NEW DEPARTMENT OPENS THIS FALL

Plans Announced for the New School Added This Summer to the University of Oregon.

University of Oregon, July 3.—The new school of agriculture at the University of Oregon will open in September with two elementary courses adapted for the student's first year's work toward his profession; a course in the history of agriculture and one in design. These will be given by Director E. F. Lawrence and by an assistant who will be appointed this summer. President Campbell has assigned to the architecture school the new two-story wing to the power plant, which will extend along the west side of University street. Besides the class rooms, drafting rooms, offices, museum and book cases, which the architectural work will require, the plans call for an exhibit room in the school of architecture building. Exhibits will be arranged and displayed in this room at frequent intervals and the public will be invited in on frequent occasions. This will constitute a new type of extension work carried out on the university campus itself. Its purpose is to spread an appreciation of the value of good architecture among the students in the university and the people of the state, and thereby make a start toward the time when more convenient, less extravagant, more appropriate and attractive and more comfortable houses and business structures will be strongly demanded everywhere in Oregon.

BUSINESS MEN FOUR TO ONE AGAINST IT

Vote on Prohibition by Portland Chamber of Commerce Interesting From Political Standpoint.

NO SENTIMENT IN THIS JUST COLD BUSINESS

If Prohibition Wins This Fall It Will Have to Be Done Outside of the Larger Cities.

More than four to one against was the vote of business men of Portland expressed in the straw ballot of the members of the Portland chamber of commerce, which was canvassed Wednesday morning by the board of trustees of that body.

A total of 585 votes was cast, out of a membership of 860. Four ballots were blank, 111 were in favor of state-wide prohibition and 470 against state-wide prohibition. The vote was held at the request of members of the chamber themselves, who desired to ascertain the attitude of the representative business men of the city as a whole on the subject.

It plainly was announced yesterday that this vote does not represent any official position taken by the chamber as a body, but is simply a canvass of the individual opinions of the business men who make up the organization.

The Portland chamber of commerce is only one of half a dozen or more prominent chambers in the United States in which straw ballots recently have been taken on the prohibition question, although the results in other cities have been announced as the official attitude and definite resolutions of protest against prohibition have been adopted.

The movement in Portland was started immediately following the action of the San Francisco chamber of commerce. The referendum vote in the San Francisco body was 1187 to 41 against prohibition and the chamber issued and published resolutions broadcast, strongly urging the defeat of the proposed California prohibition amendment in the November elections.

Similar resolutions, worded even more definitely and strongly, were adopted and sent out by the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. In these resolutions it was maintained that the enactment of the California prohibition amendment would amount to the confiscation of an industry in which several hundred millions of dollars are invested.

It points out that the state for years has systematically and directly encouraged the people to plant grapes and make wine and to develop the viticultural industry to the fullest possible extent, and that now there are 60,000 people and 340,000 acres of land involved in the industry, which represented an income in the state last year of $25,175,000. Other commercial bodies in California contemplate similar action, urging the defeat of the prohibition amendment in that state.

Prior to the action of the Portland chamber of commerce members, the Milwaukee chamber of commerce adopted resolutions urging the defeat of the proposed federal prohibition bill. A similar resolution was adopted officially by the chamber of commerce of St. Paul, Minn.

Many protests were sent the Portland chamber when it was found that the straw ballot was to be taken, urging that the plan be abandoned. For this reason it was decided better to make the action represent the individual opinion of the members instead of the official attitude of the organization.

OUT OF THE GLOOM

Many a Gloomy Countenance in Salem Now Lightens With Happiness.

A bad back makes you gloomy. Can't be happy with continual backache.

The aches and pains of a bad back are frequently due to weak kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended for weak kidneys.

So Salem citizens testify.

I. N. Ridgeway, 438 S. 22nd St., Salem, Ore., says: "I had pains in the small of my back and my back ached at night. I tried easily, was languid and had headaches. Sometimes my sight blurred. There was sediment in the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me greatly and I publicly recommended them at that time. Nothing has occurred to change my high opinion of this remedy, in fact, my confidence in it is greater than ever, for I got a permanent cure. During the past several years I have been free from kidney complaint."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Ridgeway had. Peter-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

TRAVEL ROCKY ROAD TO HYMEN'S DOMAINS

San Francisco, July 3.—The police today were still detaining Edward Freeman and Miss Lillian Schovert, the young Portland couple detained on the strength of a Portland telegram saying they were elopers.

