Ruby Helmken Buried—
The remains of Miss Ruby Helmken were buried at Turner Tuesday, the Presbyterian minister officiating. It was for many years the home of the Helmken, and a large number of friends attended the funeral. Miss Helmken was 23 years old, and suffered from heart trouble, which caused her to fall out of a boat and drown in Coos Bay. Her father, Harry Helmken, went to Coos Bay, and had the body recovered and brought home for burial. The family are well known here, and now reside at Woodburn. Many friends at all these places deeply sympathize with the family in their great loss.

KLINGER-GRAND THEATER RE-OPENS
Salem has increased so remarkably in a theatrical way that the Nickelodion theater on State street, which has occupied the Klinger-Grand theater building will be removed and a stock company will begin playing there next Monday night. Eric Kleppin will be the manager for the syndicate operating the theater. The George W. Lowe company will start the ball rolling next Monday night. The stock companies will be changed semi-weekly.
