THE GIRL DETECTIVE THREW HIM DOWN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27 .-Pretty Fanny Wilson, a girl detective who formerly lived in Denver, is the center of interest today in the case of Broker W. A. Muir, accused of embezzlement of $20,000. Mrs. Muir. the broker's wife, has asked the police to investigate the relations of her husband with Miss Wilson, and intimated that she believed there was blackmail connected with the case.

After having been constantly in the company of Muir, going to dinwith him and being seen in publie with him many times, Miss Wilson admits having betrayed him to the police when he was a fugitive at Los Angeles. She asserts that her relations with the broker were of a "purely business" nature, and intimates that she may have suspected him of the crime of which he now accused.

Mrs. Mulr evidently did not believe the "purely business" explanation as she stated to the police last as mercury will surery destroy the night that her husband's ruin was brought about by the money he lavished upon the woman detective, she had no personal regard for Muir. Such articles should never be used Miss Wilson produced a letter which was signed with the broker's in-The letter reads: "Dear Fay-I am in Los Angeles
