

THEODORE ROASTS ADMINISTRATION ALSO REPUBLICANS

His Voice Grew Husky as He Argued for Still Further Tariff Revision

IS GROUCHY OVER THE PANAMA CRITICISMS

While Roasting Democrats He Failed to Hold Out Olive Branch to Republicans

Pittsburg, July 1.—Western Pennsylvania Progressives were preparing today for a strenuous national and state campaign as a result of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's speech here last night. He spoke for an hour but made no mention of the Mexican situation.

In his speech the colonel criticized the Wilson administration severely. Its tariff legislation, he declared, was a total failure, its anti-trust program was economically absurd and its foreign policy was "wretched."

Invoking history, he asserted that acquiescence in it meant a continuation of "government by convulsion"—a saw-sawing between two different sets of policies.

Speaking for the Progressives, he argued for tariff revision by a non-partisan commission and for another properly empowered commission to regulate the trusts.

To the republicans he held out no olive branch.

The colonel's voice grew husky after he had talked for a short time, plainly showing the wisdom of his physician's warning that it would be dangerous for him to embark on an extensive speaking campaign at present. Otherwise he seemed well and strong.

Crowds greeted him at every station on his trip from New York to Pittsburg and the applause he received on his appearance before his audience was deafening.

Dr. Curtis said the colonel would be able to make speeches after a rest of six weeks.

When the reporters suggested to the colonel that the doctors might let him be a candidate after all, he said: "They won't have to let me."

BYNON RESIGNS AND RALPH MOORES IS IT

Fred S. Bynon, for the past year secretary of the promotion department of the Salem commercial club, closed his year's work yesterday. Recently he tendered his resignation to the board of governors, which was accepted. Ralph Moores, who has been acting in the capacity of assistant secretary during the past few months, will take over the work of the secretary.

Resolutions of appreciation of the work of Mr. Bynon during the year he has labored for the growth and prosperity of the city were passed by the board of governors, composed of the following business men: George F. Rodgers, H. O. White, U. G. Shipley, John J. Roberts, W. I. Staley, and W. M. Hamilton. Mr. Bynon expects to go into the real estate business again. He will probably open an office of his own.

Mother, read the announcement on Pages 10 and 11 to-day.

MYSTERY OF MURDER IS STILL BAFFLING

Woman Shot Down While in Doctor's Office by Assassin Who Fires Through the Window.

Freeport, July 1.—The police had not a clue today to the identity of the assassin who last evening shot Mrs. William D. Bailey to death in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, whom she was consulting professionally.

Mrs. Bailey, a beautiful woman, socially prominent and the wife of a rich Brooklyn manufacturer, had come to Freeport by trolley from her home at Hampstead, five miles distant, to call at Dr. Carman's office. The physician had diagnosed her case as a touch of malaria, prescribed for her and she was rising to leave, when a window just behind her was broken by the blow of a maul, a hand, holding the weapon, was thrust through the hole and a single shot was fired.

The bullet pierced Mrs. Bailey's heart and she fell dead instantly.

Dr. Carman promptly gave the alarm and the police surrounded the premises. The murderer had already escaped, however. The neighborhood was searched in vain, and bloodhounds were put on the trail. From Dr. Carman's office they led the police to Lynnbrook, nine miles away, where they lost the scent.

Dr. Carman was of the opinion that the shot was intended for him, and that Mrs. Bailey was hit accidentally or that the assassin mistook her for someone else.

OUT OF THE GLOOM

Many a Gloomy Countenance in Salem Now Lightens with Happiness.

A bad back makes you gloomy. Can't be happy with continual back aches.

The aches and pains of a bad back are frequently due to weak kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended for weak kidneys.

So Salem citizens testify. I. N. Bidgway, 438 S. 22nd St., Salem, Ore., says: "I had pains in the small of my back and my back ached at night. I tried many, many things and had headaches. Sometimes my sight blurred. There was sediment in the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me greatly and I publicly recommended them at that time. Nothing has occurred to change my high opinion of this remedy. In fact, my confidence in it is greater than ever. For I got a permanent cure. During the past several years I have been free from kidney complaint."

