

KISSING A MOONLIGHT PRODUCT

Salem Youth Speaks Evidently From Very Recent Experience, With Undoubtedly, a Salem Girl

Editor Journal: Dowie objects to kissing, except in one's own family. This may be all right from the family standpoint, and yet a cursory examination of Mrs. Dowie's picture, impels one to the belief that Dowie is not much of an authority on osculation, and certainly woefully deficient in the matter of the selection of a suitable kisser. If the lady in question is the one from whom Lige obtained his information on the tenderest and most delicate of all forms of salutation, his objections can be easily understood and emphatically indorsed. The truth is, the hilly-baked old fraud don't know any more about kissing than he does about religion. No one has yet been able to define a kiss, it is indefinable.

Webster was compelled to try, but all he could get out of it, tangible, was this: "Kiss—of uncertain origin (alluding to the word) to salute with the lips, as a mark of affection, reverence, etc." The good old Latin term for kissing was osculation, derived from "osculum," a "little mouth." The old Romans understood what they were talking about, also kissing, for while a little mouth is not absolutely necessary, it is a great aid in the kindergarten stage of the osculatory education. Of course a reasonably largemouth may be kissed with satisfaction to both parties to the transaction, if its job lots is properly herded together, but a thoroughly artistic, soul-satisfying kiss cannot be given or taken with the corners of the mouth, hanging over, and not included in the division of the sweets. Osculation means also the touching of one curve to another. The nearer a cupid's bow the mouth feminine is, the more subtle the planissimo effects at the start and the more harmonious the subsequent crescendo, and the final ending in minor tones and blue lights.

A woman with an economical mouth, where nature made just a straight cut across her countenance, is, of course, kissable, some of them, divinely so; but the delicate effects, of the "de gustibus non comatibus" as the lawyers would say, is generally

Motherhood

MOTHERHOOD is the reward nature bestows upon healthy womanhood. Women whose vitality has been sapped by disease cannot safely give birth to children. In pregnancy and in childbirth weakness of the mother is revealed in the pain and agony she suffers.

This great medicine drives out every vestige of inflammation and weakness, and gives tone and strength to the delicate organs which mature the child. The pains of pregnancy are banished by Wine of Cardui, and miscarriages, which blast so many fond mother's hopes, are prevented. Flooding, which so often occurs after childbirth, is corrected when Wine of Cardui is used during pregnancy. Wine of Cardui babies are healthy babies, because, during the months of pregnancy, the mother is able to give them necessary vitality and strength.

With these facts presented to American women no expectant mother should be satisfied without the reinforcement that Wine of Cardui will give her. Every mother should be able to treat herself in her home with this valuable medicine.

Wine of Cardui can be secured from any druggist at $1.00 a bottle.

Polyeap, N. C., Jan. 11, 1902.

I am the mother of seven children and while in pregnancy with the first six suffered untold misery until they were born. One month before the seventh was born I began to take a bottle of Wine of Cardui, which gave me relief after taking three doses. I used the remainder of the bottle until the birth of the child, and was stronger in three days after the birth than I was in a month after the birth of either of the first six. I am 29 years old.

wanting, and the result is of the "de bonus non" order, or words to that effect. That's where Dowie falls down. He never had the proper combination, for there are circumstances where a kiss is an absolute necessity, to fill in the breaks in the conversation, and temporarily blot out the landscape.

Imagine a beautiful starlight night, such as spring brings to Salem, the air is soft, deliciously cool, and redolent with perfume wafted from the orchard and wooed to sweeter fragrance by the envious roses, a friendly gate, that keeps from between, a piquant face the chin slightly raised, the eyes wide open yet dreaming, and gazing upward as if watching the angels on Jacob's ladder of light, lips slightly parted, showing a faint gleam of ivory beneath, a few truant tendrils of silken hair bo-peeping about a round alabaster neck, a dainty shirt waist gathered in the most approved fashion by a strong and willing left arm (the right will do if necessary) a far away goneness around the heart, until somehow, you swallow your voice, and don't care if it never comes back, and the silence itself, like a sea shell, whispers and murmurs in an unknown tongue, and brings visions of tropic isles and luxuriant verdure and amethystine waves breaking with soft and sibilant sound, languorous and phosphorescent upon the snowy sands of some coral guarded beach—and you look down into limpid pools of her eyes, and see heaven's own stars, reflected from their fathomless and pellucid depths, and—well when you come back to earth, you will know more about it than Dowie does.

This is an incident, never an accident, generally happening before a fellow has any family, but it is conceded to be one of the strongest and most impelling influences that point a fellow's toes toward the County Clerk's office, a marriage license and subsequent troubles.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Rev. George Hughes of Orange, N. J., preached a sermon on his eightieth birthday in the Franklin Street Methodist church, where he delivered his first sermon sixty years ago.

Rev. Henry W. Jameson, pastor of the African Methodist Episcopal church of Madison, Wis., is the first colored minister to serve as chaplain of the Wisconsin legislature.

In the year 1902 Roman, Greek, Russian, English, Catholic and Protestant church buildings were all dedicated in New York city. A great training school for Jewish rabbis was also founded.

The Mormon church now claims 300,000 members and 116,000 teachers and pupils in its Sunday schools. Every Mormon boy is looked upon as a future missionary, and the first object is to make an orator of him.

Unappreciated.

The shrewdness of one of the founders of a famous estate in Maine gave rise to many amusing stories, one of which has recently been retold.

One day the man, who was a large lumber operator, was superintending a crew which was breaking up a log jam in the river. Suddenly the spruce on which he was standing slipped. The lumberman dropped out of sight in the water, and the logs closed over him.

The nearest Frenchman saw the accident. Hopping briskly over the slippery logs, he helped the "boss" to land. Nothing was said about the accident. After an hour or so the Frenchman began to get anxious because the reward which he considered due was not forthcoming. He approached the lumberman and, pulling clumsily at his cap, stammered:

"I see you fall in, m'sieur, an' I run quick to pull you out 'fore you drown."

"Prob'ly," snapped the lumberman—"prob'ly if you'd been 'tending to business as you'd oughter you wouldn't have seen me fall in!"

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

It is considered more fashionable to wear a blue, green, gray or red hat with a black gown than a black hat.

Ribbon ruffles will again be extensively used to trim dresses, capes, skirts, tea gowns and spring millinery.

Top garments shaped on the loose flowing lines of the oriental styles of the winter will remain in favor next season.

Shirring, tucking, plaits and hem stitching play an important part in the making up of gowns both for day and evening wear.

The newest blouse and fancy waist collars are shaped like pointed girdles, both front and back, or they take the bishop form, with pointed embroidered tabs in front.

The easy fitting Norfolk jacket will remain a favorite model for general utility uses during the entire spring season. The newest models are slightly shorter than the three-quarter shapes of the winter.
