

What the Papers Said

What the Gazette said:

PLYMOUTH STORE IS TAKEN OVER BY BRICK

IS A HANDSOME STORE

Aggressive Business Man and Commercial Traveler in Charge.

Salem is coming to the front as is shown by its business men it is attracting to its confines, the latest of whom is Mr. B. Brick, who has been a commercial traveler for several years, and who thirty days ago resigned a lucrative position to take the management of the Plymouth Clothing Store, owned by Enright & Enright, they having succeeded the late Oscar Johnson.

The Enrights have recently sold the establishment to Mr. Brick, who has paid them one-third cash, and intends to pay the balance in thirty days. The Enrights feel reluctant in giving up this well established store. However, it is impossible for them to continue, and at the same time do justice to the management of their real estate holdings.

Mr. Brick is a young man and seems to pursue rather progressive methods in the management of the business that rings of up-to-date principles. In speaking to our reporter, he made the following statement:

"I never have taken a cent from a man in my life unless I gave him his money's worth, and every one dealing here will have to receive 100 cents on the dollar—that's the only way I ever do business, and everyone must leave this store and return again perfectly satisfied with their treatment and the values received."

It is understood, however, that the Enrights will still hold control of the business until the entire payment is made and the deal finally consummated.

What The Statesman said:

BRICK IS NOW OWNER

Enright & Enright Sell Out to Man of Great Capacity.

Enright & Enright, who several months ago succeeded to the business of the late Oscar Johnson, on account of the pressure bearing upon them through the attention of their real estate holdings in Salem and Portland, are about to retire from the business by selling the establishment to B. Brick who has been managing the store for them during the past month. It is understood that Mr. Brick is paid considerable cash, judging from his statement to The Statesman's representative, and he expects to have them paid off in about a month's time. In the meantime, the Enrights will still control until the final transfer is made. Mr. Brick has been a traveling man for a good many years and it is evident from his successful record of the management thus far that he has the energy and the energy to make the Plymouth one of Salem's leading clothing stores.

It has been noticed that in all their dealing during the recent sale the aim has been uppermost in their minds to give full satisfaction to every customer, and the remarks dropped here and there by the many who have taken advantage of the liberal offers made is but an indication of the fulfillment of this satisfaction.

It is recognized that since January first the number of vacancies in store buildings in Salem have been made, and from our friends, the "wets," we have heard the oft-repeated remark: "I told you so." It always happens that a calm follows a severe storm until the elements gain their equipoise, and then the atmosphere becomes clear and life-invigorating. So it is in the business world, and the people of Salem have but to watch the signs of the times as reflected by the successful business energies exhibited by Mr. Brick and others among the merchants of Salem to gain an increased feeling of optimism.

What the Journal said:

PLYMOUTH STORE IS SOLD.

Manager Brick Buys Out Firm of Enright & Enright, Dealers in Men's Furnishing Goods.

Enright & Enright, who succeeded the late Oscar Johnson in the control of the Plymouth Clothing Store, have sold the establishment to their manager, Mr. B. Brick. It is understood Mr. Brick paid considerable cash, and that he is to pay the balance in a short time. The Enrights have definitely decided to do this because of the personal attention they must give their real estate holdings. However, they will remain in control until the final payment is made.

Mr. Brick is 35 years of age and has been a traveling commercial man for several years. He has shown in the past thirty days, since he has taken management of the store, that he has learned up-to-date business methods, which he lost no time in placing into operation.

It seems to be his greatest desire to send people out of the store delighted with their purchases and with the values and treatment received. A successful future is predicted for the young man, who apparently seems to want to please the trade and build up a reputation for honest values.

THE PLYMOUTH CLOTHING

Corner State and Liberty Streets

Salem, June 21, 1914.

DEAR FRIENDS:

The accompanying news items, which appeared in the daily press, speak for themselves. I took charge of this store on the thirteenth of May as manager. Since then I have done everything possible to make this store attractive as a buying center. I immediately reduced our prices and advertised this fact, as I wanted to meet in person the people of Salem and vicinity. Those who have patronized this store during my management will bear testimony that I treated them with KINDNESS, COURTESY and CONSIDERATION, and it is for this reason many of the nearby town folks make the PLYMOUTH CLOTHING STORE their headquarters while in Salem. Having already paid ENRIGHT & ENRIGHT, who succeeded the late OSCAR JOHNSON, a large sum of money, I promised them I would try to give them the balance in thirty days. I have no other way of doing it than to sell my stock, consisting of the well-known ALFRED BENJAMIN Clothing, the CRAWFORD Shoes, STETSON Hats, CARHARTT Overalls, FERGUSON McKENNY Shirts, the G. & M., B. V. D. and POROSKNIT Underwear, and hundreds of other items too numerous to mention. Therefore I am preparing, by marking prices down, for a REAL GENUINE SALE that will make this community sit up and take notice, for I never do things by halves. I cannot at this time announce the opening day of the sale. However, if you will keep your eyes on page three of our daily papers, also next Thursday's Oregon Gazette, it will be called to your attention through these mediums.

I would like to impress on the public this fact, that every article bought during this coming sale will absolutely be guaranteed by me to give satisfaction or money will be refunded. Remember also that I am here to stay in business, and every PLEASED CUSTOMER will mean my bread and butter, so you can rest assured that you will receive values such as you seldom get. Remember also that I am soliciting your help to meet this big payment, and if you will help me make good, I promise I will continue to keep prices as low as possible and help you to REDUCE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING, and it will be my policy to make only a LEGITIMATE PROFIT AND NO MORE. I believe I have explained my principles, and I beg your support and co-operation in this gigantic undertaking, and will endeavor to make this store a credit to Salem.