Price 50c. at all drug stores. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Bidgway had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

MEDIATORS TAKE AN INDEFINITE RECESS

Huerta Is Furious Over Failure to Bring About an Agreement Between Himself and the Rebels.

Paris, July 1.—Information received here today from reliable sources from Vera Cruz was to the effect that President Huerta was furious at the "A. B. C." mediators' failure to bring about an agreement between his representatives at Niagara Falls and the rebels. It was said he was now determined to refuse any compromise with the constitutionalists but to wage a guerrilla warfare against them to the end.

The "A. B. C." mediators having taken an indefinite recess, no further developments were looked for from Niagara Falls until more was heard from General Carranza concerning the sending of rebel representatives to confer with the Huertista envoys, which he had expressed some inclination to do, though he wanted more time to discuss the matter with his advisers.

Father, look on pages 10 and 11 of today's Journal.

VILLA MAY ASSUME CONTROL OF AFFAIRS AND FIRE CARRANZA

Rebel Commanders Have Implicit Faith in Him and Will Follow His Lead

IF BREAK OCCURS, VILLA TO NAME PRESIDENT

General Angeles Will Probably Be Selected for Place and Be Recognized

El Paso, Tex., July 1.—Generals Carranza and Villa were thought unlikely here today to become reconciled through the mediation efforts of their representatives.

Men in touch with the situation predicted that the breach between them would widen instead, and that Villa would either start a revolution of his own or seize control of the movement of which Carranza is now the head, and he only one of the later's lieutenants.

The two generals' representatives were expected to meet tomorrow or Friday in the Madero palace at San Pedro de las Colonias, about midway between Saltillo and Torreon. It was said that the Villa envoys would have preferred Torreon but the Carranzistas did not want to do their negotiating in a city where they would be surrounded by Villa's soldiers.

Carranza's leading emissary is General Antonio Villarreal, military governor of Coahuila. It was understood he was authorized to make any reasonable concessions to Villa.

Villa himself was silent concerning his break with Carranza, but his supporters here and at Juarez said Carranza's interference with his campaign was delaying success of the rebel cause. They added that Villa was not actuated by motives of personal ambition but would be guided entirely by the wishes of the generals under him.

That he was powerfully supported against Carranza was evident, however, General Gonzalez and Oregon, rebel commanders respectively on the east and west coasts, were said to have decided that until Mexico City is captured the constitutionalist civil authority, represented by General Carranza, should be subordinated to the military, represented by General Villa. Even General Natera, who was Carranza's choice to supersede Villa, wrote to the latter, pledging him his support.

In case the break becomes complete, the expectation was that Villa, assuming general control of the constitutionalist campaign, would proclaim General Angeles head of the civil branch of the rebel government, subject to his own authority. It was the general opinion here that Carranza would have no choice but to accept the arrangement as gracefully as possible.

General Obregon reported to Juarez that he had captured the Guadalajara electric lighting plant and expected shortly to begin a general attack on the city.

Villa Appoints Them.

Monterey, Mex., July 1.—General Carranza today promoted Generals Gonzalez and Obregon, respectively, the east and west coast, rebel commanders, to the rank of major generals, making them both rank General Villa. The latter's supporters were furious, declaring Carranza's action was a deliberate insult to their leader. Carranza designated Monterey as his provisional capital.

Administration Worried.

Washington, July 1.—Officialdom was deeply concerned here today over the trouble said to have developed between Generals Carranza and Villa.

Villa's Washington representative, Felix Summerfield, insisted, to be sure, that the general was still in accord with Carranza and had returned to Torreon only to prepare for the final dash on Mexico City. Carranzistas, however, were quite open in discussing the quarrel, declaring that "Villa is drunk with ambition."

The Mexico City situation was another cause of worry to the administration. President Huerta's overthrow was considered imminent, and it was feared it would be followed by the gravest disorders.

DIVORCE LAW UPHOLD.

Reno, Nev., July 1.—A decision upholding the validity of the new divorce law, requiring one year's residence in the state, was expected today from the state supreme court.

