DEVELOPMENT CONVENTION.

Marion county will send nearly one hundred delegates to the Portland state development league convention. Thirty delegates have been appointed at Salem by the mayor, the county judge, and the president of the commercial club.

A number of the other towns and cities have appointed delegates, and they will all send public-spirited and enterprising men.

The convention will last Monday and Tuesday, and will be the starting point of a general movement for the development of Oregon.

If all work in the right spirit and you'll together harmoniously great good can be accomplished for Oregon.

THE VALUE OF HOPE.

We talk about the care-free days of childhood.

Why do we remember those days with such delight? Was it because we had nothing to do but play? No. Many of us had errands and chores that kept us busy from morning until night. It was not idleness that gave us happiness.

What, then, is the secret of the happiness of childhood?

The question is answered in one word, Hope.

As children we hoped for something new, something better tomorrow than the good that came today. Or if today chanced to have more of tears than of smiles we hoped for a brighter tomorrow.

As children we believe in people and in the world, we trust that tomorrow will bring right the trials of today.

Hope smooths out the wrinkles of today and prepares for a beautiful tomorrow.

Hope works hard at the task at hand and never worries. "Worry is fear. Fear is the devil."

Hope finishes up the duties of today and believes in tomorrow.

Hope goes to bed to sleep, not to toss on a wakeful pillow.

Hope has steady nerves and courage. Hope never fears. Hope never weeps. Hope never lags.

Hope's efforts are always healthy, vigorous and in some measure successful.

Hope is the life-saving quality. Fortunate is he who passes from childhood to manhood with hope.

When hope dies, then dies strength and courage. They do we perish.

NOTHING CAN STOP SALEM.

Since Salem has been declared by an official census the second largest city in the state, nothing can stop Salem.

Since Salem got a new charter, taking nearly all that properly belongs into the city, there is nothing can stop the expansion of Salem.

Since Salem has voted to establish a full-fledged public high school as good as any American city, there is no way to stop Salem.

Since Salem has abolished every dollar of graft in city and school affairs there is no way to stop Salem from having good government.

OREGON PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Albert Tostler, secretary of the State Press Association, has published the proceedings of the last state convention held at Salem.

The pamphlet is printed by courtesy of the state printer, J. R. Whitney, and the title page contains the picture of President Moorehead.

It was one of the best advertisements of the enterprise and hospital-

THE MODERN WAY

To cure a weak stomach is to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters at the very first symptom. It does away with starving and digesting yourself because it puts the stomach in proper condition to digest food. In this way it cures indigestion, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Biliaryness, Heartburn, Insomnia, Headache, Cramps or Diarrhea. Nervous and sickly women also find the Bitters unequalled as a regulator and tonic. We urge a fair trial.

ity of the city of Salem that has ever been published, and it did not cost this city a cent.

The Salem Press Club entertained the State Press Association here last year in a royal manner, and considers the good will of the newspapers of the state one of the most valuable assets that any community can have.

The next State Press Association meeting will be held at the live and prosperous city of Hood River in the fall of the year, when the melons and apples are ripe.

X-RADIUMS

Of course it costs money to bring customers to a store—but no store ever yet lost money through having too many customers.

It's a pretty good sign when you find it hard, in these days, to figure out a vacation schedule for your clerks—but you will not find it at all hard unless you are advertising effectively.

People do not "pass by on the other side" of stores that are advertised—unless the stores on the "other side" are better advertised.

To Fight Union Musicians.

New York, Aug. 1.—To compel union musicians and stage hands of this and other of the large cities of the United States and Canada to submit to a radical reduction in wages and to correct certain grievances which the managers are alleged to suffer from, the recently formed New York Theatrical Managers' association began a convention today at the Academy of Music in this city.

The managers declare that heretofore they have had to submit to whatever schedule of wages their musicians have demanded. Now they assert that the musicians will have to dance to the music of the baton the associated managers will wield or else cease playing in houses controlled by them. A schedule of wages which the managers consider fair has been drawn up and probably will be adopted by the convention. The musicians as well as the managers are strongly organized and a bitter fight is likely to follow any attempt of the managers to put the reduced schedule into effect at the opening of the theatrical season this fall.

A Caterpillar Scourge.

Over in the Five Rivers country they have a caterpillar scourge. The like of caterpillars was never seen before. Their ravages are described as not unlike that of a grasshopper raid. At Frank Selts' place no leaves are left on the apple trees, and the same condition prevails in other orchards in the vicinity. The pests seem to feed mainly on the apple and alder leaves, and their operations are confined to these trees, the damage to the alders extending back into the mountains, where the caterpillars swarm in millions.—Corvallis Times.

One on Salem Hunters.

That North Yakima two-legged hog ain't "in it" at all. A few days ago Paul Schmidt, Jas. Blackburn and Fred Shultz, of Albany, and Wm. Armstrong, of Salem, made a fishing trip to the head of the Calapooia. When near Crawfordville on their return Armstrong spied a hog walking on its hind legs in an orchard, eating apples from trees. He wanted to catch it and take it home to mix with the celebrated Salem hog, but the boys were out of bait and wouldn't stop, much to Wm's disgust.—Jefferson Review.

Entered Yaquina Bay All Right.

The Hattier, a good sized vessel, drawing 18 feet of water, stopped at Newport last night while on her way to Astoria. The boat had no trouble in entering and passing out, indicating very plainly what could be done with the bay as a harbor if given the proper improvement. Unquestionably it could be made a safe harbor for the largest vessels that navigate the ocean.

New Cures by X-Rays.

