FIREFIGHTERS:
 Prescribed burn set
 for later this week

exercise unit slated for treatment is two miles southwest of Sisters and a half-mile south of Cow Camp Horse Camp. This unit was selected to be burned to decrease hazardous fuel accumulations within the wildland-urban interface near Edgington Road.

The benefits of this training include standardization of firefighting basics along with ICS, allowing federal agencies to plug firefighters in anywhere in the country.

Due to the location of this unit, the public could see smoke and drivers may experience smoke impacts on nearby highways and forest roads. For all prescribed fires, signs will be posted on significant nearby forest roads and state highways that could be impacted. No road closures are anticipated. Residences and businesses in the area are advised to keep their windows and doors closed during the night hours to avoid any potential smoke impacts.

Fuels specialists will follow policies outlined in the Oregon Department of Forestry smoke management plan, which governs prescribed fires (including pile burning), and attempts to minimize impacts to visibility and public health. Keep up with prescribed burns in Central Oregon with a live map at <http://www.fs.fed.us/r6/webmaps/deschutes/cofms-rxfire/>.

For more information, visit the Deschutes website at www.fs.usda.gov/deschutes and follow on twitter @CentralORFire.
