Blinding Snow Storm Rages on Atlantic Coast

OPEN NORTH BANK RAILROAD EARLY COMPLETED

OFFICERS APPOINTED AND HILL COMPANIED BY FRANCIS CLARKE, PRESIDENT OF THE NEW ROAD, ARE NOW IN PORTLAND.

Portland, Wash., Dec. 14.—Louis Hill, president of the Great Northern, who was in Seattle yesterday, accompanied by Francis B. Clarke, appointed president of the new road and Seattle road. Mr. Hill was for many years traffic manager of the Great Northern and a life-long friend of James H. Hill and his son, Louis W. Hill. He was selected to go to the north to represent the Great Northern Railway Company and the Northern Railway when the latter made her first trip. He has a knowledge of traffic matters and is one of the best known men in the country. President Hill and Francis B. Clarke left for Portland last night to arrange the preliminaries for opening the new Portland and Seattle road between Portland and Pasco. "The executive officers of the new road have now been filled," said President Hill last evening. "The appointment of H. M. Adams as general freight and passenger agent, and that of F. S. Forrest as general superintendent was announced some time ago. The road between Portland and Pasco will be opened shortly, and we are going to Portland partly to make some few arrangements."

A Land Fraud Gathering.
Portland, Dec. 14.—Marshal C. J. Reed has been instructed by Francis J. Heney to have all the land fraud defendants and their attorneys in the federal court before Judge Wolverton and Judge Gilbert on Tuesday, December 17. Heney is expected to be here Monday by the federal officials. When the trials will actually begin is still unknown. Heney is not expected to take more than formal action at this time.

Turkeys for Alaska.
Portland, Dec. 14.—Seattle and Tacoma commission men are in Portland today buying turkeys for the Alaskan market. Portland has been long on turkeys since Thanksgiving day, and the northern men are taking a large quantity off their hands. A consignment was shipped north last night, and is expected to reach the Alaskan ports in time for Christmas.

SCHOONER LAWSON IS WRECKED LARGEST IN WORLD

SEVEN-MASTED SCHOONER, LARGEST SAILING VESSEL EVER BUILT, TURNS TURTLE, AND HER CREW OF 20 PERSONS ALL DROWNED BUT ONE.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
London, Dec. 14.—The entire crew of the T. W. Lawson, the largest sailing vessel in the world, with one exception, have perished when the boat, a seven-masted schooner, was wrecked today off the Sicily islands.

One survivor and three corpses were picked up. Captain Dow and his crew displayed remarkable bravery. In the face of what seemed to be certain death, they remained at their posts trying to save their vessel. It is supposed that they perished.

The Lawson was chartered by the Standard Oil Company, and was bound from Philadelphia to London. At daylight this morning the vessel was sighted floating, bottom upward, in the oily sea. The gale is steadily increasing. The coast is strewn with wreckage.

It has been definitely learned that the crew of the Lawson numbered 20.

BLIZZARD RAGING IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Chicago is in the grasp of the worst blizzard that has visited this part of Illinois in several years.

Several lines of business have been almost completely paralyzed and street car lines in all parts of the city are either out of commission entirely or badly blockaded. The heavy sleet clinging to the wires has severely crippled telegraph and telephone service. Untold suffering in the poor districts has resulted, many families being without fuel. The sleet storm is now sweeping over Northern Ohio.

Thieves Were Art Lovers.
(United Press Leased Wire.)

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 14.—Paintings and tapestries valued at $30,000 were mutilated in the Chinese Oriental exhibit room of the Hotel Angelus shortly before daybreak yesterday by a burglar, who, after wrapping up the plunder, preparatory to taking it out of the building, was frightened away by the arrival of the police.

The attempted theft was one of the most daring reported during the year. Seemingly fearing no interruption the man worked into the exhibit room from the back wall cutting through the partitions and then prying open the front door from the inside.

The exhibit room contains art goods valued at close to $100,000. Most of it was on view at the Jamestown exposition.

Miss Hortense Eppley left this morning for a visit in Portland.

TO DITCH CONREID. Claims of Mismanagement and Graft Are Made.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Dec. 14.—Henrich Conreid may be deposed in a very short time as director of the Conreid Opera Company, and manager of the Metropolitan opera house, and it is practically certain that he will not be reengaged for next season, according to a statement made by a director and one of the leaders in the affairs of the Conreid Opera Company. "There has been much dissatisfaction with Conreid," said this director. "Most recently mentioned is his failure to obtain Tetrazzini, the great soprano, who has been signed by a rival opera house. Conreid haggled over the cost, and the great star was lost to the Metropolitan."

An investigation is now under way into stories that many of the great singers who appear at the Metropolitan are compelled to pay a certain commission to some one responsible for their engagement.

ORCHARD TELLING HIS PIPE DREAMS

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 14.—"Darrow is trying to get me angry, but he cannot do it. I will not lose my temper, and he cannot confuse me, for I am telling the truth." So spoke Harry Orchard to his guards, as he left the court house yesterday afternoon, after being under the crossfire of Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the defense in the Pettibone case for two hours. The method of cross-examination pursued by Darrow is more effective in every way than that of Richard on in the Haywood trial. He is not shaking Orchard's story in the least, but he is picturing the worst side of the state's chief witness to the jury. He is trying to make the jury hate Orchard, and thus disbelieve him. He is throwing his whole personality into the battle he is waging with the witness. Senator Borah stated last night that it was not the intention of the prosecution to use Adams as a witness in the case, and he will not be brought to Boise.

