NEW IDEAS ABOUT CORN.

The Wide World, a magazine published in London, has the following vivid, though somewhat bewildering description of the growing of Indian corn in America. It shows conclusively the happy lot of the American farmer, and the high-grade intelligence of the English magazine editor. It says:

"Out in the Western States of America, and along the lines of the Pacific railway, the farmers reap Indian corn crops of extraordinary richness. It is the usual thing for them to gather in two crops per annum, and three crops are quite common, while four crops in a single year are not unknown. The lucky western farmer is sowing his seed almost before his crops are gathered, and the corn, when in its prime, is a beautiful sight; it grows straight up to a great height, so that the trains seem to be running through a never-ending vista of dazzling golden yellow grain, waving and swaying as the wind passes over it."

It is the four-leaved shamrock that is lucky, and Sir Thomas will have to try again.

The Oregon exhibit to Japan has arrived home, presumably in good order. The professional fair commissioner returned this week.

The county seat of Union county will be changed from Union to La Grande, under a recent decision of the courts. The beet sugar plant, and consequent influx of members of the Mormon church made the change possible.

Kyrle Bellow, the actor, is going to produce a new play in Philadelphia, entitled "The Amateur Cracksmen." He could find plenty of first-class material in Portland and Seattle to fill his company—although most of them are "bad actors."

A dispatch from Spokane says that during a storm on the 26th, several telephone girls were knocked senseless by lightning. It's a ten to one lead pipe cinder that they regained consciousness, each one parted her ruby lips and softly murmured "busy now."

The Portland barbers will hereafter charge 5 cents extra for fixing up a customer's mustache. Since the fraternity is getting things down to so fine a point, why not, to be perfectly honest, charge less for shaving a man with a mustache than one whose upper lip they have to shave.

It now transpires that the American consul killed at Beirut was a golf fiend on his way home from playing a game on the Syrian desert, by himself. This takes the case out of the class of international complications and brings it within the possibility of justifiable homicide.

The baby boy who had the good judgment to pick out Grover Cleveland for a father, has been christened Francis Grover Cleveland, the name being selected by the other children, after their father and mother. But just think of parents having no more regard for their offspring than to furnish them a birth place that wags its tail to the name of "Buzard's Bay."

The sweetest, dearest and most-looked-for voice in the whole wide world, is that of the hello girl, when she answers promptly. There is one, we won't say where, whose voice is like the chiming of silver bells, and so sweetly soft that it drips out of the receiver like the honey of Ispatan, and spatters when it hits the floor.

DOWIE! TAKES A CONTRACT

Will Tackle the Bulls and Bears of Wall Street

Proves the Statement That Feels Rush in Where Angels Fear to Tread

The Chicago Inter-Ocean of last Monday has the following concerning that somewhat celebrity John Alexander Dowie, who proposed establishing another Zion city in New York and backing, to use his own phrase, the devil in his own dominions—Wall Street.

To save the "captains of industry" will be the primary object of John Alexander Dowie's coming invasion of New York with 3000 Zion "restorationists." "Elijah, the restorer" does not propose to save the aforesaid "captains" from financial disaster, but will devote the efforts of himself and his army to their spiritual welfare. He describes them as twentieth-century buccaners, floating stocks on Wall street in lieu of sailing rickish craft on the high seas.

Yesterday "Dr." Dowie, in Zion tabernacle, Zion City, Ill., delivered the first of a series of sermons on evangelistic tactics preliminary to the siege of New York. A special train carried 600 of the faithful, and sight-seers from Chicago and residents of Zion City increased the attendance to 3500. Dowie declared that 3000 "restorationists"—no more, no less—would be in the army.

Will Besiege the City.

"We will come down on New York—the metropolis of American, perhaps I had better say the United States—and they will know Dowie is coming," declared Dowie, mopping the perspiration from his brow and pulling up his sleeves. "From Madison square we will lay siege to the greatest city in the country. I will have thousands in Madison square garden at 6:30 o'clock every morning to hear me expound the ten commandments, though the New York ministers can only get a yawning hundred at their Sunday services.

"Stop there, young man! Don't you go a step farther!" he paused to shout to a Zion guard who was tiptoeing up an aisle to a front seat.

"You go back! Go 'way back!" he continued, pointing a menacing finger at the terrified guard. "How dare you interrupt me!"

"God should watch that man," Dowie commented as the abashed guard slunk into a seat.

