SHARK ATTACKED SAILOR

Tore Off One Foot and Crushed the Fingers of One Hand

The arrival of the big steamer Arizonan yesterday, says the San Francisco Chronicle of Thursday last, brought a harrowing tale of a battle between Frank Fonda, a member of the crew and a shark in the waters at Salina Cruz, in which the shark with its teeth tore the forearm almost off the unfortunate sailor. Three fingers were ground in the massive jaws of the big fish, while Fonda's right foot was almost severed.

The tragedy occurred on a hot day, while the Arizonan was lying at Salina Cruz. About forty members of the crew went in bathing among the breakers. Fonda's companions observed him waving his arms wildly in the air as if to beat off something, and then sink beneath the waves. They thought, however, that he was playing the "drowning" joke and laughed.

Soon the water where Fonda had been swimming became dyed a blood red, and the man's companions secured a boat and put out to save him. As they approached the spot where the blood colored the water, there was a swish, and the shark, coming into the surface rolled over, displaying its glittering belly. In the jaws the men could plainly see a piece of Fonda's foot. Two of the men beat the shark off with oars, and then, diving brought to the surface the mutilated body of the fireman.

He was taken ashore and was found to be still living. A litter was made upon which Fonda was placed and taken to the hospital. He is now at the hospital at Salina Cruz fighting between life and death. His hair had turned from a jet black to white. It is expected that he will lose his right foot and several of his fingers. The shark measured ten feet in length.

Southern Farmer Prefers Negro Labor.

Senator Latimer of South Carolina said recently in discussing the question of immigration in the South: "The new mills and factories springing up in the South, are attracting white farm hands, leaving the negroes practically in control of the agricultural labor market. The South will not permit negroes to work beside white girls in factories. Separate factories would have to be built for colored folk if they are hired as mill hands. In consequence, there is a dearth of white farm labor. The negro will not work six days a week.

"It may seem strange in the face of these conditions, but it is nevertheless a fact that the Southern farmer is opposed to immigration, even though it would furnish his cotton plantations with help. He would rather have the negro, for he has a touch of the old sentiment in him. The heads of the big industries, however, hail the incoming immigrants with delight."

At a meeting of the business agents, county officers, warehousemen, etc., of the Farmers' National Co-operative Union at Atlanta recently, resolutions, opposing the immigration movement in Georgia, were unanimously adopted. The resolutions were offered by W. L. Peek, of Rockdale, county, and are said to have met with the hearty approval of the gathering.

The resolutions memorialize the State Legislature to make no appropriation to further the ends of immigration to Georgia of foreigners and also urge that body not to encourage the movement.

Most Irritating.

"I am so very annoyed. My servant has just been killed on the railway only half of his body has been found, and with the other half are my keys."—Bon Vivant.

HORRIBLE CRIME OF ITALIANS

Murder Nine-Year-Old Boy and Dismember the Body

A dispatch from New Orleans says: The fate of the nine-year-old Italian child, Walter Lamana, kidnaped by the Black Hand, was disclosed this morning, when the body of the boy was found in a swamp back of St. Rose, fifteen miles above New Orleans. The boy's head had been cut off, and the body, chopped into pieces, was wrapped in a blanket and packed in a box, which floated on a cane raft anchored in the swamp.

The discovery was due to a vigorous sweating of the suspect, Ignazio Campisciano, in the Jefferson parish woods last night by the Sheriff's posse and members of the Italian vigilance committee. Campisciano told how the boy, bitten by mosquitoes until his face was swollen into an unrecognizable mass, and suffering privations of the most galling kind, was carried to the Italian's home. Here a discussion started among the kidnapers as to what should be done with the lad. During the argument the boy broke from the house and ran screaming down the road. Antonio Lucaterra started in pursuit, and, seizing the child by the throat, strangled him to death.

The prisoner weakened and promised to lead the party to the place where the body was concealed. But for his guidance the body might not have been recovered for years. It was a tramp of nearly two miles through an almost impenetrable swamp, slimy water reaching to the waists of the officers. The child evidently had been strangled ten days ago.

when the pursuit of the Black Hand became so hot that it looked as though the kidnapers would be caught.

