LAND FRAUDS AGAIN

Oregon land frauds will soon attract the attention of the public. For several days past the federal grand jury has been quietly looking into alleged fraudulent land deals in which a number of large lumber people are involved, and it is believed that indictments will follow the investigation now going on. The information against the big timber concerns has been presented before the grand jury by District Attorney Bristol and the greatest secrecy has been maintained.

When the investigation of fraud involves the operations of men of great wealth whose places of business are outside of the state, it is not believed that the exposures will be as sensational as those steals which have been brought to trial. For months past special agents of the government have been in the field quietly working up the testimony against the land thieves. Many witnesses have been summoned to appear before the grand jury and the hallways on the third floor of the postoffice building for several days past resembled the days when Williamson, Gesner and Biggs were on trial. The fact that the men whose operations are now the subject of investigation are not residents of the state has caused the government officials to keep the facts of the investigation tightly bottled up. Until the indictments are returned and the bench warrants which will be issued are served, the names of the persons will be withheld.

School News

High School
The Rambler baseball boys had a basket social at the school building Friday evening to raise money for the team. A goodly crowd was present, chaperoned by Professors Smith and Marlatt. The following program was rendered to the satisfaction of all: Remarks, Harvey Slater; piano solo, Delbert Barton; vocal solo, Crissie Clark; reading, Mildred Bagley; song, high school quartet; vocal solo, Albert Egan and reading, Carl Massey. The program was followed by the auction of baskets, which ranged from 25 cents to $8. The affair was a success from every standpoint.

There is a divided condition existing in the baseball players of the high school at the present. "The Rammers," an outside team, whose players are mostly in the school, is going to play this season, and Mr. Marlatt will not allow them to identify themselves as a high school team unless they will get the remainder of their players to become students. Without the players on the Rambler team there are not enough to make a good team entirely high school. So far the Rammers have neither all come into school nor supported the high school team. The decision is going to make it impossible to have the best team that the high school could put out, unless the difficulty is overcome in some way.

Meeting at Liberty.
The regular Saturday night debate of the Liberty people took place as usual. Without permission from anyone at Salem they discussed the direct primary law, and made some of the legislative candidates stand up and say whether they were in favor of the Tuttle law or not. Sam Hughes, the labor candidate on the Republican ticket, said he would vote to repeal it unless all its present obnoxious and arbitrary provisions could be struck out. Col. Hofer of the Journal was present and took the same stand. Hal Patton of the Young Men's Republican club, said, under the direct primary system, there was not much use for campaign clubs, but that he expected to support candidates for the legislature personally without regard to whether they signed Statement No. 1 or not. The people, he said, wanted good men in the legislature, and taking Statement No. 1 or not taking it did not make a man an honest man, or a dishonest one. He threw a great deal of humor into his remarks and closed the meeting at a late hour in a very happy frame of mind. A committee was appointed to investigate and report a matter proposed by the county court, for the people of Liberty to contribute $200 towards a road at Rosedale and in return be allowed to have all their road tax and poll tax and county tax to expend in their own district. The sentiment seemed to be against the proposition, and some hot speeches were made. There was a large attendance and good humor prevailed.

The Property Called Health.
Rune down or improves, just depends on how it is cared for. It is the most valuable property we have, and should receive the most consideration. It helps you in business, helps good looks, helps make friends, helps get situations and helps you hold them, and always makes happiness. Property like this, at the first indication of being out of repair, should be looked after and a remedy applied at once. There are any number of signs that show repairs are needed. Bilious spells, indigestion, dyspepsia, belching, dizziness, sick headaches, sallow complexion, pimples and liver spots on the face, a drowsy feeling after meals, sour stomach, etc. These symptoms all show loss of health. Druggists will sell you for 25c a box of Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills, a sure cure for all of these diseases.

THESE WANT OFFICE

Full List of Nominees for State and Congressional Offices

Democratic and Republican nominations for state and congressional offices are closed, and the party tickets for the primaries are now complete, except for county nominations. George E. Chamberlain is the sole candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, while five Republicans seek the nomination of their party as his opponent.

Friday, March 30, was the last day for filing nominating petitions for state and district offices with the secretary of state. Candidates for county offices have until the close of business on April 4 to file their petitions with the county clerks of their respective counties.

The state ticket of the two parties which will be submitted to the electors of the primaries on April 20 are as follows:

- Democratic State Ticket.
Governor—George E. Chamberlain, Portland.
United States Senator—John M. Geary, Portland.
Justice of the Supreme Court—T. G. Halley, Pendleton.
Attorney General—Robert A. Miller, Portland.
State Printer—J. Scott Taylor, Klamath Falls.
Secretary of State—Paul T. Sroat, Salem.
State Treasurer—J. D. Matlock, Eugene.

- Republican State Ticket.
Governor—Harvey K. Brown, Baker City; T. T. Geer, Salem; Charles A. Johns, Baker City; Charles A. Schrebler, Coos county; James Withycombe, Corvallis.

- United States Senator—Long term, Jonathan Bourne, Jr., Portland; H. M. Calk, Portland; Stephen A. Lowell, Pendleton; E. L. Smith, Hood River; E. B. Watson, Portland. Short term, Fred W. Mulkey, Portland.

- Justice of the Supreme Court—Robert Eakin, Union county.
Attorney General—A. M. Crawford, Douglas county; George H. Durham, Josephine county.
State Printer—William J. Clarke, Marion county; Willis S. Dunaway, Portland; J. R. Whitney, Albany.

- Secretary of State—Frank W. Benson, Roseburg; Claud Gate, Salem; Lot L. Pearce, Salem; Frank T. Wrightman, Salem.

