Oregon Christmas trees may cost more this year

SALEM (AP) — Christmas trees in Oregon may cost a bit more this year as the supply of holiday firs in the state has dropped.

The Salem Statesman Journal reports that an oversupply of trees in 2015 has led some growers to leave the market, meaning there are fewer trees to go around this year, which could push prices slightly up.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, harvest and sales of trees dropped 26 percent in 2015 compared to 2010. USDA statistician Dave Losh says growers planted an overabundance of trees compared to the demand for them.

Pacific Northwest Christmas Tree Association Executive Director Bryan Ostlund says while supplies have tightened, there is no shortage of Christmas trees in Oregon.

La Magie Bakery & Cafe

'Tis the season for baked delights — and where else would you turn for the wonders of the season other than La Magie Bakery & Café?

From Buche de Noel (otherwise known as the traditional "Yule log" dessert) in a variety of sizes to signature pies, La Magie Bakery & Café offers the treats that will make your holiday table special. The Buche de Noel comes in three flavors: chocolate, lemon and strawberry (hint: get all three).

Get your orders in for your special Christmas desserts. Give them 72 hours' lead time and your guests will think you've got an army of elves in your kitchen.

You are also welcome to come in and dine. La Magie Bakery & Café has a full menu for breakfast and lunch, delicious coffee, cocktails, beer — and a wonderful atmosphere to relax in and take a break from the holiday hustle and bustle.

The Pony Express

Even Santa Claus needs some help getting Christmas packages where they need to go. Good thing Sisters Country can turn to The Pony Express.

The Pony Express has wonderful Christmas paper, holiday-themed packaging, Christmas cards in packs and as singles, and all the accessories you need to gussy up your gifts. Then they'll get it off to its destination for you, making everything convenient for one-stop shipping. That can be a priceless gift in itself during the sometimes-stressful season!

They can ship most anything, so if you've got something unusual to send off, ask how they can help.

Come to The Pony Express for convenient, friendly, hometown service. Everyone from the North Pole to the Pacific Northwest — and all across the world — appreciates it!

The Nest Design Studio

If you've got plans to build, remodel or redecorate in 2017, you owe yourself a visit to The Nest Design Studio. Here you'll find ideas and items of décor that will truly satisfy your desire to create a unique and expressive space for yourself.

Emily Head graduated with a degree in design from BYU, and after graduation started with a kitchen and bath design company, Neil Kelly, in Portland, Oregon. She has been doing both interior design work and designing and drawing plans for homes for Craftsman Homes by Design. Emily brings a unique look, mixing the rustic style that is popular in this area with clean lines and sophistication. She is able to do design work on computer as well as do renderings by hand, depending on what the client would prefer.

The Nest also carries beautiful bedding, new lighting choices and beautiful accessories — and beautiful holiday décor items.