SOME LIVE GOSSIP FROM THE CAPITAL

Newspaper Man Couldn't Tell Peary from Cook When Pointed Out—A Medley of "What's Doing."

Washington, July 1.—The Peary-Cook North Pole controversy is still creating occasional amusement in Washington. A newspaperman was standing on a street corner waiting for a car the other day when Rear Admiral Peary, head erect, shoulders back, marched past.

"Know who that is?" inquired a passerby, admiringly of the newspaperman. "No," said the newspaperman, to see what the "free guide" would say. "That's the man who discovered the North Pole," said his new friend, importantly. "You don't say. Is that Dr. Cook?" said the newspaperman, in pretended amazement, looking after Admiral Peary.

Too disgusted for words, the "free guide" walked away.

Mixing music and statistics, estimates are made here that residents of the national capital receive free hand concerts every summer worth $100,000, largely attended being those of the "President's Own" Marine Band at the Capitol on Wednesdays and White House grounds on Saturdays. The Army engineers and various cavalry and infantry bands play at other parks.

"Shirt sleeve justice" was a hot weather innovation at the United States Supreme Court, according to Dame Ramor. Dignity and heavy coats were doffed by the staid justices. It was reported, by all unknown to the lawyers and spectators attending the sessions. The yarn could not be verified because of the heavy flowing silken robes.

"Nicky Ben", one of the guests invited to the wedding of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Miss Eleanor Wilson, who spent the wedding day and some time afterward in a hospital, is out again, completely recovered. He had a leg broken a day before the wedding by falling under an automobile.

"Nicky Ben" is the pet collier of Mrs. McAdoo. He is the constant companion now of McAdoo's children.

A. Z. Hunt, a noted veteran Potomac River fisherman, is today the envied of all local disciples of Isaac Walton. The envy is inspired by what is claimed to be a "record catch" in all history of Potomac bass fishing—incidentally famous through the country—of a big, small mouth black bass.

Hunt's catch tipped the scales at 6½ pounds. It measured 22½ inches, and was landed after a play of 20 minutes above the dam at the famous Great Falls of the Potomac.

A "Rip Van Winkle" of the Civil War is on the rolls today of the Kit Carson Post, No. 2, department of the Potomac of the Grand Army of the Republic, in the person of Jedediah W. Higgins. According to assertions to friends, Higgins never knew until a few days ago that a G. A. R. existed. He went to New Zealand after the war, closed in Salvation Army work, and never knew of the veterans' organization. He fought in the 173rd New York volunteer infantry.

Mark Thistlethwaite was performing the duties of his office, secretary to the vice-president of the United States, the other morning by opening the vice-president's mail. Suddenly, as he read a letter, he ceased his whistling, and became sad.

"What's the matter?" inquired a friend. "Here's a man," said Mark, "who has just named a baby after President Wilson. Do you suppose if he had a baby next year the junior will fall to me?" "What would the baby's name be then?" inquired the visitor.

Mark Thistlethwaite Long," said Mark, sadly.

White clothes are the only things to wear in summer, Secretary of State Bryan thinks. He wears them himself and advises all his friends to do the same.

"I'm glad to see the newspapermen putting on linen suits," he said. "It's a great relief in this hot city. I don't think much of them, but Mrs. Bryan said I had to get a white suit—so I did—and I wouldn't change now for anything."

ROBERTSON STORE AT TURNER IS ROBBED

The general merchandise store of Robertson & Reed at Turner was robbed last night of about $200 worth of goods and there is no clue to the robbers. The robbery was committed after midnight and before 6 o'clock this morning, at which time the proprietors entered the store and found that they had been robbed. Sheriff Esch was notified immediately, but as yet no trace of the robbers has been found.

The entrance was affected through a warehouse adjoining the store building. The robbers cut out a pane of glass in the rear window of the warehouse and then forced the door leading into the store. The loss was principally jewelry and clothing. Nine dozen watch fobs and a number of watch chains. The robbers also took two hickometers, instruments for registering the number of miles traveled on foot, and it is likely that they worked their hickometers overtime before daylight this morning.

The same store was robbed last fall by three Greek robbers, who were caught by Sheriff Esch.

