

CIRCUS DAY TOMORROW

Needn't say another word to set every boy and girl in Salem wild with delight and anticipation. And the circus day age doesn't count, for the older people nerves are set tingling when "the circus comes to town." Time has gone by when we needed to borrow a neighbor's messenger, if not fortunate enough to own one of his own. You just frankly now without stopping to give lengthy explanations on the educational value of the menagerie. The Barnum & Bailey circus this year more than ever justifies its title of the "greatest show on earth" according to comment from places as far and as solid again with the small boy, particularly, and the public generally, because after a four-year abandonment the street parade feature has been restored as an important part of the circus day program. Today the circus is exhibiting in Portland and will come here upon its own four special trains directly after tonight's performance. The first train will have arrived and unloaded while the average citizen is in the Land of Nod, but not so early for an army of youngsters, from 7 to 70 years old, who had better go without the first meal of the day than miss seeing the circus menagerie unfold itself and disgorge its freight of good things. The fourth and last train brings that the circus people term "led" animals, including 32 elephants, 24 Arabian camels and innumerable zebras, alpacas, sacred cows, Indian cattle, etc. This motley array will proceed immediately to the new grounds, where, upon arrival, they will find their temporary canvas ready to occupancy. Sep and Lena, amiable pachyderms, immune to all noises and conditions, are always selected to lead the train, and early risers along their route to the grounds may well marvel at the sights afforded them. Following an unbroken circus, the first tent to be raised in the morning will be the "mess tent," where three times a day the little visiting community of some 1200 people are fed. Long before the heroes and heroines of sawdust and stunts will have arrived at the grounds the small army of workmen will have breakfasted in hearty and robust fashion, the envy and admiration of any dyspeptic onlookers. By the time the cages reach the site of the huge menagerie will be in position, but not until after the parade with the various dens and cages enclosed. After the cavalcade returns each and every cage is thoroughly cleaned and there are lots of new and interesting things about a circus that even the blase person who has attended circuses all his life doesn't know. The bl-rhined rhinoceros has his nose great hide rubbed full of fish oil three times a week, and both he and the hippopotamus are scrubbed with soap and water each day. It's a rare sight to see the keeper clamber into the hippo's cage with his pail, brush and soap and explain why the process is necessary. In the circus tanks the depth is not sufficient to entirely submerge the body as in the river, amid their natural environment. The blood rushes to their backs unless the pores are kept active and hardens similar to fish scales and the animals sicken. The thick-skinned hippopotamus enjoys it immensely, this daily onslaught with the scrubbing brush, opening his immense mouth to have the gums rubbed, and with thick guttural grunts indicating his complacent satisfaction. The animal exhibit this year is promised to be more varied than ever before, and is especially attractive in the nursery department. No less than half a dozen babies will be seen in the zoological kindergarten, where Baby Bunting, the infant elephant is uncrowned queen. Then there is a baby camel, baby llama, infant kangaroos, all of which cause quite as much concern as to care and diet as an equal number of boys or girls.

Baby Bunting has been segregated from "Babe," its bulky mother, and is fed rice and milk from a nursing bottle and baby food, all of which it enjoys and disposes of in a manner to indicate that it will in time live up to all traditions regarding an elephant's appetite. If the weather man is half decent tomorrow the parade will leave the grounds at 10 o'clock and traverse the principal streets. The circus people promise a splendid display and a fine index to their tremendous resources. It will be a veritable horse fair for one thing, and a generous display of open cages is announced. Every bit of the wardrobe is new and the colorful cavalcade takes a full half hour to pass a given spot. Twenty-five elephants will march in sedate file and a large drove of camels will afford a fine contracting element.

Men and women riders in elaborate and fanciful suits and costumes mounted upon thoroughbred horses in gorgeous housings and trappings will be seen in line and several bands will furnish music. In short, the parade will be well worth seeing. The performances proper present much that is new this year and of course there's a "thriller." This is termed "Autos That Pass In the Air," and has the stunts of previous seasons totally eclipsed. While one auto leaps a 40-foot chasm the other leaps high in the air, turning a complete somersault over its mate and landing 50 feet away. Anaemic persons are warned against looking at this act. Two attractive French girls, the sisters La Raque, occupy the machines.

All day tomorrow grand stand chairs and admission tickets may be purchased at Patton Brothers' book store at exactly the same prices charged upon the grounds. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is especially recommended for children. It tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. Sold by all druggists.

ROYCROFT PHILOSOPHY.

(By Fra Elbertus.)

Written in a sincere and kindly desire to help the young, who do not know, and the older ones, who sometimes forget.

Date all letters, memoranda and statistics—the Dating Habit is a good one.

Avoid cliques, and do not gossip nor listen to gossip about your fellow workers.

Learn from your mistakes, but don't cry over them. We best redeem the past by forgetting it.

Do not disparage rivals, nor run down another man's goods. If you do not know what to say, say nothing.

To repeat an unkind remark is as bad as to invent a lie.

Read the advertisements of your house, and without butting in, know what other departments are doing.

Frequent meetings of department heads, and meetings of all the workers in any one department are good things. They dissolve much social ice. You can't afford to cut them out.

Do not join the Knockers Klub; and avoid all fellowship with the folks who are trying to wear the face off the clock.

Shed no tears over your lack of early advantages. No really great man ever had any advantages that he himself did not create.

Do not go over the head of your chief with either inquiries, statements or complaints, unless called upon to do so by some one in authority over him.

Get your happiness out of your work or you will never know what real happiness is.

Mr. Buckner, vice-president of the New York Life insurance company, said to an employee, who asked for a raise in pay, "I would feel much more inclined to double your salary if you lived on half that which you now have. This is no business of mine, but I express this to you as a friend."

Arthur A. Ohmmus, a San Francisco Journalist, left for his home in that city today.

A Faithful Friend. "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for 18 years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. When a man has used a remedy for 35 years he knows its value and is competent to speak. For sale by Dr. Stone's drug store.

Just another trip, the old engineer says, and sometimes it is the fatal one.

The Laziest Man in the World. would not be contented to be kept in the house and doing nothing by rheumatism. Neither are you, who are always busy and active. The Farmer's Wife

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every taint or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood. If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best receipts known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. What this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.
