Millman of Carus Mysteriously Disappeared from Home Last Tuesday.

Oregon City, Or., July 31,-Henry May of Carus came into town with a startling story concerning the disappearance of Alvin Crowe, who owns a sawmill near Carus. Mr. May states that Crowe left the mill early last Tuesday morning and absolutely nothing has been heard of Bushey hurried his prisoners to the him since that time. The belief prevails among the employes of the mill that their employer has committed suicide, and they have made an exhaustive search through the timber around the mill, but all efforts to find a trace of the whereabouts of Crowe have been fruitless. The missing man left his personal effects at the mill and went away in his shirt sleeves as his coat was left behind. He took a razor, but no strop or soap.

Crowe's business affairs are understood to be in good condition and no motive can be advanced for his strange and sudden disappearance. He was a man of exceedingly temperate habits and was intensely religious. His wife and two daughters live in Nova Scotia and he came here about four months ago, investing in the mill property. He also owns 100 acres of good timber land in Clackamas county and 400 acres in Nova Scotia.

Crowe recently had a severe fall, striking on his head, and this may Breitenbush rivers, the Southern have affected his mind, though it Pacific has made arrangements to was not any way apparent. He was sell tickets, Salem to Detroit at the usually well dressed.

MILLER AND KINCART ARE TAKEN TO PRISON

Convicted Men Removed from County Jail and Put on Train for Puget Sound.

Portland, Or., July 31.-Harry W. Miller and Frank Kincart, who were sentenced to one year's imprisonment at McNeil's island, were taken from the county jail yesterday put on the train and started on their way to the lonely prison on the sound.

A broken-hearted woman with a babe on her breast met them as they descended the jail steps. With pitiful cries and tears she threw her arms around Kincart's neck, clinging to him as if to hold him back from the fate that waited him. But there was no time to lose, she was pushed quickly aside and with a passionate spoken goodbye she hurried away.

The woman was Kincart's wife and the babe his child.

Miller and Kincart were keenly disappointed at being bundled off to McNeil's island. They had been told that they would not go for several days, at least. In fact, they are pretty confident of something turning up in the way of a motion for a new trial or some other legal quip that would save them from going at all. They, therefore, took it hard when they were led from their cells and Deputy United States Marshal Bushey appeared to slip a pair of handcuffs about the wrists of each. 8:30 train, on which the three left for the north.
