Limit of Service Before Promotion in Navy Removed

Now that there is a demand for young men in the navy and also that the navy is about to expand, many of the restrictions that prevented promotion on merit are being removed. The navy recruiting officer at Salem has received instructions from Washington that hereafter the time limit when petty officers must serve before promotion, has been waived. Hereafter, a recruit or an officer will not be obliged to serve a certain number of years in a certain rank before becoming eligible for promotion. From now on, promotions will be rapid not only for the commissioned officers, but for those who enlist and prove themselves to be worthy of advancement. The real tape of officials has been cut and as necessity knows no law, competent men will find promotions more rapid within the next few years than within the last dozen or so years. Times have suddenly changed and from henceforth, the man with brains will climb to the top.

Thumb-Nail Sketches of the Men Who Run the U. S. Navy

Washington, April 12.—The man who supplies the fleet with its vast quantities of "housekeeping" supplies—food, fuel and other stores—is Admiral McGowan, chief of the bureau of supplies and accounts.

The navy names him as the man who has made "a smoothly running military machine," of the great supply system. Under his regime great strides have been made in furnishing the fleet at an instant's notice with all it needs for any task. His is the business side of the navy, which calls for sound business judgment. He was selected for the post because of his "remarkable efficiency" as fleet paymaster.

McGowan is one of the best looking men in the navy. He has the strength and forcefulness of a giant, weighs about 200 solid muscled pounds, has a voice like a bull and is as democratic and companionable as a politician running for office.

How To Treat the Soil

By Carl Vrooman (Assistant Secretary of Agriculture) (Member National Emergency Food Garden Commission)

Washington, April 12.—When the back yard garden is ready for spading, the first thing to do is examine the soil—first its chemical condition, then its planting condition. Soil of the average city back yard may not be very good for the purpose of planting vegetables with a view to cutting the cost of living.

In the spring as soon as the soil has dried grasp a handful of it and if it will slowly fall apart it is in fit condition to prepare for planting. Never work clay or heavy soils while wet.

Soils which are naturally moist are sour and as a result are not in the best condition for planting.

Whether sour or not it will be well to test the soil. A piece of blue litmus paper should be obtained from a drug store. Take a handful of the soil slightly moistened and place the paper on it. The paper will turn red if the soil is sour.

If this condition is shown it can be corrected with a little lime. Cover the ground with a thin coat of air slaked lime, which can be obtained at little cost. Work this in well.

Clayey or stiff clay loam, where severe freezing has occurred, will be in a much better condition if it has been given a good dressing of manure in the fall.

Do not be too quick to get into the garden work. Some of the overzealous seize the first warm spell as the opportunity and work heavy clay soil before it is dry. They waste energy and do harm to the soil, from which it will not recover in a long time.

Timeliness is a big item in gardening and the thing to do it to have everything ready when the right time comes. Fresh vegetables are very desirable and those from the back yard garden are not subject to exposure and transportation. Then, too, home grown products lose flavor between the time they leave the farm and reach the city. This is avoided in the home grown garden. It is not desirable to start things before danger of late frosts is over.

Temperament Temper and Baseball

By H. C. Hamilton (United Press staff correspondent)

New York, April 12.—Ty Cobb's outburst for freedom in spikes, perpetrated in Dallas, Tex., with Charley Herzog the goat is sufficient to lead any one to wonder why it is that nearly every great star in baseball has participated in many outbursts of temper, many times ending in fist exhibitions.

Cobb, himself, has had innumerable episodes of temper, and many times they have developed into blows. The occasion of the butcher nearly put Ty out of baseball form a season, and there was a time when he clambered into a grandstand to take up the issue with a spectator.

Herzog is a scrappy individual and a star. Heinie Zimmerman is always eager to argue with some one—and he is a star. Joe Wood has had his first experiences. John McGraw was a fighter and a fast one. Johnny Evers has encountered troubles in his baseball days more times than any one has set down on paper.

It appears that the unchecked spirit that carries men to heights in baseball effort is just as likely to lead them to headless effort when an argument proves itself. That probably explains why Herzog and Cobb mixed.

Cobb has confessed he intentionally spiked the Giants' second secker. There undoubtedly was a reason for that, and when Herzog grappled with the Georgian and they went to the Texas sand in a rough and tumble exhibition, it was evident the fires had been smouldering.

It was a queer thing that each participant in this melee was playing under orders of two of baseball's scrappiest managers, John McGraw, himself, probably has gone through more pugilistic capers on the diamond than any man in the game, and High Jennings was a baseball player of some ability with his fists. Both were members of the old Baltimore Orioles, a club that learned fighting almost as soon as it did baseball.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, drowsy from a cold, foul tongue, rusty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. It washes from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; other who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Says a Girl Blew Up Eddystone Plant

Camden, N. J., April 12.—In a heated argument in a restaurant at noon today Frank Miller, age 46, shouted: "It's a dam lie that the Germans blew up the Eddystone plant; I know the person who did. It was a girl."

Judge Lloyd, at a table nearby, sprang to his feet and calling Judge French and ex-Judge Carrow to his aid, started for Miller, who ran out of the restaurant. At his boarding house half a block distant, he closed and locked the door, but the pursuing party broke it down and seized him. In his trunk were found maps of nearly every latitude in South Jersey. He was committed without bail pending action of the United States officials. Miller was born in Germany, but served as an American officer in the Spanish-American war. He was unable to explain movements of the past few days.

Captain Iver Holmes and the crew of four of his launch which turned turtle during a storm off the Columbia mouth yesterday, were rescued by the coast guard crew.
