

SEEK YE

In furnishing a home the cheapest is often the dearest and the more expensive is invariably the cheapest in the end. To be a "penny wise and a pound foolish" applies to home furnishings, as it does to everything else. To do yourself justice you should look before you buy, for very often special sales and special bargains are only to be found in newspaper advertisements. Bug-a-boo sales often deceive the public into buying without investigation elsewhere. Every day we are selling goods at our regular "rock bottom" prices, in face of great special prices, and the wonderful increase in our business since the first of the year is evidence that the people will cling to the STORE OF STABILITY. Our prices, terms and the class of merchandise we handle are of the dependable sort, and our methods are based on a policy to enable us to cater to the public in a manner satisfactory to them and us. We expect to remain in business in Salem, and to continue to "make good," as we have in the past, everything not satisfactory to our customers. One pleased customer is worth a dozen dissatisfied. Therefore, to satisfy is one of our chief objects. To accomplish this we have worked into the best lines of goods in all our departments. Goods which are known throughout the country as the best. Here are some of our brands:

- Globe-Wernicke Book Cases
- Globe-Wernicke Desks
- Globe-Wernicke Filing Cabinets

MINISTER WORKS FOR LIVING

Pastor of the New York Church Believes in the Gospel of Industry

One Salem minister believes in the gospel of work. Rev. J. H. Merryman, of the Yew Park United Brethren church, fills his pulpit Sundays and works at his trade of painter during the week. He is an educated man, having graduated from Philomath college, and a fine singer, having taught vocal music for ten years. Rev. Merryman was found spreading the gospel of labor and good white paint on a new building on Twelfth street yesterday. He wore common painter's clothes, and was well scrubbed from head to foot with the evidences of his industry. The reporter was very much surprised when the gentleman handed him his card, and addressed him in the polished language of an educated gentleman. Rev. Merryman said he could see no good reason why a minister of the gospel should not work for a living, and be able to preach all the better on Sundays. "It enables me to get acquainted with the sporting men, and make personal visits of contact that bring men into my church and under the influence of the religion of Jesus, who would otherwise be strangers to Christianity. The time has come when we must all lay off our robes of professionalism that keep the masses at a distance, and serve them with the living words of truth."

Mr. Merryman carries his gospel work into his pulpit, and advocates the interests and rights of the laboring man, and devotes himself especially to building up the home life of those who toil for a living at common day wages. He does not exclude from his sympathies those who follow the professions, but holds that every man is entitled to earn his bread by honest efforts of the brain or hand, and that the two do their best work when employed in unison. He holds that there are too many professional idlers living off the masses, and the thing for the pulpit to do is to dignify labor by getting off the high horse of theology down onto the ground of common effort, and earn an honest living. It is not a fad with him, because he is as gifted to earn a living by mere word of mouth as most ministers, but he interprets the scriptures to mean that men shall be known by their works, and that the works shall not all be hot-air preaching, and long-winded prayer for the workingman, when by practice and precept the profession shows a contempt for industry. These are not his utterances, but the gist of his attitude, as understood by the reporter.

"Regular as the Sun" is an expression as old as the race. No doubt the rising and setting of the sun is the most regular performance in the universe, unless it is the action of the liver and bowels when regulated with Dr. King's New Life Pills. Guaranteed by J. C. Perry, druggist. 25c.

BURGLARS WORK AT TURNER.

Crackmen Smash in Windows With an Axe and Leave Strange Evidences of Former Skill.

The city of Turner had two burglaries Friday night, but no clue to the criminals, except some strange traces that indicate professionals are working the valley. The crackmen took an axe and just deliberately smashed in a window of the Ransom & Son general merchandise store, rifled the till, getting $1.50 in change, and some plug tobacco and several boxes of cigars. They left a sample of plug tobacco on the floor different from any sold at Turner. At the Earle hardware store they captured a lot of cutlery and razors, but left a sample of edged tools different from anything kept in stock, giving color to the theory that they are raiding all the small places in the valley, and probably travel in a muffled auto. They entered the Earle store in the same high-handed manner, by smashing an opening through a window with an axe. No clue to the robbery, but it is pretty well known that it was consummated between 12 and 1 o'clock.

Had Tetter for Thirty Years. I have suffered with tetter for 30 years and have tried almost countless remedies with little, if any relief. Three boxes of Chamberlain's Salve cured me. It was a torture. It breaks out a little sometimes, but nothing to what it used to do.—D. H. Beach, Midland City, Ala. Chamberlain's Salve is for sale at Dr. Stone's drug store.

FLOUR
We can crow over our flour because we have a right to. A flour which always gives such excellent results is worthy of praise.

TRY A SACK NEXT TIME.
And note how far it goes. How easily it works up. How light your bread and how flaky your pie crust. Worth a trial, isn't it?
