Salem Farmer Bought Largest Bond—$10,000

This is the story of the largest subscription of any individual in Salem to the Liberty bonds. A farmer living near the city had just sold a farm in Nebraska and was in receipt of a demand certificate from the Nebraska bank for an even $10,000.

The farmer had no special use for the money and thought it might as well rest in Nebraska as any other place. But David W. Eyre, chairman of the committee soliciting purchasers for Liberty bonds thought of a much better place for that ten thousand and suggested to the farmer that it might be a fine thing to invest in a Liberty bond and at the same time let the sum be drawing interest to the extent of 3 1/2 per cent.

The farmer thought about the same way until he had this evening at the home of the bride, Alfred Schramm, brother of Miss Schramm, will sing. It is to be a quiet affair and only a few friends have been invited.

Shortly after, he graduated from Willamette. Mr. Pfaff taught school at Woodburn. The last year he has been at Port Angeles, Washington, in the high school, and he expects to re-enlist in the army or navy. He is within the draft age but he says the draft will not get him because he will enlist first. Miss Schramm has been teaching school since she graduated from Willamette.

When in the university, Mr. Pfaff was a member of the gleu club and a football player. He was popular and a favorite with all the students on account of his genial good humor. After the wedding, the young people will go to the University of Washington to take a summer course and further specialize in their work.

SALEM AND VICINITY

SUBSCRIBES $215,000

Many Boys and Girls Now Own Bonds, and Many Bought with Own Money

Liberty bonds to the amount of $215,350 were subscribed by the citizens of Salem during the four days campaign put on by the Liberty bond committee, of which David W. Eyre is chairman.

And not only was this large amount subscribed within the required time, but the people are still coming in with money, willing to do their share in financing the biggest enterprise ever undertaken by the American government.

Everybody got in and the soliciting committee was received as welcome visitors. The boy scouts did their share. The man and woman who has but a small income was ready for the committee. The smallest subscription was a $50 bond and the largest, $10,000 worth of bonds. This man is a farmer. A business man bought $5000 worth.

The president who thought Salem would be too slow to get in by today noon was found to be a bad guesser. Some thought about $100,000 was the limit of Salem. But the average man and woman responded willingly and gladly.

And while the older folks were placing their names to application blanks, the children were not far behind. Many a boy and girl in Salem is now the owner of their first government bond, and it was in many cases their own money.

Although the time limit for subscriptions to the bonds has expired, those who were a trifle tardy may buy as the banks bought each an extra amount just to accommodate such.

Anyhow, Salem is back of the government to the extent of $215,350 and the committee in charge of the subscriptions is wonderfully pleased with the patriotic response.

BRIDGE AGREEMENT HAS BEEN APPROVED

Advertisements For Bids Made—Work May Be Begun in Near Future

It is a long lane that has no turn. Today the legal agreement between Polk and Marion county in regard to the building of a bridge across the Willamette has been approved and advertisements will notify contractors to bid on the bridge, according to plans and specifications drawn by the state highway department.

According to the new law, the advertisement for bids will run 20 days, the last issue being July 7. There seems to be an impression among those who are familiar with the iron situation that after the contract has been awarded, materials can be laid on the ground within six months.

Anyhow, as soon as the contract is awarded, excavations for the piers will begin and the average person who has waited and longed for a new bridge should feel greatly encouraged. After the awarding of the contract it is variously estimated that at least within a year or eighteen months the new bridge will be a reality and not a dream.

***** RED CROSS DOINGS *****

The air around Salem will be fairly charged with Red Cross news and Red Cross solicitations for the week beginning Monday, June 18. Salem will be asked to subscribe $25,000 in real cash and the total for Marion county will be $50,000. All this work is in the hands of competent committees.

The North Salem auxiliary Red Cross is now well organized and is taking up the work of making hospital garments, according to Red Cross specifications. This auxiliary will be given lectures by Dr. Frank E. Brown beginning Friday evening, June 22. Those desiring to take the course of lectures should report to the Jason Lee church on the evening of the first lecture.

The 40 or more who have been attending the lectures on the preparation of surgical dressings, given by Mrs. Harry E. Clay, will be given a written examination Saturday morning, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. Test questions will be included in the examination and those who make a percentage of 75 will be certified by the Bureau of Nursing Service and the card so issued will entitle each one to serve as an instructor in the preparations of surgical dressings. They may instruct in Salem, or with any of the auxiliaries associated with Willamette chapter.

Next week, those who have been attending the night classes of Mrs. Clay and who have taken all the lectures, will also be given a written examination.

A Liberty bond is just as good as cash. At least it will be so accepted next week when the soliciting committee of the Red Cross comes around. Hence, if one happens to make the excuse of no money, the next question will be whether he happens to have a Liberty bond about his person.

