WARREN WILL ARRANGE ANOTHER STATE FAIR EXHIBIT
Committee Appoints Him Again This Year—Will Begin Early and Expect to Land First Prize for County Exhibit.

At a recent session of the Lane county commissioners' court G. W. Griffin, E. O. Potter and W. M. Green were appointed as a committee to arrange for a Lane county exhibit at the state fair at Salem next September. The committee has appointed E. M. Warren to get up the exhibit and arrange it in the pavilion, and he has already begun to interest the farmers in the matter. It will be remembered that last year Lane county won second prize and a hard try will be made this year for first. Many unprejudiced outsiders were of the opinion that last year's Lane county display should have been given first, but a college professor from somewhere in Washington gave it to Benton without giving Lane's more than a cursory glance.

Mr. Warren thinks that by beginning early this year he will be able to get up an exhibit that cannot be touched by any other county. The best of the products on display at the Lane county fair, which will be held here the week before the state fair is held, will be taken to the latter.

BIG CONTRACTOR SUES FINANCIER

(United Press Leased Wire.) Jasper, Tenn., April 24.—W. J. Oliver of Knoxville, the noted contractor, politician, banker and manufacturer, today in chancery court sued Anthony N. Brady of New York financier of the lock and dam project at Hale's bar, for $800,000, charging breach of contract on the part of Brady and the unreasonable ejection of Colonel Oliver as a contractor from the lock and dam works.

For the past six months Oliver has been the most talked of man in the south. A little over a year ago he came into fame by bidding on and making a stiff fight for the Panama canal contract and only recently has been the defendant in a $50,000 breach of promise suit.

GREATER CLEANER SALEM

Mayor Rodgers has inaugurated a campaign for a cleaner Salem. A call is to be made upon the citizens of this city to devote a half day during the coming month to demonstrate their civic pride by turning out as a solid force, cleaning up their back and front yards, throw out the tin can collections hung on back yard fences; sweep up the alleyways so that after the day has come and gone it will seem as if a Pied Piper had charmed the dirt, gathered during the years, out of the houses and into the river. The exact date for this grand clean-up has not been decided upon by Mayor Rodgers, but when the same has been decided upon, a request will be sent to the Willamette University, the public and private schools of the city, the business men and others to declare a half-holiday and get together as one giant cleaner, the same as has been done in other towns often—the same as was done in San Francisco February 22, 1907, when the streets still covered with debris from the fire and earthquake were cleaned up by thousands of volunteers from labor unions, the school children and the contracting concerns, while the society women in their daintiest garments served sandwiches and delicacies alike to the plebeian and patrician street cleaners, who rubbed shoulders together to make their a better city.

Mayor Rodgers said, in speaking of the plan, as follows: "My attention has been attracted to the necessity of a clean-up day by the number of tin cans, old barrels, boots and shoes, and every kind of rubbish which is allowed to remain in the yards years in and year out without being done away with. I don't believe this is typical of the cleanly spirit of Salemites. For the purpose of proving this, I will issue a call for volunteers—volunteer teams to take away the dirt which can be deposited in the street on the day to be set; volunteers to assist in every way. I hope and believe that every man and woman in Salem will answer this call for civic pride. I would like to see every alley and alley-way between houses, back yards and front yards in Salem swept clean on that day. I appeal especially to the women for aid—for they can, besides doing their share in the work of cleaning up, inspire the necessary inspiration into the men of the city.

When the day is decided upon, I will issue a proclamation calling upon every patriotic citizen and resident in Salem to make their a cleaner, healthier and more wholesome city."

COUNTY CENTRAL COMMITTEE MEETS

Elects W. L. Jones, of Jefferson, Chairman, and Congressional Delegates.

The entire county central committee was present in person or by proxy, with but few exceptions. There were fifteen committeemen and eighteen proxies.

Senator Kay suggested that the candidates select the county chairman. Mr. Gesner said only half the candidates were not present and the law required the committee to select a candidate.

W. L. Jones was nominated on the first ballot. He modestly thanked the committee for his election, and took the chair. He is to select his own secretary.

Ed Martin was made member of the state committee. He responded with a good speech, and was heartily applauded. Jerome D. Simmons was nominated as congressional committeeman.

Chairman Jones was authorized to appoint an executive committee of seven, to be chairman.

On motion the seven Salem city precinct committeemen were to select a chairman. They did so, and reported B. F. West, who was endorsed by the county committee.

In the matter of selecting delegates to the state convention, E. Hofer moved that the delegates selected by the county convention stand as the delegates, and elect six more delegates to the congressional convention. Carried.

Additional delegates elected were T. B. Kay, J. D. Simmons, R. D. Hicks, H. C. Porter, C. H. Murphy, B. E. Robertson.

After some good hearty talks, the committee adjourned.