VILLA WANTS MORE ARMS.

Torreon, Mexico, July 1.—That General Villa had urged the sending of the embargo on the importation of arms and ammunition from the United States into Mexico was reported here today.

General Gonzalez, with rebels, left Saltillo today for General Torres, commanding a force of 12,000 men, at San Luis Potosi.

Few of the rebels shouldered from carrying their people's burdens.

THE NAVY WENT DRY AT MIDNIGHT LAST NIGHT

John Barleycorn Was Fired From All American Warships Last Night—Dis-honorably Discharged.

Washington, July 1.—Except among the surgeons' stores there was not a thing alcoholic today on any United States fighting ship or at any American naval station on earth.

At least, if there was, it was in direct violation of Secretary of the Navy Daniels' order and the offense was severely punishable. The navy "went dry" at midnight. As it is supposed always to be "darkest just before the dawn," so also was it wettest just before it "went dry."

John Barleycorn has sailed the seas on American naval vessels, at any rate in the officers' mess rooms, ever since there was an American navy, and some of his old friends thought it only right to give him a rousing farewell on his last night among them. Some others, however, had already begun to eschew his society by way of getting used to being without him.

To the enlisted men the new order made not a particle of difference. For a long time the only persons on board United States warships who were allowed to associate with John Barleycorn were the officers.

There was plenty of difference of opinion here concerning the order's propriety. Chairman Padgett of the house committee on naval affairs and Senator Martine of New Jersey summed up compactly for the rival schools of thought on the subject.

"Most naval men will endorse the order," said Padgett.

"It's the most pernicious case of caustic hypocrisy that I know of," said Martine.

OLD FOLKS ARE GIVEN A FEAST OF CHERRIES

Yesterday was cherry feast day for the inmates of the Old People's Home, on Eleventh and Perry streets. Presents of the luscious fruit were made to the members who enjoyed the treat much. Amidst the cool, well-kept lawn and flowers these dear old people are enjoying the summer days.

Grandma Biggs, who is the oldest woman member, is enjoying the fad of once-head making. Mr. Tuttle, who "minks" the home garden, "fetched" a shovel full of rose leaves from the Southern Pacific depot garden for Grandma Biggs, and she is kept right busy drying the leaves, gridding and moulting the dough into head shape and placing the heads on knitting needles to dry. She has 110 heads drying now and nearly ready to be strung. "Grandma" has made five pretty strings of the Oregon favorite rose heads.

Grandma Biggs is thinking of coloring the last batch of beads and is perplexed about the method. Just how to apply the greens, red and blue hues is not known. Maybe some of the Salem ladies who are versed in the knowledge of bead-coloring could help Grandma Biggs. She will be glad to learn the right way.

COQUILLE IS NOW DRY.

Coquille, Ore., July 1.—For the first time in many years Coquille was dry today, the city council having refused recently on petition of a majority of the citizens to renew liquor licenses.

The closing of the saloons last night was the occasion of a general celebration.

THE QUEENS QUARREL LIKE FISH-MONGERS

Queen Mary and Dowager Queen Alexandra Scrap—Mary Bundles Dowager's Plunder Out of Palace.

London, July 1.—The quarrel between Queen Mary and Dowager Queen Alexandra over the auditing of accounts in connection with the sale of roses for charity on Alexandra day is not a separate dispute, it was said in court circles here today.

For years, the gossip asserted, the two women has squabbled almost uninterruptedly. One of their most important disputes occurred shortly after the late King Edward's death, when his widow refused to move out of Buckingham palace, keeping George and Mary cooped up in the quarters they had occupied when they were only prince and princess of Wales, which were altogether inadequate for the state they had to keep up as king and queen. Finally she was persuaded that she ought to seek change of scenery in the country. The moment she was gone, Mary moved into the palace, building her predecessor's belongings out with scant ceremony.

For auditor of the rose day accounts, Alexandra approved the selection made by the committee of society women who conducted the sale. Mary insisted that the work be done by the king's solicitor, declaring otherwise she would not allow her name to figure in connection with another sale. Alexandra has not yet yielded.