***** COURT HOUSE NEWS *****

Marriage licenses were granted yesterday afternoon by the county clerk to Lloyd Wendell Shuler, a teacher of Harzburg, and Gertrude Cunningham, a student at Willamette university; and W. E. Campbell, a painter of Independence, and Edith West, a teacher of Salem.

Miss Jean McGregor, the brown eyed cupid who presides at the marriage license desk in the county clerk's office, and Miss Anna Arns, who registers the legal voters of the county, who spent yesterday in the Kingdom of Bosnia, have returned safely to the Capital city and this morning were back at their respective desks bright and early. Both were wearing happy smiles and it may be they saw King cupid himself while away at the rose festival where there was only one rose.

BUTTE LEADS CITIES

Butte, Mont., June 15.—Butte is perhaps the only city in the country which bought Liberty bonds in excess of the allotment for the entire state. Bankers estimated that $9,000,000 worth of the bonds were sold; while the state's allotment was only $7,500,000. Estimates place total bond sales for the state at double the allotment.

Two Women Elected As Willamette Trustees

The trustees of Willamette University, for the first time in the history of the institution, have elected two women as trustees. The two are Mrs. A. N. Bush of this city and Miss Bertha Moores of Portland. Miss Moores is an alumna of Willamette.

At the same meeting the trustees conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws on Senator Chamberlain and Senator Charles L. McNary.

The trustees are out this vacation for several large endowments, not only for the university but for the girls' dormitory. This campaign will take active form within a week or so.

A committee was appointed by the trustees at the recent meeting to request all denominational schools in the valley to appoint committees to meet with the Willamette committee to devise a more efficient educational program for denominational institutions. R. A. Booth of Eugene was made chairman of this committee.

England Watching America's Course On Food Control Matter

By Lowell Mellett (United Press staff correspondent) London, June 15.—England is following the American senate debate on the food bill with intense interest. The allies are admittedly anxious as to America's position in the food problem of the world. That anxiety is reflected daily in British newspapers. The Mail and Post today, for instance, emphasize the vital importance of early congressional action so that the allies may know just how far they can depend on America's assistance and thus be able to frame their own policies accordingly.

Allan Anderson, chairman of the allied wheat executive board, who accompanied the Balfour mission to the United States, thus summed up the situation today for the United Press: "I met many members of the American grain trade and I believe they fully realize the allies' great and urgent need. I was assured everywhere that private speculation was no longer attractive and that all desire to meet the crisis with the least possible disturbance to trade machinery. But how and when the problem of food control in the United States is to be settled, is still obscure."

***** THE SALEM FERRY AND THE UNPLANKED BRIDGE *****

For the benefit of those who have not forgotten all about the Salem ferry trouble and how the city came very near getting into a law suit with Bushnell & Skinner, it may be said, first that the ferry in question is resting peacefully on the river at the foot of Trade street. Also that about the time the trouble about the right price was passed up to Judge Kelley and Judge Belt to go to Portland to hold court and he is still there. Hence there has been no compromise as to what the two old barges are worth. If the two judges cannot decide on a price, they are empowered to call in another judge. It has been said that the mills of the Gods grind slowly and sometimes in legal matters and compromise suits, the mills on earth also go slow but sure. Nor has there been anything definite about planking the railroad bridge. Just at present it looks very much as though if the bridge is planked, there will be no need of the ferry and if it is not, two or three ferries would not accommodate the business across the river for the next six months.

***** VETERINARY SOCIETY Having Busy Session *****

On account of the non-arrival this morning of C. W. Lassen of Pendleton, president of the Oregon Veterinary Medical society, the election of officers which was to have taken place this afternoon did not take place. Instead the program that was outlined by B. T. Sims, secretary of the society, was followed and papers were read and discussed.

About twenty five veterinarians from all parts of the state are present and the sessions are being held at the state house. This number in attendance is said to be exceptionally good. Much enthusiasm is manifested by the members. More members are expected this afternoon from Eastern Oregon. Election of officers will take place after the arrival of the president.

Of special interest to the horse doctors will be the free surgical clinic to be held tomorrow morning at the South Commercial street feed barn operated by Dr. Patterson. Operations will be performed on a horse that had a bone shattered by a .25 bullet, a bad tooth will be extracted and other operations performed on horses promised especially for the clinic. This clinic is a new feature of the meeting.

The following is the program that is being followed: "Met inspection in Portland," Dr. E. E. Chase; "The County agriculturist," Dr. A. G. Moore; "Distemper and influenza," Dr. F. T. Notz; "Balancing the horse's ration," Prof. E. L. Putter; "Fers poisoning," Dr. H. H. Owen; "Some sheep troubles," Dr. W. H. Lette; "Some poultry diseases," Dr. B. T. Sims; "The intradermal tuberculin test," Dr. E. B. Osborn.