The cross-examination of Orchard was resumed this morning. Darrow gave a letter to the witness, asking him if it was Haywood's handwriting Orchard said it resembled it somewhat, but he did not think it was in his natural hand. He said it looked more like Pettibone's writing, but was not exactly like either one. Darrow then showed the witness portions of his testimony at the Haywood trial in regard to a conversation he said he had with Pettibone and Haywood in regard to the Bradley affair, endeavoring to show that he attributed the statement to Pettibone in the present trial which he said in the former trial was made by Haywood. Orchard said both took part in the conversation, and that several conversations were held on the subject. Darrow questioned the witness closely on his trip to San Francisco.

Thugs in Tacoma.

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 14.—Frank Clark, 60 years old, was knocked down and robbed by thugs Thursday night. He was then thrown into a dry goods box in an alley and left for dead. Later he regained consciousness, dragged himself from the box, and was staggering along the street when discovered by two men, who took him to the home of his brother-in-law, where he lies in a critical condition.

STORM SWEEPS THE EAST SNOW STORM RAGES

BARK PHINNEY ASHORE AT SANDY HOOK AND ALL EFFORTS OF LIFE SAVERS TO RESCUE THE CREW PROVE UNAVALING.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, December 14.—Driven ashore in a blinding snow storm, the bark Edmund Phinney, with a dozen men clinging to the rigging, with slight prospects of being saved, is pounding to pieces on the east side of Sandy Hook.

The bark ran ashore at 10 o'clock this morning, and so far all efforts to rescue the crew have been unavailing. The Phinney was bound from Jacksonville to Perth Amboy. Life savers made several attempts to reach the bark, but each time they were driven back by the storm. A wrecking tug, with a life tug in tow, was also prevented from reaching the bark. At this time the wind was blowing at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

The life savers were also thwarted in an attempt to throw a line over the vessel. As the foremast was carried away the crew was huddled together near the stern of the Phinney. Unless the storm subsides it is feared the sailors will perish.

AFFAIRS AT GOLDFIELD. Mine Operators Unable, So Far, to Get Miners.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Goldfield, Dec. 14.—Having been promised that negotiations looking to an adjustment of the wage scale will be conducted, electricians and carpenters in the Goldfield district have returned to work. It is supposed that the willingness of the mine owners to carry on such one month, and that a small force of soldiers be kept on duty permanently. He also told the President that the civil authorities were unable to cope with the situation.

LOOKING FOR BAIL. Bank Looters Spent Night in Jail, But Are Out Today.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Dec. 14.—Walter J. Barnett, accused of assisting in the looting of the California Safe Deposit & Trust Company, spent last night in the city prison in a cell next to his fellow banker, J. Dalzell Brown. Both of these men were given separate cells, the two best in the prison. They alone have separate cells.

Brown spent a fairly good night, but Barnett scarcely slept at all. Both men were very nervous this morning. At noon today Barnett was released from jail by order of Judge Dunne and placed in the custody of two detectives, who will accompany him on another quest for bail.

May Sue School Districts. (United Press Leased Wire.)

Olympia, Wash., Dec. 14.—The state supreme court decided yesterday that personal injury suits may be brought against school districts. This was in the suit of the parents of Mamie Redfield against School District No. 3, Kittitas county. The girl, while a pupil, was severely scalded in school when a pall of boiling water fell from a stove.

Labor Wins a Victory. (United Press Leased Wire.)

Buffalo, Dec. 14.—Organized labor won a big victory in this state today when Judge Hazle denied the motion of the Lackawanna railroad for a permanent injunction restraining the switchmen's union from striking. The temporary injunction is now dissolved. The switchmen are now at liberty to declare a strike, but it is generally believed that no action of this kind will be taken.

French and Moors Fight. (United Press Leased Wire.)

Oudja, Morocco, Dec. 14.—All negotiations looking to peace between the French and the rebellious Moors have been dropped by the latter, and several fierce clashes have resulted.

The French forces are swarming into the enemy's country with a firm determination to wipe out the Moors. Since the failure of the Moors to agree to the French terms the Moor loss has been tremendous.

The Watts Trial. (United Press Leased Wire.)

Bellingham, Wash., Dec. 14.—Morning Deputy Prosecuting Attorney George Livesey opened the argument for the state. He said it was the theory of the state that William Allen Dell and Harry Watts entered into a conspiracy to rob Eddie Roper, and, detection following, killed her to prevent arrest. He decried the idea that she met death by accident.

ARRESTED IN PORTLAND.

Sheriff Culver left this afternoon for Portland to take charge of Arthur Hitchman, who was arrested in the metropolis this morning on a warrant sworn out in the Marion county court last January, charging him with rape.

The assault, it is charged, was made upon Carrie Nelson, who resides east of Woodburn.

The authorities have been baffled as to the whereabouts of Hitchman, until he was located in the metropolis yesterday.
