

Jake Larson

Sisters High School January 2017 Student of the Month

Jake Larson attributes his success in school to hard work — and the enjoyment of getting involved.

“The more involved you are, the more fun it is,” he says.

That involvement means serving as ASG Treasurer, working as an IEE Intern and playing baseball and basketball.

Jake moved to Sisters with his family in the fourth grade, and ever since he has been taking advantage of his school opportunities.

“I definitely got into more outdoor stuff,” he says. “There’s no way another school would have something like that.”

He also enjoys creating things that last in his woods and ceramics classes.

Jake plans to go to college to pursue mechanical engineering, leaving behind a school environment that has given him a lot to work with.

“Being here is really special,” he says.

“Jake is one of the most consistently excellent students at SHS. He has earned this honor every day in every class since his freshman year. Jake is a deeply thoughtful and insightful young man who holds himself to high standards in everything he does, including academics, athletics, and even those informal interactions between and among students and teachers that define the culture of our school. Good luck as you head onward, Jake!”

— Rob Corrigan

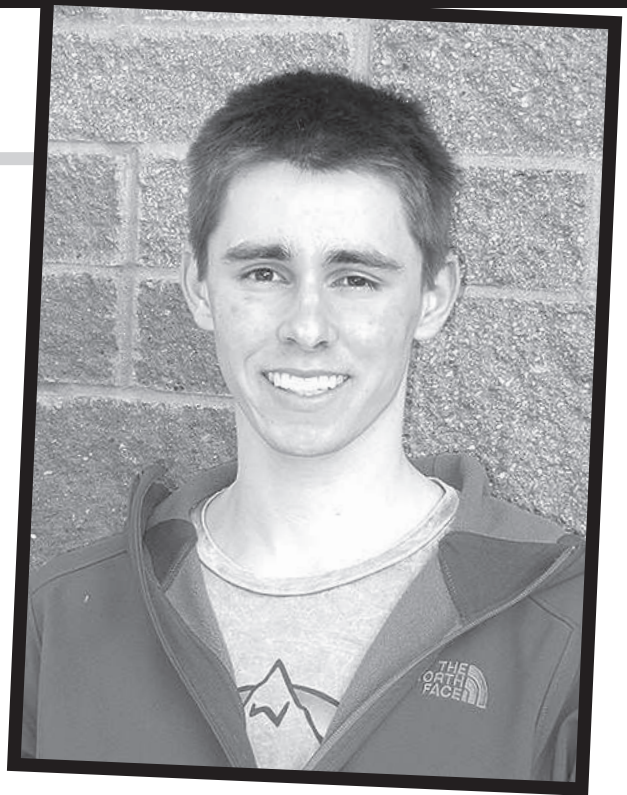

“Jacob Larson is one of the most enjoyable students I have ever worked with. He works hard, thinks ahead, and is innovative in solving problems. I am excited to see what he ends up doing in the future.”

— Tony Cosby

“Jake is the kind of person who doesn’t count the days, but makes the days count. He makes conscious decisions to give his best effort, to be positive, and to make learning relevant. He is a young man of integrity and character. It truly is a pleasure to have him in class. He just makes people better.”

— Samra Spear

“Amazing effort at everything he does. He does things the right way, and his friends say he is ‘crazy smart.’ He is the full package and never holds himself above others. He is a good friend, good student and a great teammate. It is a privilege to have Jake as a member of Sisters High School. Very good guy.”
