

LIBRARY ART:
Photographer has traveled widely photography can be seen at Sisters Gallery & Frame Shop.

Wendy and her husband, Bill, moved to Sisters in July of 2008, following eight months of volunteer work in Peru, and four months of travel in Ecuador, Chile, and Argentina. This show includes photographs from all of these places, as well as Norway, Ireland, and the United States.

“ Each piece depicts something about the life and culture of the place, like that yarn from the family-owned mill in Ireland.

— Wendy Birnbaum

“Each piece depicts something about the life and culture of the place, like that yarn from the family-owned mill in Ireland,” she said.

You’ll find a bicycle at an old hacienda in Argentina, a portrait of beautiful wine glasses in Argentina, and even two of Wendy’s black-and-white photographs, “Cheerios” and “Tranquility,” shot with a view camera and printed in the darkroom in the 1990s.

“Through my photography, I tell the story of what I see and feel in the world around me,” Birnbaum told The Nugget. “I create my photographs first in my mind — images which move me emotionally. My photographs portray how I see a world of beauty in nature, history, and life.”

Meanwhile, the walls of the library’s Community Room are alive with the artistic imagination of kids in the summer programs at the library, in an exhibit curated by Paige Bentley-Flannery, Community Librarian.

While construction is ongoing at school, Sisters Elementary School held its summer program at the library. Using the theme, “Build A Better World,” instructor Shelly Hicks based lessons on this theme for four weeks. They visited various locations, including the Sisters Community Garden and Harmony Farm Sanctuary, and discussed how they could help build a better world right here in Sisters, or right at their homes. They made drawings, and then created paintings filled with flowers, gardens, the town, and working together.

The Sisters Family Fun Storytime group created art pieces after storytime. The children learned to use paint on canvas for the first time, and families worked together to create a community painting while discussing what they did this summer to build a better world. The children and their families took advantage of the warm weather to paint outside, creating their own little masterpieces. Maybe they made a bird-house, picked up the trash, walked a neighbor’s dog, or worked in a garden. Again, their artwork is filled with lots of flowers and gardens.

The Tween Art Camp created three pieces of art that answered the question, “What would you give an artist to build a better world?” Answer: A camera, a beautiful day, and a bright flower.

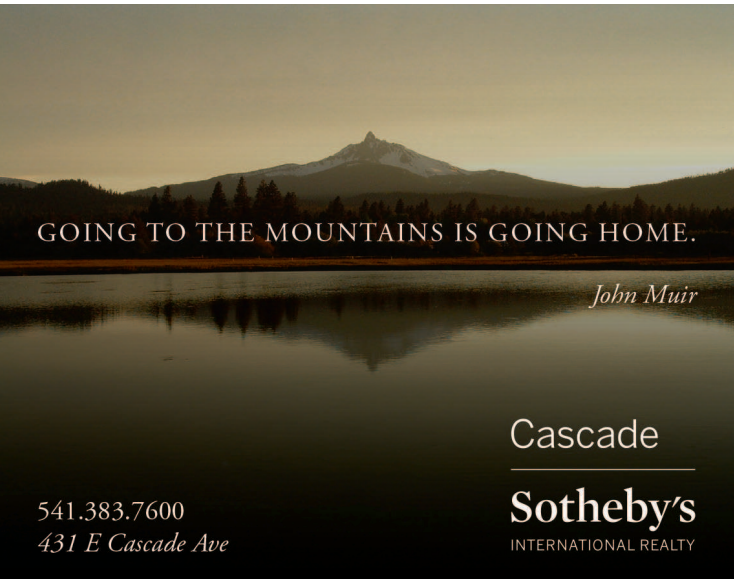

Both exhibits will remain up through August in the library at 310 N. Cedar St. in Sisters. Hours are Tuesdays through Fridays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. All Deschutes Public Library branches will be closed on the day of the solar eclipse, Monday, August 21.
