

Full immersion in Scottish festivals

Nugget correspondent Macgregor Hay is winging his way to Edinburgh, Scotland, for the 70th anniversary of the world-renowned August festivals. The International Festival started in 1947 and serves up the world's best classical music, opera, dance and theater. It was joined by the Fringe Festival which features comedy, dance, the spoken word and children's shows — over 3,200 shows with 50,000 performances.

The International Art Festival began in 2004 and features visual art with 40 exhibitions. The Royal Edinburgh Military Tattoo, a global international gathering of musicians and performers, commenced in 1949. Started in 1982, the Edinburgh International Book Festival has 1,000 events featuring international writers and thinkers.

Beginning the week of August 14, The Nugget will take readers to Edinburgh, Scotland on a whirlwind two-week visit to this famous festival city.

Among the events will be sessions by authors Peter

May; Stuart MacBride; Ian Rankin; and Alexander McCall Smith. Topics and events such as: How To Read A Novel; a Laurel and Hardy tribute; Muslims in Britain; Travels with My Easel; Mean Girls; writing fiction, the future of Scotland with Brexit looming; a Simon and Garfunkel tribute; the Edinburgh Farmers Market; the Stirling Highland Games...

There will also be feasting and pub crawling, the bus system from a rider's viewpoint ... and more.

Slainte! (To your health).
