"THE DEVIL" AT THE "YE LIBERTY"

The Ye Liberty has secured for Friday, Saturday and Sunday two of the most sensational, as well as interesting, animated pictures that have ever been shown on the Pacific coast. The first is an exact reproduction of the theatrical production that has created a sensation from coast to coast, and is produced under the title of "The Devil." The second has made Oregon athletes famous the world over, and is a picture showing the great Olympic games that recently took place in London. This picture is one of the most interesting that will be shown this season, and should be seen by every lover of the great American sports. The management of Ye Liberty is without doubt showing some of the most interesting as well as novel attractions, and are entertaining a large number of people. In securing this picture it is quite a "scoop," as they are in great demand by every moving picture house in the country.

Murray told the court he did not wish a legal adviser, as he had not the slightest recollection of being under arrest or taking the garments at the time, as he was under the influence of liquor to that extent. Edward Decker, the victim of the theft, was the first witness to take the stand.

Ladies' Aid—

CONFERENCE

"I call the brother's attention to a rule of the discipline that when the Episcopal fund is short, the pastor must take his salary pro rata," said the bishop, amid laughter.

Rev. Bishop of Forest Grove, made the point that the Episcopal fund was not properly a benevolent Bishop Hughes remarked that the point was well taken.

An Old Publication.
Rev. Jos. Hoberg has a copy of "The Annual," printed at Salem, January, 1868, when he was superintendent of the Sunday school, with 400 members. J. M. Albert was secretary and treasurer. A marriage was reported performed by Judge J. C. Peebles.

Introduced to Conference.
Rev. W. H. Reese, of Seattle; Dr. Willis and Dr. Herrington, of Seattle, were presented to the conference.

Miss F. E. Treadwell, of the Portland district, and Miss Fund, of Eugene district, were introduced, representing the order of Deaconesses.

Dr. King, superintendent of Nevada mission; D. J. Goode, formerly of the Free Methodist church, and the Salem pastors were introduced.

Dr. Herrington was pastor at Salem 25 years ago, and his daughters were at Willamette. He lived at Salem as residing elder, and recalled many of the old families there. He presented the cause of Methodism as it is to be re-erected at the Alaska-Yukon exposition. Bishop Hughes endorsed the proposition, and urged the Oregon conference to give.

Rev. Heppner moved a committee of five ministers and laymen be appointed to take charge of the Methodist exhibit at the Seattle exposition. Carried.

Better Sunday Laws.
Rev. Selleck said the present Sunday laws were almost a fiasco, and needed amending. He asked that Clarence True Wilson, Sanford Snyder and C. C. Rarick be added to the committee on the sanctity of the Sabbath.

The committee was re-elected on request of members of the Saleto Ministerial Union.

Conference Possibilities.
As some of the prelates have touched upon public policies, the question of their political availability is of interest. Here are a few:

Clarence True Wilson, mayor of Portland.

M. C. Wire, governor of Oregon.

Robert Booth, United States senator.

Mayor Rodgers, of Salem, (whose father intended him for the ministry) for senate man.

J. C. Hill, minister to Sweden and Norway.

W. H. Selleck, minister to Germany.

Salem District.
District Superintendent Rowland, of Canby, reported on the conditions of the churches. Ministers and salaries were the greatest problems. He stated that $600 and a house was the least a minister could live on comfortably.

Dr. Walsh, of the Board of Concern, made his annual statement of the work and services of the church publishing house.

Good Secretary Work.
Melville T. Wire, of Putton church, Portland, is a model secretary. He surprised the conference with a printed report of his proceedings. It was put in type at The Journal office. It will be furnished each morning to the conference.

Sunday School Missions.
Bishop Hughes said he wanted to introduce Rev. Blake, of New Hampshire, "as the softest tenderfoot who had struck the coast." Bishop Hughes said he had been advertised at Tacoma "as the homeliest man in Methodism." If he had ever doubted the truth of that statement, it was strengthened since he had looked in the faces of the Oregon conference. (Laughter.)

The bishop then presented Dr. Blake of the Sunday School Missionary Conference.

Dr. Blake said that he was not the homeliest man in the ministry, but he felt that many plain men in this conference had some chance to become bishop.

"Well, that is their only chance," said the bishop. (Laughter.)

"Let me say that more marvelous things than that happened at the Baltimore general conference in the election of bishops." (Great Laughter.)

He then got onto the good side of his audience, and presented the cause of the national Sunday school movement, now promoted by the national conference. He said more than a million people had come into the Pacific Northwest in six years. He said more than 100,000 children between 6 to 18 years were outside of Sunday schools. More than half the children of those ages were untouched by Sunday school influences. Any school district big enough for the state of Oregon to recognize was big enough for the church to recognize for Christ. Out of 160,000 between 4 and 20 years only 65,000 children were in the Sunday schools.

The Presbyterian church had its Sunday school missionaries in this field, and since his arrival he had secured five more to enter this field. He wanted one added by this conference. (Applause.)

The conference voted to create the office of Sunday school missionary. A resolution to reduce the number of district superintendents from four to two was presented; to be considered Friday morning.

W. H. Reese, on Freedman's Aid Society, speaks this evening at the church.

DIED.

COMMITTEE TO VISIT THE MINES GO TO SANTIAM DISTRICT

The general committee of the Board of Trade to boost for the Santiam mines had a delightful luncheon at the Cottage Hotel, and a sub-committee was appointed to visit the mines at once, and report on the amount of development work done there, and whether the mineral output was sufficient to warrant putting in a smelter. Their report will be made the basis of a stock subscription among Salem business men generally.

The committee named are Messrs. Lafke, Rice and Barr, who left last night for the mines.

The Smelter Proposition.
Mining Engineer Gadsden, representing the Wilson-Gadsden Company, that is to put in the smelter in the Gold Creek district, on the Little North Fork of the Santiam, has written The Journal as follows:

"We desire, in reply to many inquiries from Salem business men, to make two points clear with regard to the proposed smelter, and the efforts being made by the Gold Creek, the Freeland Consolidated and the Electric Mining Companies to raise in Salem the funds needed to put the mines in shape to deliver their ores to us:

"First—The officers and directors of the various companies are absolutely prohibited by contracts, with ourselves, from selling their private stock until the treasuries have been supplied with sufficient funds to do the work we insist on. We gave assurance to the honorable county court of Marion county, when the matter of the appropriation for the bridges came up, that this was no "stock selling scheme" for individual profit. And we wish to announce that all stock now on sale by the various companies and their brokers in Salem is "treasury" stock, and funds therefrom cannot go into private pockets, but must be used to get the mines in shape to warrant us in building as soon as possible after the roads are passable next spring.

"Second—We wish to make explicit the point that we are smelter men, and not miners, therefore absolutely no interest is held by us whatsoever in the mines, and we are not permitted by our rules to acquire any such interest anywhere. We prefer this Santiam Gold Creek district to any we have examined in Oregon, Idaho or Washington; and we shall certainly build a smelter there (how soon we build depends entirely on how soon these mines can get ready for us), and how quickly they can convince their friends of the excellence of an investment with them.

"But there are other places in this Northwest in which a smelter will be profitable, as any well-informed mining man knows, and, as much as we appreciate the great advantages of the Santiam district, there is no reason why we should shoulder all of their mining problems, in addition to our own, or that we should come to the district until the mines have the necessary facilities in place to deliver us the ores.

"Just as soon, however, as three companies have some $10,000 or $12,000 each in their treasuries, we will start the erection of our plant."
