STORY OF THE GAME

(By Hal Sheridan, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Fenway Park, Boston, Mass., Oct. 12.—The Boston Braves made it three straight on the Athletics this afternoon when they won a hard fought 12 inning game by a score of five to four.

SHERIDAN

The game was played before one of the greatest crowds that ever witnessed a world's series. It was lost by a wild throw made by Bush, the nervy Athletic pitcher, in the twelfth inning. Three times the score had been tied. It seemed in the tenth inning that the Athletics had their game won when they worked four to two. Hank Gowdy, the batting sensation of the series, drove a home run into the center field stands in the Braves' half of the tenth, and fired by his example, they tore in and put over the tying run on a base on balls, a single by Evers and a sacrifice. Hank was also responsible for the winning run in the 12th. He was the first man up and doubled. Mann went in to run for him and when Gilbert was sent to hit for James, Bush deliberately passed him. Moran then rolled on toward the box in the grass. Bush dashed forward, grasped the ball and hurled it toward Baker in an attempt to get Mann. The throw was wild. Baker did his utmost to reach it but it bounded toward the stands. Mann dashed over the plate, and one of the greatest games of a world's series was over.

the tenth when they seemed to have the game won. Schang singled and after Bush fanned, Murphy was safe on a fielder's choice. Oldring was out counted for the runs of the Athletics in the ninth. Tyler to Evers to Schmidt, Tyler reflecting the ball with his glove, Collins then walked and Baker drove a crashing single to Evers on which Schang and Murphy scored.

In the ninth inning, with one out, Baker threatened to break up the game when he doubled, but the succeeding batters failed to deliver the needed hit. The din during the tenth was such as probably was never heard before in a ball park as the Boston rooters pulled for a rally. It was a continuous scream and yell mingled with the glare of the Royal Rooters band, which pounded out "Tessie" constantly.

The Athletics' infield put their hands about their mouths to make themselves heard in exchanging orders. "Rabbit" Maranville on the first base coaching line did his part in trying to put young Mr. Bush in the air. He threw himself on the ground, yelled and kicked like an insane man.

The game started exceedingly slow, the first four innings dragging as neither Tyler nor Bush was sure of his control. It required three hours and 18 minutes to play the entire game, and the last inning was played in semi-darkness. Tyler was very unsteady at the start and Murphy let off with a double and scored on Connolly's muff. Tyler improved, however, as the game progressed as did Bush. Tyler gave way after the tenth inning, when DeVore was sent in to bat for him after Gowdy slipped out the circuit smash which apparently took the heart out of young Mr. Bush.

THE GAME BY INNINGS

First Inning. Philadelphia: Murphy up, ball one, strike one called; Murphy doubled down the left field line. He hit a slow ball outside and the sphere shot past Deal just a few feet inside third base. Oldring sacrificed on the first ball pitched, Tyler to Schmidt. Tyler almost fumbled.
