Kim Hapke, ND

When you're facing depression or anxiety, it can seem like your options are stark: do nothing or go on medications that can have unpleasant side-effects.

Botanicals can fill the gap. Naturopathic doctor Kim Hapke employs botanicals that can have a balancing effect on hormones. These botanicals range in their effects, from some that have a drug-like effect to some that act more as food does in balancing the body.

If you are facing chronic problems with depression or anxiety, if you have tried medications and didn't like the side effects or simply have reservations about "going there," consult with Dr. Hapke about another path.

In her practice located at Sisters Art Works, Dr. Hapke works with herbal remedies, bodywork including massage, homeopathy, diet and behavioral changes and offers counseling to help put you on the path toward a healthy, fulfilled life.
