They are Murderers

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 9.—An unknown man lies at the depot at the point of death as the result of wounds by special detectives on the Rock Island. The detectives were patrolling the tracks near Earlham last night, because of the threatened hold-up. The man refused to halt, and started to run, when he was given the contents of two shotguns. There is nothing to indicate that he was connected with the attempt to loot the railway of $10,000. A train with detectives followed the limited, which disembarked the men and bloodhounds, and returned. The hounds failed to take up the scent of the man who fled through the underbrush and escaped. Railway officials regard the situation as serious.

DEATH CAME QUICKLY

Fred Pearson Taken Ill Sunday Died That Evening

Ruptured Blood Vessel on the Brain Said to Have Been the Immediate Cause

Fred Pearson, a popular and well-known young business man of this city, died suddenly last night, after an illness of but a trifle over six hours, as the result of a bursting of a blood vessel.

Mr. Pearson was in the best of health yesterday noon, jovial and cheerful, and, after eating lunch at the Willamette, decided to take a drive. About 2:30 p. m., accompanied by Doc Tucker, a young man employed at the hotel, he went to the Red Front livery barn for his horse and buggy. While waiting for the horse, he suddenly complained of a severe pain in the head, between the eyes. It was noticed that he suffered severely, and he was invited to a seat in the office, but declined this, taking a seat in the buggy instead, and refusing to give up his contemplated drive, he started out with Mr. Tucker as soon as the horse was hitched up. When driving from the barn to the hotel, he appeared to be seized with spasms, and leaned out of the buggy. He soon vomited and appeared to be deathly sick. The rig was driven to the side entrance of the Willamette, where Dr. A. B. Gillis made an examination and ordered him taken to the Florence Sanatorium. Arrived there he was taken to a room, where he was made comfortable, and everything possible was done for his relief. He lingered along until 5 o'clock, at which time he called for a drink, and soon after became unconscious, remaining in that condition until 9:40 p. m., when he died. Drs. R.

Cartwright, A. B. Gillis and J. N. Smith attended him, but were unable to prolong his life. A blood vessel having burst in his head was the cause of death, and it was only Mr. Pearson's great vitality and powerful constitution that prolonged his life six hours.

T. Pearson, a brother of the deceased, was notified early last evening of the patient's condition, and he came up on the overland train last evening, only to find his brother dead.

Deceased was a native of England, and came to the United States when a child, locating in Oregon. He was 23 years old, and was the picture of health, an athlete, and a young man of exemplary habits.

His father and one brother reside in San Francisco, and two brothers in Portland. T. Pearson, the brother who came up last night, is manager of the Pearson-Page Co., one of Portland's leading commission houses, and deceased came here within the last year to conduct the local branch of that house, located in the Illihee club building. During his stay here, Mr. Pearson made many friends in business and social circles, by his sterling honesty and uprightness, and his excellent business qualifications. He was an enthusiastic member of the Y. M. C. A., of Portland, and a young man of good habits. His death came as a shock to his many warm friends here, and his family is grief-stricken by the sudden death of one for whom life opened with the brightest of prospects. He had not an enemy in the world, and all who knew him admired and loved him for his splendid qualities.

The remains were prepared for burial by Mr. Clough, and will this afternoon be taken to Portland, where interment will be had.

The Salem house, of which deceased was manager, will be continued under the management of E. C. Dick, of Portland. Arrangements had completed several days ago for the change in the management, deceased having decided to return to the Portland house.

Made Two Cardinals.

Rome, Nov. 9.—Del Val and Archbishop Callagari, of Padua, were elected cardinals by the private consistory this morning. The pope entered afoot, proceeded by Swiss guards and the Sistine choir. He announced the appointments, and the cardinals present approved by raising their red caps.

PANAMA FARCE STILL ON

Canal Commission Already out After the Coin

Washington Grafters and Panama Boodlers Do Some Awfully Coarse Work

Washington, Nov. 9.—Herran, representing Colombia, presented Secretary Hay the formal protest of his government against American recognition of the republic of Panama. The text is not made public, but it is understood to be based on alleged violation of the treaty of 1846 between the United States and Colombia. Buna Varilla, the new minister of the republic of Panama, presented his credentials and lunched with Hay, at the latter's residence, today. Varilla is confident it will be a short time only before Panama will be recognized as the government de jure, instead of de facto. Word was received this morning that a commission of three men had been appointed, and will leave Panama for Washington tomorrow for the purpose of negotiating a treaty for the canal. Varilla will act in an advisory capacity with the commission. The financial terms of the treaty will be the same as negotiated with Colombia, $10,000,000 cash, and a $250,000 yearly rental after the expiration of seven years. In other respects the treaty will be even more favorable to America, which will obtain exclusive jurisdiction over the canal strip in all police and sanitary matters, instead of a divided control.

Salem Has a Burglar.

The home of John Stout, at the corner of Center and Winter streets, was last evening visited by a burglar. Mr. Stout and daughter left for church at 7:30 o'clock, Mrs. Stout remaining at home with the children, who were in bed. Soon after Mr. Stout left the house, his wife heard some one enter the front door, and go into the parlor, blowing out the lamp in that room. Thinking it was the girl returning, she paid no attention to the movements of the party until a masked man entered her room, and ordered her not to scream, or he would choke her to death. The lady fainted with fright, and when she recovered the man was still in the room. She again lost consciousness, recovering about the time her husband returned. She related her experience, and a search of the house was at once made, but the burglar was gone, and there was no evidence that anything had been taken or disturbed. Mr. Stout at once reported the matter to the police, but thus far no clue to the burglar has been found. The Stout family reside in the old Flamondon property, north of the capitol.

Witnesses Frightened

London, Nov. 9.—Extraordinary precautions were taken at the inquest today on the two Armenians murdered at Peckham Rye last week. The police feared the affair would be continued in court. Twenty-five police and detectives guarded the court, and none were admitted until searched and cross-examined. When the inquest began the witnesses didn't announce their names, but wrote them, handing the slips to the coroner.

Killed Children and Self.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 9.—Emma Wilson, a negro, yesterday, at Marksville, Miss., beat her two children to death with a billet of wood, and then killed herself. She said her husband was enamored of another woman, and she did not want the children teased by her successor.
