

Sisters Movie House to help horses find homes

Sisters Movie House is showing the film “Harry and Snowman” starting October 21 — and they’ll be taking donations for an equine charity as well.

“Harry and Snowman” tells the heart-warming story of Dutch immigrant Harry deLeyer who journeyed to the United States after World War II and developed a transformative relationship with a broken-down Amish plow horse he rescued off a slaughter truck bound for the glue factory.

Harry paid $80 for the horse and named him Snowman. In less than two years, Harry and Snowman went on to win the triple crown of show-jumping, beating the nation’s blue-bloods. They were famous for their day and traveled around the world together. Their chance meeting at a Pennsylvania horse auction saved them both and crafted a friendship that lasted a lifetime.

In the film, 86-year-old Harry tells their Cinderella love story firsthand, as he continues to train on today’s show-jumping circuit.

will take donations for The Snowman Rescue Fund during the film’s run. The Snowman Rescue Fund supports Omega Horse Rescue & Rehabilitation Center, which gives other slaughter-bound horses the same chance that Snowman had to become a part of a loving family.

Omega has placed over 1,200 horses since its foundation in 1997, and rescues slaughter-bound horses from the New Holland Auction, the same auction where Harry deLeyer rescued Snowman in 1956. Omega saves, rehabilitates, re-trains and prepares horses for adoption into new homes. For more information visit www.harryandsnowman.com/actioncampaign.

“ St. Charles is more than a donor. St. Charles is a partner. Without St. Charles, Grandma’s House could not exist.”

~Woody Meideros, executive director

Staff and volunteers offer life skills and parenting classes, counseling and emotional support to help each woman make good decisions for herself and her baby. In 24 years, Grandma’s House has cared for more than 400 teen moms and babies – and continues to be “home” to many of them long after they leave.
