

Terrebonne man has home raided

BROOKINGS (AP) — Authorities have raided the home of a Central Oregon man who they say has been trafficking methamphetamine in the region for a long period of time.

Police had been investigating the suspect for several months before his Saturday arrest. He was held on suspicion of possession, delivery and manufacture of meth before posting 10 percent of $65,000 bail.

Authorities say the suspect had been returning from Portland when they stopped him on Highway 97. They allegedly found $30,000 in cash in his pickup truck.

Detectives also executed a search warrant on the man's Terrebonne home, where they say they found meth, drug records and a gun.

Bend police Lt. Ken Mannix also says two of the suspect's vehicles were seized.

The case remains under investigation.

Oregonian seeks restraining order for sheriff's emails

PORTLAND (AP) — The Oregonian is asking a state judge for a temporary restraining order to keep the Grant County Sheriff from deleting his government emails.

The Oregonian/OregonLive reports that their lawyers asked for the restraining order on Friday.

They say Sheriff Glenn Palmer "systematically" destroys his official emails in a potentially criminal practice that should be stopped.

Portland lawyer Charles Hinkle says Palmer deletes every email that he sends or receives to the email address that is posted on the sheriff's office's website.

Hinkle says the sheriff continued to delete them even after receiving a public records request for them.

A hearing on the restraining order has been scheduled for 9 a.m. Tuesday in Grant County Circuit Court.

Half-marathon entices runners/walkers

Sisters Kiwanis is organizing a half-marathon (13.1 miles) called The Hoodoo Challenge.

One hundred percent of the proceeds from the race will support the Sisters Kiwanis Club scholarships and community service projects.

The half-marathon with 1,035 feet of elevation gain is scheduled for September 24.

Runners and walkers are welcome; however, no pets are allowed. The race is limited to 200 participants. The estimated course completion time for most runners is from two to four hours, while the estimated time for walkers is from four to six hours. The race course passes Island, Link and Sand Lakes and is relatively flat with a few rolling hills. The end of the race course has an elevation climb of 1,035 feet to the summit of Hoodoo. After finishing the race, participants can walk back down to the parking lot.

The entry fee is $70 through August 23 and $85 after August 23. (For Hoodoo season pass holders, the entry fee is $50.) Registration closes on September 18 or when full. Sign up at www.ultrasignup.com. More information is available on the FootZone website. Matt Kirchoff, the race director, can be reached at 541-647-7586 for more information about the race.

An after-party barbecue will be held in the Hoodoo parking lot. The barbecue is free for participants and $10/person for families and friends that would like to join in the food. There will also be a vendor area set up in the parking lot.

The Hoodoo Challenge replaces last year's Black Butte Challenge. The Hoodoo course is a longer course and can accommodate more participants. Kiwanis is working in partnership with the U.S. Forest Service, McKenzie River Ranger District and Sisters Ranger District.
