to plead to the indictment. Carson & Adams appear for the defendant in the case.

The case of the State of Oregon against Clayton Bradley was the first cause called for trial. The attorneys for the defense moved that the indictment be quashed, for the reason that the copy served on defendant was incomplete. The motion was overruled, and the following jury was empaneled to try the case:

H. H. Spalding, James Winstanley, M. J. Petzel, A. A. Disque, W. J. R. Jones, J. O. Estes, W. H. Black, J. W. Jory, S. H. Coleman, R. D. Teter, O. G. Savage, M. Cooley.