London, Aug. 1.—Professor Bozzoli director of clinical medicine at Turin University, has communicated to the Royal Academy of Medicine his observations on the surprising efficacy of the action of X-rays in the treatment of certain serious diseases of the blood. He states that he has succeeded in curing by X-rays a case of leucæmia, which was considered incurable.

Summer School of Theology.

Sewanee, Tenn., Aug. 1.—The summer school of theology at the university of the South began its four weeks' session today under promising auspices. In addition to the members of the university faculty the instructors and lecturers this year include Bishop Beckwith, Rev. C. D. Wilmer of Atlanta, and Warden Butler of Seabury divinity school.

Seed Distribution by the Government.

One of the seemingly popular features of governmental action which smacks of paternalism, but not strongly enough to create serious alarm, is the free distribution of seeds through congressmen by the Department of Agriculture.

At its recent session congress indulged in its expected annual debate over the appropriation. It was denounced by some as a "steal" and an outrage. The cost was shown to be $300,000 per annum.

During the present year the distribution is in the neighborhood of 45,000,000 packets, few or none of which differ in any respect from the seeds which may be purchased at any retail store.

In spite of protests and arguments the appropriation was made for 1905, and the distribution will continue. It is not for the SENTRY to determine whether or not the people desire this distribution to be kept up. That matter rests entirely in their own hands. They can stop it whenever they desire to do so. This is a government of public opinion, and so long as that opinion does not vehemently object the custom will probably continue. Meantime, some ludicrous incidents illustrate how anomalous and exceptional the function is. Congressional records are burdened with peculiar episodes thrown out in discussion, and the mails of congressmen are loaded with strange applications from constituents who misunderstand the purpose and scope of this gratuity.

A Virginia farmer who omitted to give his name and consequently wrote in vain, recently applied to the house document room at Washington for some "seed popcorn." The letter, after appealing for popcorn, adds: "Please send some flat Dutch cabbage, and the hollow crowned parsnips, and the long red beets and the latest cucumber, and the long radish, and some good acorn squash."

When a district consists of nothing but houses in a large city where there are not even back yards for a bunch of radishes to grow the seeds are often exchanged with other congressmen for public documents. One representative from New York City, however, concluded that he would send a few packages to his constituents as an experiment. Some of the seeds went to people living in a model tenement. A few days later he received a protest from the owner of the tenement. "Please do not send any more seeds," he wrote; "the people in my building have converted all the bath tubs into gardens. The scheme is all right as far as irrigation is concerned, but it is hard on the tubs."

An Iowa congressman sent a package to a rural constituent in a franked envelope bearing the usual "Three hundred dollars penalty for private use." The recipient was in great distress of mind, and wrote, "I can not put the seeds to public use, and I cannot afford to pay $300 for using them myself."

A member of the Georgia delegation in congress received the following remarkable communication: "Dear Mr. Congressman: Sum time ago I writ yu asking is there anything the government cud do to make a fitin' wife behave herself. I ain't herd from yu, and things is no better. Will yu please let me no if yu kin git me one of them poison snakes from Afrika at the Cultural Department. I have allers voted for yu, and this is mitey little to ask, specially wen a man's wife is allers peckin' him."

The agitation for abolishing the seed distribution causes annual discomfort to at least one citizen who operates each year in a different congressional district in the South with distinguished success. His name is unknown, but he makes a practice of traveling over the country, and whenever meal time comes he calls at the home of some farmer to whom he represents himself as being a special friend of some influential official at Washington. For a small consideration in the form of a single meal the visitor will cause to be sent to the farmer a large variety of garden and flower seeds. To the average farmer this proposition seems reasonable enough, and the negotiations are usually closed on the spot. The tourist writes to the congressional representative of the district for the seeds. Of course, the farmer might have secured the seeds without this intervention, but this some farmers do not know.

Each member of congress has the distribution of approximately 12,000 packets of seeds, and is enabled in this manner to personally remember 12,000 of his voting constituents.

It seems plain to the SENTRY that the larger part of the $300,000 which these seeds cost is thrown away by trying to force the seeds upon those who have no use for them, and in order to impress the voter with the congressman's regard for him. It would seem better to provide for the free distribution of sample seeds to actual farmers and gardeners by the agricultural department upon requests of the proposed users without the intervention of a congressman. This would meet the need of the people and save their money, whereas now congress takes $300,000 of the people's money to use in "sweetening up" the voters in the interest of the congressman. In other words, the voter takes money from his own pocket and lets the congressman use it to boost himself.

Get the Habit Right Away.

An exchange gives the people the following bit of advice, which is good solid wisdom for citizens of every town: "If you are not standing up for your home town, form the habit. Look around at the home industries and home dealers before going away from home for a single article. By this practice your town will be made to prosper, and you will make a better citizen for the town. We must have home pride to cope with our neighbors, and without a local pride which encourages and supports home enterprises, they must of necessity fail. Show an interest in your home town to the greatest extent possible, and the result will be a continued growth and prosperity."

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which, despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere, seemed never to achieve a healthy growth?

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart. You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpetide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpetide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Clear Skin You have doubtless heard a great deal about Ayer's Sarsaparilla—how it makes the blood pure and rich, tones up the nervous system, clears the skin, reddens the cheeks. Ask your doctor.

Off for the Hot Springs. Austin Fishburn and Fred Miller left today for the Breitenbush hot springs, where they will work for two weeks. Their duties consist of drinking all the soda water in those renowned gushers, killing every deer or bear that inhabits the virgin forests of the upper Santiam country and denuding the streams of the speckled beauties. Small game like cougar, lynx, etc., will be scared to death without wasting ammunition. They expect to bring back many souvenirs of the trip, including Mt. Jefferson, providing it will hold together long enough to be mounted for a watch charm.
