

CONTRAVERSION OF FACTS EMPLOYED AGAINST BEER

Are Designated, Unpatriotic, Un-American and Hurtful to the Prosperity of Our Country--An Appeal to Reason.

A strong movement has been set on foot by the brewers of this country in order to place themselves and their business squarely before the public in a light that will appeal to the honesty and common sense of their fellow countrymen. At the recent annual meeting, which was held in Atlantic City, June 7 and 8, a platform was unanimously adopted along which it is the intention of every person engaged in the brewing business to live and labor.

Owing to the fact that hitherto the extreme fanatical statements that have emanated from rabid prohibition sources, have been allowed to pass unchallenged, a false sentiment has been created and established which has neither done honor nor credit to those who were responsible for its existence, nor to the intelligence of that portion of the public which unsuspectingly believed the same. The false impression regarding beer, which has gained such currency, was due chiefly to lack of knowledge regarding beer, in its manufacture, as well as in its relative position as a social moral, and food factor. When this is once properly understood in like manner as it is in the old world beer drinking nations, intemperance and the drink evil in general will have been reduced in proportion.

The platform as adopted at the annual meeting is herewith given:

1. That we shall not permit to have our industry used for purposes of party politics and that we insist to remain neutral.
2. That we designate the contraversion of facts, employed against our business and products as unpatriotic, un-American and hurtful to the prosperity of our country.
3. That our products are classified by the first authorities of this country, as well as of other countries, in a correct perception as pure food products, and as the capital invested for the manufacture of these products, along with the necessary labor, amounts to many millions of dollars, our trade should enjoy the protection of the laws.
4. As our business pays to the federal government in the shape of license and to the various state and municipal governments in taxes a larger amount than any other trade in this country, it should be treated in accordance with its economical importance and should be entitled to an impartial judgment.
5. That our country should not deviate from its former custom in encouraging the brewing of beer and ale, and that the fact should not be lost sight of that beer drinking promotes true temperance.
6. As the success of our trade is based on moderation and temperance, it should be our duty to oppose intemperance of every form.
7. That we condemn all saloons of an illegal and ill-reputed character, and recommend the passage of such laws as will make the operation of such places impossible and punish those who attempt to conduct such saloons.
8. That we should endeavor to induce congress and the several state legislatures to enact laws which will permit us and those having business relations with us to follow our trade as respectable and legitimate business people, and that in passing such laws consideration should be given to all classes of people of which the cosmopolitan communities are composed; also that regard should be had in reference to the religious sentiments of our fellow citizens, so that every person may enjoy personal liberty as guaranteed by the constitution, and that without prejudice to the rights of others.

AUTO STARTS ITSELF.

Shoots Across Street and Smashes a Plate Glass Window.

Starting of its own volition, a large automobile darted across Sixth street from the Hotel Portland at 2 o'clock this morning, says the Oregonian of Friday, and, making a sharp turn, smashed into a big plate glass window in the store of the Allen & Gilbert-Banaker company, in the Stearns building, tearing out every particle of the glass and wedging itself into the aperture.

The chauffeur, Clyde King, had left the auto to go into Nau's pharmacy for a moment. Suddenly there was a terrific crash of falling glass. King ran to the door, only to see his auto gone from the spot where he had left it and half way through the window across the street. It was backed out with difficulty, and not even a headlight was broken. The window was 3/4-inch plate glass. No one was near by an instant after the glass fell, and the only conclusion is that the auto in some way started itself.

Sickening Shivering Fits

of ague and malaria, can be relieved and cured with Electric Bitters. This is a pure, tonic medicine; of especial benefit in malaria, for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease, driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to quinine, having none of this drug's bad after-effects. E. S. Munday, of Henrietta, Tex., writes: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice, till he took Electric Bitters, which saved his life. At J. C. Perry's drug store; price 50c guaranteed."

A WIDE OPEN TOWN

What "Public Opinion" Thinks of San Francisco and Mayor Schmitz

The following excerpt from Public Opinion will give an idea of the impression created abroad by the corrupt Schmitz administration:

The attempt of the local police to regulate gambling and pool selling in San Francisco is an opera bouffe performance. The town is "wide open," and has been ever since Boss Ruef came into power. All the gamblers know this as well as the sporting fraternity that enjoy games of chance and the opportunity to bet on horse races and other events. There are a dozen notorious poolrooms running in various parts of the city. All are well known to the police, and it is natural to assume that each is paying a good round sum for police protection. In fact, the story goes that $50 a day is the tariff in graft that allows one to run a poolroom safely. Even a stranger within the city gates can get the address of any of these poolrooms from an obliging hotel clerk if he makes it worth the clerk's while to exert his memory. When the local racing season is on, which comprises about six months in the year, the gambling evil is at its height. Every cigar store then keeps a "handbook," and small clerks may wager as little as 25 cents on a horse. At lunch during the racing season these small bets are taken in the saloons on the main blocks of market street. Every one knows of these things but the patrolmen on the beats never seem to see what is patent to all others. Of course, this open gambling, in which mere boys can indulge freely, is very demoralizing, and the record of petty defalcations by clerks on small salaries is growing every year. Growing also is the roll of suicides of those who have been drawn into this toboggan slide to ruin and death. If a careful record were made of the young men and boys who have been sent to state prison or to the house of correction during the last four years for crimes due to gambling on horse races the total would amaze the public.

Probably more far reaching and more important than any of the other corrupting influences of the Schmitz administration is the work that it has done in the tampering with the ballot box in order to secure the election of its candidates in the close districts. In old Days Boss Buckley, who was known in Chinatown by the picturesque name of "the Blind White Devil," was forced to flee from the city because some of his creatures revealed his methods of ballot box stuffing. Buckley was indicted, but, as he had advanced information of this act, he was able to take a foreign tour until the agitation subsided. At the last preliminary election in San Francisco the local administration was anxious over its control of certain precincts. In one of these precincts in the suburbs Frank Maestretti, the right hand man of Mayor Schmitz, was the union labor leader. Maestretti doubtless gave his orders to swell the votes in his precincts, for two of his subordinates were detected in signing the names of other men on the election roll and actually voting those names in the booth. These men, Charles Wyman and Adolph Steffens, were appointed to manipulate the roll. Each voted under the name of an absent man, as well as their own, and their hand writing on the election rolls, as well as the testimony of men who saw them vote, convicted them. They have been sentenced to state prison, and Wyman has already begun to serve his term. Another election inspector, Joseph Rebock, permitted papers from the neighboring Alms house to vote, although these men were challenged. He has just been tried and convicted. These convictions were secured largely through the efforts of the Merchants' association, a union of prominent business men for the purpose of suppressing graft and corruption in the municipal government.

Greatly in Demand.

Nothing is more in demand than a medicine which meets modern requirements for a blood and system cleanser, such as Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are just what you need to cure stomach and liver troubles. Try them. At J. C. Perry's drug store, 25c, guaranteed.

The water supply at Cottage Grove is getting short, and the city has not yet determined on a place to build a reservoir. The people are not allowed to irrigate as much as they would like to, as the supply must be kept large enough to be used in case of fire.