Fearing that the child would betray them, the kidnapers murdered him on June 13th, after they had held him five days. They cut off the head and chopped the body, intending to send it a piece at a time to the father to prove that the Black Hand had kept its promise to return the child in pieces in case they did not get the $6,000 demanded, but the pursuit had grown hotter and hotter and the murderers dared not carry out their purpose.

The police continued their arrests today, raiding the Monteleone House, where they got nine more members of the Black Hand. It is thought that the whole gang will be caught by tomorrow, now that the women have begun to talk. There were threats of lynching today, and Sheriff Long swore in seventy extra deputies, armed with rifles, to guard the prisoners. The prisoners under arrest are: Ignazio Campisciano, his wife, Miss Nicolina Gebbia, Frank Gendusa and Leonardo Gebbia. Four others are being sought. Miss Gebbia confessed to the police that she had known from the first of the plot to kidnap the boy and of his murder.

The boy's funeral at the St. Louis cathedral this afternoon was attended by 2000 persons, mostly Italians.

X-RAYS

Yes, Salem is the center of the universe for hops, prunes and cherries, and incidentally for magnificent flowers and pretty girls.

Tom Richardson is to resign his office as boss taffy peddler for Oregon—and the public will be resigned.

Thomas Lawson says Roosevelt will be nominated and elected President. This would be cheering news for those who believe in a third term, were it not for the fact that Lawson's statements have always been made for the purpose of deceit, or at least have always proved absolutely false.

Talk about slow things. Prof. Remington, of Philadelphia, who has been visiting in Salem, is editor in chief of the United States Dispensary, a literary compilation that only goes to press once in ten years.

The Decreasing Pension Roll. When the service pension law was passed by Congress in February many people thought that there would be a notable increase in the amount paid by the government to the veterans of its wars. The measure provided for pensions graduated according to the age of the recipients for all soldiers and sailors who served at least ninety days in the United States army during the Civil War and were honorably discharged. A veteran aged 62 was to receive $12 a month, one 70, $15; one 75 or over, $20. It was thought that the extra amount needed to provide for such pensions would be $15,000,000.

About 340,000 applications have been received under the provisions of the act. Some of these will be rejected for good and insufficient reasons. About 3000 names a day are being added to the list from these new applicants and the work is being pushed with all possible dispatch, a large force of clerks being kept busy. But of the applicants it is found that 98 1/2 per cent are already on the pension roll receiving a smaller amount than that provided for under the new plan. Some of them receive now from $8 to $10 a month, and some a less amount. The net increase, therefore, will be small. It is estimated to represent about $3 a month per pension on the average.

Of the remaining 1 1/2 per cent of applicants come will be rejected for reasons which led to previous refusal of pension. The others are men who have never before applied for a pension, but the number is so small comparatively that it is hardly to be considered.

Instead of $15,000,000 additional it is believed that the increase will not reach $13,000,000 the first year, and in addition another force is working rapidly toward marked reduction. During the month of April 882 names were added to the roll, but in the same period 3616 old soldiers died, and there was a net reduction in the number of pensioners of 2977, every reason being counted. It is now more than forty-two years since Appomattox. The maximum of the pension roll was reached on January 31, 1905, the number then being 1,004,196. Since that time the monthly loss from death has passed the average of 1000, is close to 2000, and, as stated before, in April it exceeded 3600. The widows of veterans are fast answering the last roll call. The widows of veterans are dying in increasing numbers. The Commissioner of Pensions believes that the death rate will increase by leaps and bounds within a year from now, so that the reduction of the amounts needed for pensions will be in large figures in the immediate future.

No true patriot has regretted the provision which the United States has made for those who fought for the Union when its life was threatened. One hundred and forty million dollars a year is a large amount. But the service rendered was great and the obligation correspondingly sacred. There is a feeling of sadness at the thought that a generation is passing away and that it will not be long till the last of the "boys in blue" who answered the call of "Father Abraham" is gone. That those who yet survive may enjoy a peaceful and quiet life during the few years that remain will be the hope of many thousands during this week of national memorial.—Chicago Tribune.