Yours very truly,

BENJAMIN BRICK,

Successor to Enright & Enright. Formerly the Oscar Johnson Store.

SCIENTIFIC DATA IS TO BE SOUGHT IN WILDS OF THE NORTH

Copenhagen, June 22.—The expedition Knud Rasmussen is to attempt to lead to the north pole next summer will not be a mere sporting dash, it was stated today by Ole Olson, the Danish mining magnate who will finance the undertaking, but will be made with a view to the gathering of as much genuine scientific information as possible. In merely having been to the pole, this having been already achieved both in the north and south, Olson said he and Rasmussen agreed there was no longer any great honor.

They considered, however, that neither Peary nor Amundsen brought back any data which contributed greatly to scientific knowledge and this, accordingly, is what Rasmussen will seek.

It was stated that the expedition will be the most completely equipped of any ever sent into either the north or the south. Rasmussen probably knows more of Greenland than any other man living, and it was taken for granted that it was by this route that he would make his attempt. He expects to be gone at least two years.

It was Rasmussen who was among the first to question Dr. Cook on his return from the north. Though not a vehement champion of the American's claims, he was entitled to credit them at first. An answer was served on the attorney general this morning in the case of the state against the Friar's Club, and at the same time a demurrer was filed. The ground for the demurrer is that as Governor West had declared martial law in force at this club, and it was still in force and the place in possession of the state militia, that the courts have no jurisdiction, and hence the suit cannot be prosecuted at this time nor until the order declaring martial law has been revoked.

CIRCUIT COURT CASES.

The case of Grace D. Barnes against William Esch, A. B. Spencer, and L. S. Barnes was on in the department number 2 of the circuit court this afternoon. The case involves the title to property in Salem to the value of $25,750. It is alleged in the complaint that L. S. Barnes borrowed this sum from Grace Barnes, his wife to invest it in real estate and that through an error the title was made out to L. S. Barnes. A judgment against Mr. Barnes in the sum of $69,339 was rendered in a California court in favor of A. B. Spencer who sought to levy on the Salem property through the office of Sheriff Esch. John A. Carson and George G. Bingham appear for the plaintiff and George T. Skiff and W. T. Slater for the defendant.

The case in regard to the guardian ship of Henry Slough an incompetent, was dismissed by the county court this afternoon upon a voluntary motion and another petition seeking to have George Palmer dismissed as guardian for Mr. Slough filed this afternoon.

The petition filed today was made by Clara Anderson and Martha J. Clunfield. It is stated in the complaint that approximately $9,000 worth of property belonging to Henry Slough is involved in the suit.

The argument in the case of G. W. Johnson, against Ferdinand Kurz and Ora W. Franklin was heard and the matter taken under advisement in the suit to vacate an alley in Jones addition to Salem.

A suit was filed in the circuit court today by Robert Polossett against Mollie France to recover $350 alleged due on a note.

Judge Percy R. Kelly will be present at department number 1 of the circuit court tomorrow to hear motions and to settle bills that may come up. The judge will be present in his chambers at 10 a. m.

Now that most of the schools are out the teachers are either going to the seashore or getting married according to the books of the county clerk's office for out of five marriage licenses issued one half of the contracting parties were teachers. George E. Wood, a minister of Napa, and Esther Mabel Pratt, a Salem school teacher, took out a license. The others were: William E. Gulvin, a farmer of Marion; and Ethel Law a Salem teacher; George Joseph Wendroth of Salem an assistant in the Surveyor's office and Cecil Elizabeth Butte, a Salem teacher; George R. Schreiber, a teacher of McMinnville, and Esther L. Plumer, a Salem student wound up the list pedagogical contracts.

Chris H. Bonson, a machinist, and Almedia Dingham, a housekeeper, both of Shaw and Chester Wilks and Ethel Thompson both of Pratum were the last to take out the necessary license.

Crumpled Bow of the Storstad And Photo of Empress of Ireland

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

ONE of the worst disasters of the sea in the world's history was the collision of the steamers Empress of Ireland and the Storstad in the lower waters of the St. Lawrence river. The Empress of Ireland, hit in a fog by the Norwegian collier, sank with the loss of over 1,000 lives. The illustration shows (at top) the smashed bows of the Storstad after the collision and the Empress of Ireland as she appeared the day she sailed from Quebec to her unfortunate fate. The Canadian government is conducting a rigid investigation of the catastrophe.

Captain Max Gehlar, of Company M, O. N. G., today received a letter from Colonel C. H. Martin, the commanding officer of the regiment, congratulating him on the appearance of the company in the Rose Festival parade in Portland and complimenting him upon the discipline, appearance, and morals of the company. The colonel went on to say that he trusted that the company would make a showing equally as good at the annual encampment at Gearhart Park.

"STOPPENBACK" SUIT ARGUED.

The suit of "Stoppenback," plaintiff and appellant, against Multnomah county, defendant and respondent, was argued this afternoon before the supreme court. This is a suit brought to join the county of Multnomah from issuing bonds for the construction of the Portland-Vancouver bridge across the Columbia. It came up for hearing before Judge Cleaton in Portland, who decided on demurrer that the complaint did not state facts to constitute a cause of suit. The appellant's brief sets up that it is unlawful to tax the state to pay the interest on any county bonds, that it is unlawful for the county to sell bonds for the construction of property which is to be given to the state, and that the whole bill is unconstitutional. "Stop and back" is suggestive of the ends desired to be attained in bringing the suit.
