HOUSE HAS VERY BUSY AFTERNOON

PROVIDES FOR NAMING FARMS, REGULATING SALE OF FIRE CRACKERS AND PASSES SOME "MORNING AFTER" RESOLUTIONS.

The house rushed through a lot of work Thursday afternoon. McKinney was in the chair part of the time, and proved what kind of a speaker he would have made.

Senate Bills Passed.
Hawley's bill to legalize naming of farms provides that for $1.00 fee the owner of any farm can have a name recorded. Passed.

Malarky's bill relating to adoption of children. Passed.
Oliver's bill to fix terms of circuit court in tenth judicial district, passed.

Oliver's bill relating to appeals to the supreme court. Increases time for filing transcript in criminal cases from five days to thirty days. Peterson spoke for the bill. Brooke said the change was bad. Five days was long enough time for county clerks to make up the notice of appeal. McKinney thought the matter was too trifling to add another law to the already too voluminous statute books. This killed the bill.

Nottingham's bill to amend executions under mortgage and mechanics' liens. Passed.

McCulloch's bill, regulating terms of court in the eighth judicial district. Passed.

Oliver's bill to define certification of official documents. Passed.

Burgess' bill to regulate sale of giant flourackers. Passed.
Locke's bill for county hospitals was referred.

Resolutions.
Invitation to visit Agricultural College February 3, referred to committee on resolutions.
Bigelow resolution to enforce interstate commerce laws against prison-made goods.
Resolution to give stamps and wrappers to sergeant-at-arms. Passed.

Memorial by Westerlund against uniform national fruit box legislation at short session of congress.

Third Reading House Bills.
H. B. No. 192, by Miller (M. E.) to license sale of hard cider and malt liquors. Passed.
H. B. No. 111, by Neuner, to amend laws relative to mechanics' liens. Neuner stated the amendment proposed to give material men and subcontractors the same time, 60 days, to file liens, as the original contractor. The change from 30 days to 60 days was resisted by several.

Mr. Neuner said the present law drove the material men and laborers into the hands of the lawyers. The bill went up to glory by a small majority.

H. B. No. 110, by Chambers, to regulate the crab fisheries and crawfish. Passed.

H. B. No. 127, by Pierce, to make appointment of a county road master mandatory. Mr. Pierce made a short statement for the bill. It was sent to roads and highways.

A Good High School Bill.
H. B. No. 115, Pierce, to create high school fund from corporation licenses, was reconsidered. It gives each county $1000 and the balance to be divided among the counties in proportion to the number of high school teachers employed.

Brownhill said while $13 a year was spent on educating the country boy or girl and $30 a year on the city boy or girl. Referred for amendment.

To Measure Streams.
H. B. 13, Abbott, to provide for topographic maps of the state of Oregon. Carries $20,000 to co-operate with the federal government in measurement of streams. Vouchers to be paid on being audited by the state engineer. Passed. Chapman, Hollis, Miller of Linn, Steelhammer and Tignard voted no.

More New Bills.
No. 231, by Fouts, to define and regulate public utilities.
No. 232, Belknap and Thompson, to prohibit pollution of Deschutes river.

H. B. No. 233, Thompson, relating to title of Warner Valley Stock Company lands.
H. B. No. 234, by Peterson, at request state land boards, rights of way over state lands.

H. B. No. 238, Miller of Columbia, license for hard cider.
H. B. No. 239, by Thompson, title to swamp lands.
H. B. No. 240, by Brownhill, to provide for publishing laws.

Brownhill, Clyde, Gill and Backler are in their seats frequently as late as 10 o'clock at night and Sunday. They are regular Atlases.

RETAILERS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

RE-ELECT PRESIDENT PERRY AND SELECT DIRECTORS—SESSION WHICH HAS BEEN A PROFITABLE ONE, WILL END SOME TIME TODAY.