- State Treasurer—J. H. Aitkin, Baker county; E. V. Carter, Jackson; Ralph V. Hoyt, Portland; A. C. Jennings, Eugene; Thomas F. Ryan, Oregon City; George A. Steel, Oregon City.

- Congressman—First district, Willis C. Hawley, Salem; Samuel B. Huston, Hillsboro; Walter L. Touse, Woodburn. Second district, W. R. Ellis, Pendleton; William J. Lacker, Baker City; John L. Rand, Baker City; George S. Shepherd, Portland.

- Superintendent Public Instruction—J. H. Ackerman, Portland.
Labor Commissioner—O. P. Hoff, Portland.

Insofar as the nominations for state offices are concerned there will be no contest in the Democratic primaries. Governor Chamberlain's renomination has been a foregone conclusion from the time he decided to seek a second term. The only other office for which more than one candidate has appeared is congressman for the first district, and Charles W. Galloway seems to be assured of the nomination.

In the Republican primaries there will be a struggle over the nomination for almost every office. The five candidates for governor are carrying on a hot fight. The same is true of the aspirants for United States senator, for secretary of state and for state treasurer.

The primaries will take place April 20 and voters have until April 16 to register. There is every indication of a heavy vote.

SILLY LITTLE BANTAM

Lays Her Eggs In a Neighbors Barn and Makes The Lawyers Take Notice

A dispatch from Danville, Illinois, Friday, shows the trouble one small bantam hen can raise, with her little hatchet. It says:

Who is the lawful possessor of an egg and its posterity—the man who owns the hen or the man who owns the barn which the proud fowl selected as a site for the great event? This is a problem which is causing the jurists of Danville to mend their hair in perplexity and working up the entire community to a shotgun campaign pitch.

Strange Exhibits in Court.
Sensational features marked the hearing of the case. The corpus delicti of the chick that was hatched from the egg that was laid by the hen that chose the wrong barn, stark and unrightly after being interred for days, was presented for identification. A pair of bantam game chickens, rooster and hen, was introduced as "exhibits A and B." Nothing was then lacking to complete the chain of testimony except the original egg, but lo, a judicial miracle came to pass, and in open court the cackling hen laid another egg, exactly like the one which had caused the litigation. It was seized upon and marked "exhibit C."

Sins of Vagrant Hen.

"Sid" Bates of Batestown, was the defendant and Charles McDaniels, of the same community, the complainant. The stories told by the various witnesses developed the facts that Bates had imported a setting of bantam eggs from Carolina three years ago and had been peacefully engaged in the business of raising bantams ever since, until one of his hens wandered afield and made a nest in an alien barn. Bates did not know of this contemps for the mother came wofully back to roost until the next season, when he observed a lusty bantam scratching for worms in McDaniels' yard. Being the only owner of bantams in the vicinity, he became convinced that McDaniels had poached upon his preserves.

Murder of Lusty Bantam.
Accordingly Bates gave chase to the innocent bird, ran it to earth and wrung its neck, resolved that McDaniels should not establish an opposition bantam farm. He offered the corpse to a neighbor, but it was declined with thanks, so he buried it deep and did not mark its grave. When McDaniels discovered that Bates had murdered the foundling, he brought suit against him.

Justice Hall was unable to solve the riddle, but held Bates to the grand jury under a bond of $50. Whereupon Bates swore out a warrant for McDaniels' father-in-law, charging him with keeping a red bird caged, which is an infringement of the state laws. The entire country is hoping that the feud will not graduate from ornithological reprisals to shot guns.

THE OLD-FASHIONED FARMER

But this old fashioned farmer of ours has not eaten a dish of old-fashioned soup in 40 years; he imports his flour from Minneapolis, made by the most modern patent processes. He could not get an old fashioned buffalo robe for the value of the best acre of his orchard land. There is not a single old-fashioned spinning wheel or reel in his house, and his boy does not know how to swing an old fashioned scythe nor his girl to knit a stocking. His folk say hearth, and not the old fashioned "harth," and asparagus instead of "sparrow grass." He grows Concord grapes instead of Sweetwater, and Burbank plums instead of damson and horse plums. He reads a daily morning paper instead of the old fashioned weekly Observer or Recorder. He sends his boys to a union school and pays as much taxes in a year as his father paid in all his life. It is very probable that he could not tell you who Old Hickory was; and he has only a faint notion of the leading politicians and statesmen of the Civil War.

But he talks of beans as legumes and buys bacteria which which to inoculate his soil. He reads bulletins more than he reads his Bible, and has more faith in spraying than in praying for a good apple crop. He takes his milk to a condensary, and he eats beef put up in a Chicago packing house. He prefers California oranges to those from Florida, and is a little particular about the bananas that he eats with his bowl of milk. Shades of Thomas Jefferson and Ben Franklin and George Washington! Still this man calls himself an "old fashioned farmer!"

Instead of a "lilac bush," a "cinnamon rose" and a "piny" his wife has a big flower garden, and they talk about their lawns. He has Austrian pines and Kentucky coffee trees and tulip trees from the west, and German lindens, growing along with his hawthoods and his elms and his maples. His wife talks fluently of her beds of Dianthus laciniatus and Gladiolus gandavensis. His mother just raised grass pinks and morning glories and dumsak roses. You may look all around his place for old fashioned things, and look mostly in vain. There is no old fashioned pork barrel in his cellar, and when they kill lambs or calves the neighbors do not "swap quarters." The only old fashioned crockery about the house is a blue pitcher and a few blue plates, set up as bric-a-brac, while they dine off from stone china. Out meal has come in to crowd out the old fashioned Indian meal, and it is a sorry breakfast that does not have some new patented breakfast cereal. The children do not dare to eat with their knives, nor can they wipe their fingers on their aprons.—The Independent.