"New York is ahead of everything, and not the tail of anything in this country," continued Dowie, leaning back against the front of his pulpit and shoving his hands into the pockets of his purple-lined cassock. "New York is pre-eminent in all things. So we must plan more carefully to conquer it. We have never been defeated and we won't be this time, but our greatest fight is coming.

"On to New York!" shouted the leader.

"Amen," chorused the audience.

After Stock Waterers.

"New Yorkers are conservative and set in their ways, but they are receptive," explained Dowie, drinking the fourth glass of water, which the ascetic Overseer Speicher had slid onto the pulpit since the service started. "I always like this water from the bowels of Zion City, but it is the New Yorkers who like another brand of 'water' that we must get after. I mean the men who 'water' the stocks.

"Instead of being called the thieves that they are, they are called 'bulls' and 'bears.' The man who commits highway robbery has more chance for his soul than the speculator on Wall street. Their ancestors were pirates or buccaners, and they have the same spirit and thirst for blood, only they are called 'speculators.'

"Speculators!" he repeated loudly, smiting his cheeks with his clenched hands and stamping on the floor. "Speculators! Thieves and murderers! I say!"

Aims at Trade Center.

"It is not on the wicked Bowery, nor on the East side, nor in the Jewish quarters that we look for wickedness. We will look in the business centers, where men and women have ceased to care for the church, and how worship only the golden god of the double eagle!

"Are we all united? Is there a doubt in the ranks of the 3000?" he demanded, advancing to the edge of the platform.

A chorus of loyal protests greeted him.

"I am not surprised that the churches of New York have not extended a welcome to us," laughed Dowie, taking another drink of Zion City water. "They have lived up to the spirit of their Chicago brethren. But we will open their eyes, and the shepherds as well as the sheep will come to hear us.

"We will tell New York about the tobacco user, and they will learn why we Zionists call them 'stinkpots.' We will tell them about the unspeakable pig and the scavenger oyster," continued the speaker theatrically, illustrating his different subjects by mock expectations and swinish grunts.

Praise for Zion City. "We will tell the New Yorkers about the city where there are none of these things, and where there is neither physician nor drug store—the city which has the highest birth rate and the lowest death rate in the country. If they like it we may have another Zion City for New York state, and I will look forward to that time. But first we will make the present Zion City a great city, and it is now far from that."

"But, first of all, we will pay our respects to the editor of the Christian Advocate, who has lied about us. Yes, we'll fix him," he added, rubbing his hands gleefully in anticipation of the prospective "roastin'."

"And we need funds," he exclaimed confidentially. "We must be well equipped. Let your earthly creditors go and pay your debts to God and me. No delinquents can be in the restoration army. Pay your fares in advance."

"I had $26 when I came this morning and I gave all except 95 cents to 'Dr.' Dowie." Joyfully declared an aged colored man, returning on the train.

Tonight the 3000 "restorationists" will register and by means of a map their campaign in New York will be outlined. Dowie is going to his summer home for a rest, preparatory to the invasion in October. Only the faithful will be admitted to the tabernacle tonight.

Keene has The Winners

New York, Aug. 29.—The tried and proved, the very cream of the two-year-olds of 1903, are all in the first great race of the fall campaign on the New York tracks, the richest event of the American turf, and the most talked of race of the year, the Futurity stakes, to be run for this afternoon at the Sheepshead Bay track, as the feature of the opening of the autumn season of the Coney Island Jockey club.

All of the horses engaged in the race, and there are more than a dozen of them, and many scores besides, were out for exercise in the early morning hours and were watched by a big throng trying to get a line on the possible winner of the $50,000 race. By 11 o'clock all the candidates had had their gallops and were in their comfortable box stalls to await the call. Among the well-known horses engaged for the race are Raglan, Hamburg Belle, Leonidas, Broomstick and Magistrate.

Among the betting men it was agreed that the Keenes have the best chances on paper this year with W. C. Whitney, their old-time rival for the rich stakes, having a poor showing. This year Keene is even better fixed than he was last year and it is the prevailing opinion among those followers of the art that the Keene quarters, Downsville, Israelite, Kohlmoor and Delhi, are the best in the collection, and will be the established favorites in the betting at post time, Whitney's chance depends upon Mercury, while John E. Madden, who never fails to hold a strong hand in the Futurity, has hopes centered in Abdel. Another strong entry that must be taken in the reckoning is Captain Brown's Broomstick and Audience. Taken altogether it seems that the race is narrowed down to Keene, Madden and Captain Brown, with the Keene entries as strong favorites.