The Oregon Retail Merchants' Association displayed their high approval of the results accomplished by Mr. Perry during the past year, by re-electing him as president by a unanimous vote by acclamation. The following officers were also elected:

- First vice-president—R. Alexander Pendleton.
- Second vice-president—W. A. Bell, Eugene.
- Third vice-president—Enoch Bradford, Hood River.
- Secretary—Chas. B. Merrick, Portland.
- Treasurer—Thos. Watts, Reuben, Oregon.
- Directors—E. M. Warner, Medford; C. M. Eppley, Salem; A. J. Henderson, Springfield; J. C. Mann, Portland; F. W. Funk, Portland; Dan Kellaher, Portland; J. W. Campbell, Hermiston; J. G. Snodgrass, La Grande; Fred Dresser, Seaside.

Delivery receiving and order systems were the elements considered in the talk by Max O. Baren. First impressions being lasting, one must have a well rounded stock of the things that your customers want. Want lists should be maintained to keep up with the demand for new articles and in large establishments the proprietors can well afford to do a bit of clerking occasionally to keep in touch with the types of customers that the stock may not grow away from the bulk of the trade. Many firms acquire an undesirable reputation with the wholesalers by reason of brusqueness, carelessness or inconsistency in their correspondence, and as courtesy, carefulness and consistency can all be cultivated and none of them cost money, it is really a profitable plan to pursue. Mr. Baren gave the details of a triplicate order blank used by his firm, which reduces errors and saves the nerves of the buyer. His plan for indexing and cross-indexing the catalogs and circulars of wholesalers and manufacturers was also explained and this part of his talk was particularly instructive as showing how it is possible for a large establishment to keep track of all the different items carried and especially the odd and unusual. Co-operative delivery systems for certain classes of business were discussed pro and con and the general impression seemed to be that in many cases the co-operative plan is the best and most economical.

Thursday Afternoon's Session.
The business of the afternoon began with reports of committees, followed by an address on "Retail Credits and Collections," by William B. Hansen, credit man for Tall & Gibbs, of Portland. Mr. Hansen is thoroughly acquainted with the subject, and gave a very interesting and instructive talk, embellished with numerous reminiscences, illustrative of the subject matter. If a man can not ordinarily pay at the end of the first month, it will generally be much more difficult to pay at the end of the second month or later. The speaker was followed by numerous of the delegates, who had experiences of all kinds to relate concerning the careless extension of credit, and the difficulty of collecting certain classes of accounts.

"Business Ethics" was the subject of an address by W. I. Staley, president of the Capital Business College. He said that no good reason could be advanced why the standard of business ethics should differ from the standards accepted for law, religion, medicine or domestic relations. Right is the only right. If both parties of a transaction do not desire a profit or benefit from that transaction, it is basely wrong. Courtesy can scarce be differentiated from the realm of ethics, so closely is it related, and so nearly impossible is it for an unaccountable person to be really just.

The liberty of the floor was granted to F. J. Fletcher, who asked that consideration be given the measure now pending before the legislature, making mandatory the marking of the net weight of package articles. This is a matter of vital interest to all retailers and the Mann bill, with slight amendments, received the hearty support of the convention.

MAKES BEER WITHOUT ALCOHOL

CHEMIST DISCOVERS WAY OF REDUCING BEER TO THE LEVEL OF COMMON, EVERY DAY WATER—WHAT'S THE USE.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
London, Jan. 27.—Announcement was made here today that Otto Overbeck, an English chemist, after 30 years' "dabbling," has discovered the secret of manufacturing beer which will not intoxicate. However, that portion of London which likes its mug, refuses to get excited over the matter, and are asking "what's the use?"

Overbeck, nevertheless, is receiving the congratulations of his fellow chemists, who for years have been trying to "de-alcoholize" beer, although they had, in a measure, succeeded, it was only by raising the liquor to such a temperature that its palatability was destroyed.

By the Overbeck system he is able to take from beer and stout the power to produce intoxication, while leaving the flavor, sparkle and palatability unimpaired.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is not a common, every-day cough mixture. It is a meritorious remedy for all the troublesome and dangerous complications resulting from cold in the head, throat, chest or lungs. Sold by all druggists.