Word was received yesterday that their parents had relented and were willing they should marry, and Freeman was released, though Miss Schovert was still temporarily held. Later Freeman returned to see the young woman and was again detained.

The police said the pair would be released as soon as an affidavit was received from their parents authorizing it.

SPECIAL TRAIN.

Special Train will leave Silverton for Salem on the 4th of July to accommodate parties desiring to attend Sunday school picnic at Pratum. Will leave Silverton at 7:15 p. m. Pratum at 7:35 p. m. arriving at Salem, about 8:15 in the afternoon.

VOTERS WILL HAVE PLENTY OF READING

To Pass Intelligently on All Should Take Up Study of the Law, Medicine and Metaphysics.

Twenty-nine general and two local measures will be voted on at the next election according to the initiative petitions filed before the office of the secretary of state closed yesterday on the last day on which such petitions might be filed. Twelve measures for which preliminary filings had been made will not be on the ballot as the required number of signers was not secured. Late yesterday afternoon two measures fathered by David M. Dunne were filed. One of these provides for the requirement of a two-thirds vote to enact any unequal taxation amendment and the other provides for a partial return to the old party convention system. The third was a measure filed by the grange which provides that in electing representatives to the state legislature that only one shall be voted for, and the 60 receiving the most votes shall be declared elected.

The qualifying measures which will be voted on at the November election, with the initiators, follow:

- Graduated Sur-Tax Amendment—H. D. Wagoner, et al.
- To Abolish State Senate—Oregon State Grange, et al.
- For Proportional Representation—State Federation of Labor, et al.

PLUCKY OFFICER MAY CAPTURE BIG REWARD

The Dead Robber, Being Identified, Entitles McDuffee to Rewards Aggregating $3750.

Pendleton, Ore., July 3.—With a reward of $1000 each, dead-or-alive, as an added incentive, the search for the two, perhaps three, bandits who escaped after holding up the O. W. R. & N. overland limited early Thursday when one of their number was killed and another wounded in a pistol duel with Deputy Sheriff George McDuffee of Heppner, Oregon, was resumed today with renewed vigor. The reward was offered by the O. W. R. & N. company.

Deputy Sheriff McDuffee, who himself was painfully wounded in the encounter with the bandits, was resting well today.

Bloodhounds brought from the Washington state penitentiary are being used in the search.

Every trail that the bandits could have taken after leaving the scene of the holdup is being gone over by armed posse.

Following a report that a brown automobile, without a license number and carrying three men passengers, was seen going northward from Athena, Ore., three hours after the robbery, a posse is searching through the southeastern Washington country and ranchers have been warned to be on the alert.

Railroad officials today estimate that money and jewelry to the value of $500 was taken from the passengers, and $240 and some cheap jewelry from the safe in the express car of the robbed train.

With the identity of the dead robber established almost beyond a doubt as Hugh Whitner, the notorious Montana and Idaho cowpuncher-bandit, Deputy Sheriff McDuffee will probably collect $3750 in outstanding rewards for his capture.

OREGON WRITERS PROLIFIC.

"Oregon has produced more literature in her 50 years as a state than the 13 original colonies have produced during their 150 years of experience," says Professor J. B. Hornor, professor of history at the Agricultural college, in his illustrated lecture on the literature of Oregon and the men who produced it. Professor Hornor speaks from first hand knowledge, since he had an intimate personal acquaintance with many of the state's great authors. In proof of his claim he delineates the writings of Joaquin Miller, Edwin Markham, Colened Baker, Ella M. Higginson, Sam L. Simpson and other authors of note, whose prolific writings run into many volumes.

Business Insurance

In a letter to a New York newspaper the manager of a talking machine company wrote:

"We advertise as a sort of business insurance, in winter and summer, in good times and bad, and our policy has made our product famous the world over."

This advertiser uses the newspapers very largely and has secured splendid co-operation from local distributors.

Business is so good that his factory, even in the dullest season, is far behind in its orders.

Business insurance through newspaper advertising has made dull times something unknown to that concern.
